NATS DEFEAT RED SOX, 1-0, IN 10 INNINGS

20,000 Chilled Fans, at Inaugural, See Lone Tally by Myer.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY LEAVES BEFORE RUN

Crowder Bests MacFayden in Duel When Manush Gets Decisive Bingle.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

The flying heels of Buddy Myer, given liberty to swoosh down the sodden base paths by the two-base hit of Heinie Manush, delivered unto the Nats a 1-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the tenth inning of the cold, gray afternoon of yesterday and terminated a pitching duel that wrote a brilliant chapter into the records of opening day history in Washington.

The sliding form of Myer, reaching home plate safely after a dazzling burst of speed from first base, was the climax of a game that produced three heroes in victory and one in defeat.

There was General Alvin Crowder who summoned all the wiles and guile acquired in a long career on big league pitching mounds to shut out the Red Sox over the full ten innings with seven hits.

There was Heinie Manush who delivered the decisive two-base hit in the tenth.

There was Buddy Myer, whose speed made the lone run of the game possible.

And there was frail little Danny Macfayden, looking more like a chemistry student behind his horn-rimmed spectacles, than a big league pitcher, who saw the glory of nine innings of shutout ball for the Red Sox vanish before the combination of events in the tenth.

Rout Hoover Jinx.

The Nats yesterday routed the Hoover jinx, winning their first inaugural game in four years, as 20,000 chilled fans forgot the elements to look upon the two teams locked in a hurling duel. It may be significant, however, that the Nats didn't win until after the President and Mrs. Hoover left their seats in the seventh inning.

A lapse of MacFayden himself put the Nats' winning run on base when the little Boston right-hander walked Buddy Myer, with one out. Two strikes were registered against Heinie Manush when he rifled the next pitch into the far right field corner as Myer scampered around the bases to arrive at the plate a fraction of a second before the relay from Webb and McManus, despite quick handling of the ball.

Neither Crowder nor MacFayden took the cue from President Hoover's first pitch. The throw from the President to Umpire Hildebrand was wild and cleared the latter's head, coming to repose in the hands of the Red Sox players standing at attention on the field.

Usual Ceremonies.

Previously the well-known opening game ceremonies had been staged. President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Club, and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills led the parade to the flag pole, arm in arm, as the ball players marched behind, making a snaky trail over the fresh-curried infield in a step about as military as a voodoo dance.

But eventually Old Glory was raised amid the strains of "The Star-

Gamaliel Bradford, Noted Author, Dies

Biographer Had Been Ill for Several Months in Bay State.

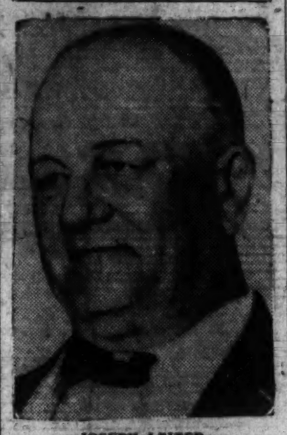
Wellesley, Mass., April 11 (A.P.).—Gamaliel Bradford, internationally known biographer and author, died tonight in his home at Wellesley Hills. He had been ill for several months.

Despite the handicap of ill health during the greater part of his life, Bradford devoted many years of exhaustive study to the biographies which brought him acclaim in the United States and abroad.

Cole Blease Will Seek Chair of Senator Smith

Greenville, S. C., April 11 (A.P.).—Cole L. Blease, former United States senator and governor, tonight definitely announced his candidacy for the seat now held by Senator E. D. Smith in the Democratic primary this summer.

CAPITALIST DEAD



JOSEPH LEITER.

JOSEPH LEITER DIES AT HOME IN CHICAGO

Capitalist and Noted Turf Enthusiast Pneumonia Victim at 63.

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—Joseph Leiter, capitalist and horse fancier, died today. He was 63 years old.

The world of commerce still remembers his first venture in business, the memorable wheat corner of 1898 that was broken by "Old P. D." Armour, nipping $12,000,000 from the millions amassed by Joseph's father, Levi Leiter, merchandising magnate and once partner of the first Marshall Field.

The multimillionaire, whose pilgrim-topped hats and long flowing coats were known at every American race track, died after a two weeks' illness. At his winter home on the Louisiana coast, Mr. Leiter became ill with heart trouble. He returned to his Chicago Lake Shore residence. Pneumonia set in and death came shortly before 4 p. m. today.

Joseph and three sisters carried the name of Leiter all over the social and business worlds.

Surviving of Levi's four children now is only Lady Margaret Hyde, Countess of Suffolk and Berks, who spent eight years seeking to oust her brother as a trustee of the $30,000,000 Leiter estate.

The other two sisters preceded their brother in death: Mrs. Nancy Campbell, widow of a British army officer, and Lady Mary Curzon, wife of the formery Viceroy of India.

Mrs. Campbell, who died two years ago in England, sided with her brother in the litigation with Lady Hyde and the daughter of Lord Curzon.

His widow, and two children, Thomas and Nancy, who was adopted by the Leiters, were at the bedside of the sportsman when he died.

After the appellate court of Illinois, in May, 1931, upheld the ruling of Judge Denis J. Sullivan, denying Lady Hyde's petition for the ouster of Leiter, a compromise was reached between brother and sister. Both resigned as trustees of the estate. The eight years of litigation entailed attorneys fees of more than $1,00,000.

Mr. Leiter, a massive man with a powerful jaw and aggressive mien, for years had captured headlines in the world's newspapers in his career as a grain trader, railroad and utility operator and turfman.

Born to millions, he lived his life on a grand scale. To his racing avo-

Bids Swamp Treasury Offer of 91-Day Bills

(Associated Press.)

Applications totaling $390,374,000 for $75,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills offered April 7 and dated April 13 were announced last night by Secretary Mills.

The lowest bid accepted was 99.7, equal to an annual interest rate of about 1.19 per cent, and the total amount of bids accepted was $76,200,000. The highest bid made was 99.736.

11 PER CENT PAY CUT SOUGHT BY GROUP IN HOUSE

Hoover's Furlough Plan Is Tossed Aside by Economy Unit.

RULES COMMITTEE TO ANSWER TODAY

Slash Would Do Less Harm and Save $67,000,000, McDuffie Says.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Thrusting aside the President's Federal furlough plan, the House economy committee sought a rule yesterday to attach an 11 per cent Government salary-cut rider to the legislative appropriations bill, slashing pay in excess of $1,000.

The House rules committee will meet this morning to pass on the request, espoused by Chairman John McDuffie and backed by a majority of his economy group. It would save $67,000,000, compared with $45,000,000 claimed for Mr. Hoover's alternative plan of a five-day week for per diem employes and staggered system of furloughs without pay.

The rule sought yesterday by Chairman McDuffie would be broad enough to permit consideration of the President's plan, or a compromise proposal of Expenditures Chairman John J. Cochran, as a substitute for the committee's rider.

Will Fight Pay Cuts.

Representative Cochran appeared with Chairman McDuffie before the rules committee yesterday. He did not oppose the rule, but announced he would fight pay cuts to the finish. His compromise plan provides for retirement of superannuated employes, curtailment of leave and nonfilling of vacancies.

Representative McDuffie declared his 11 per cent flat cut on pay over $1,000 would hit the average Federal clerk less severely than the President's proposal.

"It would do the least harm to everybody, and save $67,000,000 of the $1,339,000,000 annual pay roll of the Government," he told the rules committee.

Earlier, Budget Director J. Clawson Roop notified the economy committee he was having trouble in working out a more detailed and accurate estimate of savings under the Hoover plan, but would come before the committee today or tomorrow with the requested data.

Encounters Difficulties.

"I find many difficulties in attempting to detail this information," he said, "particularly the distinction between the two classes and the extent to which they interlock, and I find I can not have any useful analysis available by this afternoon."

Following a late session of the economy committee, Chairman McDuffie announced decision of the group to present its $200,000,000 retrenchment proposals in three sec-

Shortage of $695,846 Revealed in Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.).—Discrepancies in the office of the Cuyahoga County treasurer of $695,846.29 were reported tonight in the findings of State Examiner James N. Main after an extended examination of the county's books.

Of the total deficit reported as of December 18, 1931, the examiner found that $475,099.17 represented tax payments which Treasurer L. G. Collister had received and for which there was money in the treasury or bank, but which had not been certified to the county auditor as paid.

Volcanoes' Eruptions Hurl Cities Into Panic

Ashes Tossed As Far As 600 Miles; Buenos Aires Among Areas Enveloped; Several Earthquakes Are Also Recorded.

Buenos Aires, April 11 (U.P.).—Mighty volcanoes of the South American Andes erupted violently today, spreading a gray blanket of ash across the continent and releasing gases which raised fears for the safety of the populations of interior cities in Argentina and Chile.

The ministry of interior received alarming reports from the province of Mendoza, where authorities urgently requested a supply of oxygen tubes.

It was estimated that more than 3,000 tons of volcanic ash fell on Buenos Aires alone up to 9 p. m. If the estimate is approximately correct the weight of ashes which fell on the hundreds of square miles in the interior would be almost too great for calculation.

The ash was said to contain a fair proportion of fertilizing agents and therefore may benefit the agricultural land over an enormous area.

The township of Malargue, on the Argentine frontier, in Mendoza province, appeared to be the center of the gravest danger. The authorities of Malargue reported 16 inches of ash had fallen on the town by sundown and that the atmosphere was heavily charged with sulphur fumes which made breathing extremely difficult.

The Malargue authorities asked for oxygen tubes and forwarded a similar request from the town of San Rafael, which reported similar conditions.

The volcanic peaks, on the Chilean-Argentine frontier, spouted flames and ash that sped 500 miles eastward across the continent to Buenos Aires, and 100 miles farther to the Uruguayan capital of Montevideo, and

DEMOCRATS TO CURB TARIFFS IN TAX BILL

Party Senate Leaders Agree at Conference to Help Speed Measure.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Democratic senators, in a party conference last night, declared against efforts to make the billion-dollar tax increase bill the vehicle for numerous import tariffs and unanimously pledged themselves to speed the tax revision measure to quick enactment.

Votes are to be had on the coal and oil tariffs, put into the tax bill by the House, and another vote is to be had on a copper tariff, but the conference declared itself against opening the tariff door further.

The Democrats not only proposed quick action on the measure when it gets to the Senate floor, but said they would seek to have the hearings before the finance committee ended sooner than April 22, the date they have been scheduled to close.

The result of the four-hour gathering, attended by all of the party leaders in the Senate and most of the Democratic membership, was set forth

Donald Woodward Wed in New York

President of Department Store Here Marries Mrs. Sypesteyn.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Donald Woodward, president of Woodward & Lothrop, Inc., Washington Department Store, was married today to Mrs. Margaret Sypesteyn, also of Washington, at the Little Church Around the Corner.

The Rev. Randolph Ray officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed by only a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will live in Washington.

Mr. Woodward also is a director of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. He makes his home at 2116 Le Roy place northwest, and is a member of the Racquet, Burning Tree, Columbia Country, Chevy Chase, University, Saddle, Jockey and the Blue Ridge Rod and Gun clubs.

China Sells Reds U. S. Grain Sent to Starving

Vancouver, British Columbia, April 11 (A.P.).—L. M. Cosgrave, Canadian trade Commissioner at Shanghai, has informed the Canadian government, it was reported here today, that China has sold to Soviet Russia 10,000 tons each of wheat and flour designed for famine sufferers by the United States Farm Board.

An association of leading Chinese millers who bought the products from the Farm Board at a low price and on liberal terms negotiated the transaction, Cosgrave reported, and additional sales are expected. Canadian grain men expressed surprise at the information.

U.S. ARMS PROPOSAL ASSAILED BY FRANCE

Effort to Speed Up Parley Gets Setback as Plan Debate Is Delayed.

Geneva, April 11 (U.P.).—The United States appeared to have failed tonight in its effort to "speed up" the world disarmament conference by introducing a plan for abolition of heavy mobile guns, tanks and gases.

Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium and head of the American delegation, introduced the proposals in a speech which obviously was an answer to the French plan for an international armed force, supervised by the League of Nations, to guard the security of nations which sacrifice their arms. He asked immediate action on the plan.

"It is clear that even some of the nations which maintain the highest levels of armaments, adequate presumably to delay possible aggression, are among those most fearful of their national safety," Mr. Gibson said, describing the plan as designed to provide security by abolition of aggressive weapons.

The American plan was received

Senator Harris Is "Critically Ill"

System of Georgian Has Broken Down; Heart Ailment Recurs.

(Associated Press.)

Physicians attending Senator Harris, of Georgia, said last night he was "critically ill" and his condition is less favorable than it has been at any time since he was operated upon several weeks ago.

The physicians said the senator's system has "broken down," although he has practically recovered from the effects of the operation. It was said the senator had suffered a renewal of his old heart trouble, and there also was some additional evidence of intestinal intoxication.

In the report on his condition, the physicians said that while his condition is critical, no adverse development is expected within the next 24 hours.

Second Mexican Train Derailment Kills One

Mexico City, April 11 (A.P.).—One trainman was killed and another seriously burned at Obregon, in the State of Guanajuato, in the derailment last night of an international train from Laredo, Tex., by unidentified persons.

It was the second time in three weeks that the train, bound for Mexico City, had been derailed. It went into a ditch when it struck a stretch of track from which the spikes were loosened. The engine overturned, spilling oil which set fire to a second-class passenger car and a baggage car. Both cars were destroyed.

HOOVER PLANS MOVE TO HALT STOCK LOSSES

Would Rescue Business Sentiment From Its Despondency.

PROGRAM EXPECTED TO BE KNOWN TODAY

Whitney Denies Bear Raids Controlling Factor in Market Declines.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

New measures of vigorous cooperative action to stem the distressing tide of stock market liquidation were whipped into shape by President Hoover last night after another Blue Monday in Wall street had launched security trading on its fifth successive week of practically unbroken declines.

An embryonic project calculated to rescue business sentiment from the trough of despond into which it was hurled in mid-March by the shock of the tax debacle in the House of Representatives has been under tentative consideration at the White House for several days, but has been held up pending the urgent conferences essential to getting the budget-balancing program well under way on Capitol Hill.

Although White House officials were silent last night on the precise nature of the new rescue plans now under consideration, some of the President's friends believe they contemplate quick and effective clarification of the legislative outlook as well as further steps to bring strong banking support into the stock market through immediate general application of the emergency provisions of the Glass-Steagall banking bill.

Announcement Likely Today.

Some of those who conferred with President Hoover yesterday left the White House with the feeling that definite announcement of the new plans probably would be forthcoming today.

Climaxing a long period of studious attention to stock market trends and to the general economic situation, the President's conferences yesterday were almost coincident with the appearance of Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, before the banking and currency committee to tell of the recent volume and effect of short-selling operations.

As part of his testimony, Mr. Whitney submitted a stock market graph revealing that the record low-price troughs of December 20, January 5, February 11 and April 1 coincided to the day, in each case, with a peak in the curve of open short commitments. In the intervals between the once-a-month dips to the record low average prices the curve of values moved precisely in inverse relationship to the curve of the open short interest.

Mr. Whitney denied vigorously that

Youth Held as Writer Of Kidnaping Letter

Norfolk, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Joseph Bullock, 24, was arrested here today when he called at the postoffice for a letter mailed by Samuel J. Jones, president of the Berkeley Machine Works & Foundry Co., according to direction received in a note threatening to kidnap his 6-year-old daughter. Bullock is employed on a James River vessel.

Jones received the first of two letters two weeks ago. He mailed a letter containing blank paper to "John Doe," care of general delivery. The postoffice traced the recipient to his home. A second letter was addressed to Jones, and he replied with the envelope called for today.

Woman's Try Vain to Use Traced Bill in Greenwich.

DASHED AWAY ON DETECTION

"Jafsie" on Secret Trip as Story of Activity Is Detailed.

Greenwich, Conn., April 11 (A.P.).—A middle-aged woman fled from a bakery here tonight after a $20 note which she had offered was identified positively by the proprietress as one of the Lindbergh ransom notes. Police said the note bore the number KB 03387539 A.

The woman, who had come to the store in a green sedan driven by a chauffeur, grabbed the note and ran when the proprietress, described by police as a Mrs. Decornville, exclaimed:

"Why, that's one of the Lindbergh bills."

The bill number was originally announced at police headquarters as KB 03387529 A, a number which did not appear on the official list of ransom notes. Officials announced later, however, that a recheck had shown the next to the last digit was a "3" instead of a "2."

Description Broadcast.

The police broadcast of the incident follows:

"Greenwich, Conn.

"Police department reports a woman of following description went into bakeshop in city of Greenwich, made a purchase and presented $20 bill in payment. Storekeeper looked at bill and remarked it was one of the Lindbergh bills.

"Woman grabbed bill out of storekeeper's hand and ran out of store and jumped into green town Packard sedan. License number unknown. It was waiting outside with a chauffeur at the back door.

"Woman is white. Age 42. Five feet six inches. Good looking. Dark complexioned. Wore string of green, silver beads around neck. Gray felt hat. Gray tweed coat. Brown dress.

"Stop for questioning."

Greenwich is about 30 miles northeast of New York City, just inside the Connecticut State line.

Condon on Secret Mission.

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—Dr. John F. Condon, 70-year-old negotiator for the return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's kidnaped son, left his home today on a secret mission, which gave rise to reports that he had reestablished contact with the kidnapers. He was accompanied by two men carrying two suit cases.

Condon returned to his Bronx home at nightfal, still bearing the two suit cases, and declining to give any report on his mission or to say

Reputed Italian Duke Gets Mail Fraud Term

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—John W. Gugliucci, 46, was sentenced to serve five years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta today for mail fraud. He claimed to be an Italian duke.

After Gugliucci pleaded guilty to a 16-count indictment, Federal prosecutors told the court he had published a chain of fake advertising mediums and for seven years had collected an average of $1,000 weekly from victims chosen from among advertisers in legitimate Sunday papers.

Lindbergh Warned 'Double-Crossing' Probable.

GANG MEMBER CHEATED PALS

Negotiators at Norfolk Fear Success Periled by Incident.

Special to The Washington Post.

Norfolk, Va., April 11.—There was a break between members of the kidnaping gang that abducted the Lindbergh baby two weeks after it disappeared from the nursery of its parents' home on Sourland Mountain, N. J., and Col. Lindbergh himself was warned the latter part of March that one of the gang would attempt to double-cross his confederates in an effort to secure a ransom, without being able to deliver the child.

This is a summary of information known to be in the possession of one or more of the three Norfolk men who since March 9 have been undertaking to negotiate for the return of the child, and who now fear that the hoax practiced on Lindbergh and publication of the serial numbers of the $50,000 in bills will endanger the success of their efforts.

New Contact Believed.

Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, the only one of the three Norfolk negotiators in the city tonight, refused to deny the correctness of the information, and said he could not discuss this phase of the situation until the return to the city of John Hughes Curtis, shipbuilder, who was the first of the three to "contact" a go-between for the kidnapers. The clergyman who visited Col. Lindbergh at Sourlans Mountain March 28, making an airplane trip through a snowstorm to Philadelphia, is believed to be the man who conveyed the warning to the flier.

Lindbergh Told of Break.

It was recalled tonight that Dean Peacock flew to Philadelphia in a Navy plane the day following the return of Curtis from a two-day trip by airplane during which he is said to have contacted the kidnapers.

Curtis is supposed to have learned of the break among the kidnapers on that trip, and regarded the information of sufficient importance to be communicated to Col. Lindbergh in person, even though a storm was brewing the next day.

Dean Peacock is quoted as telling newspapermen today that he was confident the return of the baby rested mainly on the efforts of the Norfolk negotiators, and that he was confident the child would be restored to its parents in good health, also that he was encouraged at the prospect by the continued absence of Mr. Curtis.

Curtis Again Takes to Air.

Curtis left Norfolk yesterday morning in a Navy plane on his third flight in connection with the Lindbergh case. He landed at Exmore, Northampton County, on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, an hour or two after leaving Norfolk, and remained on the ground for an hour and a half, during which he telephoned from a private booth at a golf links. He then proceeded and the plane was forced down at Logan Field, Baltimore. He and the pilot, Lieut. George L. Richard, who gave the name of Bevan at the airport, proceeded to New York by train, it is stated in an afternoon newspaper here.

Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, the third Norfolk negotiator, left the city

Generals of Both Parties Line Up Against Bonus Bill

Proposal for $2,000,000,000 Settlement by Paying Off in Greenbacks Attacked by Rainey as Unsound; Robinson Joins Opposition.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

There was firing from the rear yesterday as the battle for a $2,000,000,000 bonus settlement got under way at the Capitol.

The two buck privates in charge of the bonus push—Representatives Wright Patman, of Texas, and William P. Connery, of Massachusetts—found themselves under the fire of their own Democratic generals.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader of the House, listened to the Patman scheme for issuing $2,000,000,000 or more of greenbacks to pay the bonus and then gave out a statement in which he denounced the plan as "uneconomic, unsound and destructive."

Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the Senate, issued a warning against the bonus bill at about the same time.

Thus, Democratic as well as Republican leaders in Congress, are now lined up with President Hoover against the legislation, the opposition of Speaker John N. Garner being taken for granted.

Despite this formidable alliance against them, Representatives Patman and Connery are supremely confident that the House will vote for a cash payment of the bonus.

Antihoarding Bond Sales End Tomorrow; Goal Won

Baby bonds used by the Citizens Reconstruction Organization to lure hoarded money from its hiding places are believed by Secretary Mills to have served their purpose and their sale will be discontinued tomorrow.

The Secretary announced last night that the books on the issue of 2 per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness would be closed. He did not announce the total of the bonds that have been sold, but officials have pointed out that the good accomplished by them far exceeded the amount, which was never expected to be large.

The total sales were said, unofficially, to be about $30,000,000. The department's public debt statement for March 31 showed that the sale

Supreme Court Invalidates Redistricting of 3 States

Laws of New York, Minnesota and Missouri Declared Void Because of Governors' Failure to Sign Them; New Statutes Held Remedy.

(Associated Press.)

Three States were told yesterday by the Supreme Court that their reapportionment laws were invalid because they lacked their governors' approval.

New York, Minnesota and Missouri had passed statutes reshaping their congressional districts, but the decision threw the tangle back where it was when they began.

The question presented in all three was the same—whether the Legislature had the right to redistrict without the governor's signature on the legislation—as is required where ordinary statutes are concerned, unless passed over his veto.

Justice Cardozo took no part in the case, as he had participated in the New York Supreme Court's decision, but the other eight justices were apparently unanimous in their agreement that redistricting was lawmaking and that the governor has an important place in it.

Immediately there arose the prospect that every candidate for the House in Minnesota and Missouri would have to run in the State at large unless their Legislatures passed a new and valid redistricting law in the brief time before election. Chief Justice Hughes said so in his opinion.

Both these States lost House mem-

WITNESSES IDENTIFY 4 IN HONOLULU CASE

Darrow Quizzes 2 Closely After Prosecutor Tells Vivid Slaying Story.

Honolulu, April 11 (A.P.).—Brown fingers were leveled today from the witness chair at Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three Navy men as the prosecution began presenting evidence by which it hopes to imprison the quartet for the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai.

Two witnesses, Edward Ulii, cousin of the lynch victim, and George Von Arnswald, a policeman, quickly identified the four in connection with the abduction last January 8, of the young Hawaiian and in the subsequent futile dash of an automobile toward the sea with his sheet-shrouded body.

The New York and Washington society woman sat stiffly upright and obviously under strain to retain her composure as Ulii told in broken English and native pathos how Kahahawai had been lured into an automobile and whisked away.

Smiles Only Once.

Only once did a smile flit over her patrician features. That was when Clarence Darrow, generalissimo of the defense, turned and grinned at her as she entered the courtroom. Her answering smile appeared forced.

John C. Kelley, Honolulu's new prosecutor, told a vivid story of the abduction and slaying in his opening statement, but Darrow, keeping the prosecution in the dark as much as possible regarding his plans, reserved his statement to the mixed jury.

Always alert, the veteran Chicago lawyer twice interrupted the stories of prosecution witnesses. He questioned them closely as to whether Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, a codefendant, made any remark when the car containing Kahahawai's body was stopped while it was dashing toward the wild waters about Koko Head, near the outskirts of the city.

Testifies as to Actions.

Ulii testified he had gone to the judiciary building with Kahahawai, January 8, the day of the tragedy. The latter there made his daily report pending retrial on charges of participating with four other men in an attack on Mrs. Massie, wife of the lieutenant and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

The witness pointed out Albert O. Jones, one of the two accused enlisted men, as the person who handed Kahahawai a spurious warrant by which the abductors gained their end. Jones arose and gazed unflinchingly at Ulii.

Wore False Mustache.

The latter previously had named the abductors as Mrs. Fortescue, Massie and Edward J. Lord, the fourth defendant. He said Massie wore a false mustache.

As Ulii pointed to Mrs. Fortescue as the woman in the abduction car she did not look up.

William Dickson, part Hawaiian, court clerk, to whom Kahahawai had been reporting as probation officer, said Mrs. Fortescue had come to his office a few days before the killing and learned that the young Hawaiian was coming there daily.

The futile race of the death car toward Koko Head, from where Kahahawai's body could have been thrown to the strong tides and the sharks, was described by Von Arnswald, who told how he had stopped the machine and found the body.

Nurse and Woman Hurt In Taxicab-Auto Crash

A taxicab load of Garfield Hospital nurses, on their way to classes at George Washington University, figured in a collision at Vermont avenue and Q street yesterday afternoon. One of the nurses and a woman passenger in the other machine were slightly injured.

Miss Laura Schubert, 42 years old, of 3728 Oliver street northwest, passenger in the automobile of Mrs. Minnie B. Murphy, of the same address, was treated at Emergency Hospital, where she was taken by the fire rescue squad, for shock and bruises. She later left the hospital. Miss Jean Williams, 18 years old, Garfield nurse, was bruised.

McLean President Of Brookland Body

Citizens Association Is on Record as Opposing New Gas Plant.

The Brookland Citizens Association last night elected new officers to serve for the ensuing year, at a meeting in the Masonic Temple, Twelfth and Monroe streets northeast.

Those elected were Marvin M. McLean, president; William Lewis, vice president; R. N. Ashmun, secretary; Noel B. Parks, financial secretary; Dr. A. S. Mowbray, treasurer, and Mr. McLean and Dr. George R. Ellis, the retiring president, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The association voiced opposition to the proposed erection of a gas plant in the Northeast suburban section. A new school building, to take the place of the present Brookland School, was requested.

Route of Buses Entering Washington Approved

The Arlington & Fairfax Motor Transportation Co. was granted permission yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission to enter Washington via the Highway Bridge and Fourteenth street, east on D street, north on Thirteenth street, east on E to Tenth, and then out via Constitution avenue and Fourteenth street. The buses are being substituted for the traction service.

The Washington-Alexandria bus line and the A. B. & W. Rapid Transit Co.' local buses were also ordered to follow the same route, beginning today.

Kalorama Citizens Laud Employment Committee

Lauding the work of the District committee on employment, the Kalorama Citizens Association, at a meeting last night in the John Quincy Adams School, Nineteenth and California streets northwest, pledged its support and declared it stood ready to aid in any way.

Inset shows Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, who termed "ridiculous" recent charges by administration leaders that "bear raids" had been made on the market.

PUNISHMENT ASKED FOR BUYER OF RUM

Senator Sheppard Proposes Drastic Prohibition Bills; Digest's Poll Hit.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Sheppard yesterday took issue in the Senate with the Literary Digest's prohibition polls, after they had been inserted in the record by Senator Bingham with the assertion that more than 70 per cent of the replies were for repeal.

The Texas Democrat, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, said while the magazine's 1930 poll showed a majority against prohibition, the congressional elections of that year resulted in a Congress "with a decided majority for prohibition."

"The election was a repudiation of the Digest's poll and the same result will occur this year," he said.

Senator Bingham, a Connecticut Republican and antiprohibitionist, said the 1922 poll showed only 20 per cent of the replies for repeal, and the 1930 poll only 40 per cent, "while now it runs to over 70 per cent."

Shortly after the exchange with Senator Bingham, Senator Sheppard offered three prohibition bills. They would provide for exemption from dry law penalties for those acting in official capacities to obtain evidence; would subject the purchaser as well as the seller to the law's penalties, and fix a penalty for the purchaser at not more than $10,000 fine or five years in prison.

Piney Branch Approves Curb on Securities Sales

Approval of the bill pending in Congress to regulate the sale of securities by brokers in the District was approved last night in a resolution adopted by the Piney Branch Citizens Association, at a meeting held at the Hamline M. E. Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets.

An election of officers was held to fill vacancies created with the retirement of several officers of the Association last October. Those elected were G. L. Shorey, president; F. C. Merritt, vice president, and Lewis Jackson, who was elected a member of the executive council.

HOOVER PLANS STEPS TO HALT DECLINES IN STOCK MARKET

bear raids had been a controlling factor in the recent sharp declines in stock prices, pointing out that over a period of seven months in 1931 short sales made up only about 5 per cent of the total market turnover. When pressed by Claude R. Branch, the committee counsel, whether he would "swear under oath" that there had been no bear raiding on the exchange since last May, Mr. Whitney said he preferred the records to show that he believed there had been none.

Mr. Whitney quickly rejected the suggestion of Senator Steiwer (Republican), of Oregon, that it might be best for all interests to close the stock exchange for a time. With almost equal alacrity he rejected the suggestion of Mr. Branch that all short sales on the exchange be so designated by a special symbol on the ticker tape.

Symbol Held No Advantage.

"I can see no advantage in doing that," Mr. Whitney responded.

"Don't you think it might be an advantage to traders to know from hour to hour just how much of the selling was for short account and how much represented sales by owners of the stock?" Mr. Branch asked.

"No more advantage than it would be to indicate purchases for the long account by a special symbol."

The short interest open in the accounts of all member firms on April 6 was 3,059,000 shares, Mr. Whitney told the committee. He regarded it as significant that although stock prices declined steadily from April 1 to April 6, the short interest in the market also declined some 220,000 shares in that period.

This one week, however, was the only period in the chart for 1932 which showed the short-interest curve moving in the same direction with the price curve. In every other major movement since last November an expansion of the short interest was followed for several days by a sharply declining price curve and, conversely, a shrinkage in the open short account was followed by an upturn in the price curve. Moreover, the chart disclosed an almost constant ratio between the volume of short selling and the depth of the day-to-day dips.

The only exceptions to this rule since last December were on days when the market shifted to a new value base on some overshadowing news of politics, business, or international affairs.

A striking example of how the news budget sometimes swept aside the technical considerations of the market's position was cited in the price movements between September 11 and October 9, 1931—the period following announcement of England's abandonment of the gold standard.

During this period the market fell consistently, but there was also a decrease of 2,500,000 shares in the combined short interest.

Last week's drastic liquidation in the stock market was characterized by Mr. Whitney as having been "dreadful," but he branded as "ridiculous" the suggestion that the falling off in values had been enforced by bear depredations.

On the other hand, he said, there were many developments during the week to weaken investment demand for both stocks and bonds. The uncertainty over the tax outlook was one such factor, he said. The revelations concerning Kreuger & Toll bookkeeping were another. Congressional debates over the wisdom of balancing the Federal budget were an unsettling factor also, as were the first quarter earning reports which came during the week from all lines of trade and industry. Finally, the outward gold movement was a somewhat disturbing bit of news.

Mr. Whitney did not undertake to specify the relative influence of each of these unfavorable developments in the national economic picture; but he felt certain that combined they might well explain the heavy liquidation of stocks last week. The concurrent decrease in the short account was in itself conclusive evidence that the decline was not brought about by bear raids.

Holds Labor Unnecessary.

A suggestion that short selling operations which are covered on the same market day be included in the stock exchange's tabulation of bear operations brought the response from Mr. Whitney that such labor seemed unnecessary since every short sale of this class was matched the same day with a purchase.

Pursuing this line, Mr. Branch suggested that the short sale might, nevertheless, exert a marked influence on price sentiment, by reason of the fact that there was nothing to show at the instant of the sale that it would be covered.

In a brief executive session after the all-day examination of Mr. Whitney, the committee agreed to ask the witness to prepare tabulations of the short operations in each of a list of 40 stocks over a period of three to four months.

These statistics will be studied in relation to the price movements of the several stocks in an effort to determine whether any definite relationship can be established between short sales and price declines.

Will Testify Again Today.

Questioning of Mr. Whitney probably will be concluded at the morning session today, after which the committee will postpone examination of witnesses in the bear-raiding inquiry until it has studied the stock tables and tabulations presented yesterday. Later it may call in brokers and traders identified with specific short operations.

Because short commitments frequently are transferred by the customers from one brokerage house to another it would be almost impossible for the stock exchange to trace out the detailed operations of any one individual, Mr. Whitney said.

He promised, however, to cooperate with the committee in every way possible and to make available, without subpena, any records of the exchange or its members that may be desired.

The exchange has enforced since early last October, he added, a rule which forbids a sale for the short account at a price lower than the last previous bona-fide sale, and this, he believed, had operated to check bear assaults upon the market.

Pendulum Swung Too Far.

The present state of stock prices was described as analagous in a measure to the exorbitant market range of 1928-29.

"Why did prices go so low, then?" Senator Brookhart demanded belligerently of the witness.

"Because the pendulum swung too far," Mr. Whitney replied, "just as it has today, when I think the public is trying to give this United States of ours away."

In the course of his examination Mr. Whitney revealed that he was himself the holder of a block of stock for which he had paid $50 a share.

"It's now worth about $5," he said phlegmatically.

"Then that was an error of judgment on your part?" Senator Gore asked.

"It was, senator; a very great error of judgment."

Van Duzer Signal Report Printed.

A report by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, supplementary to his plans to install 35 new traffic lights, and remove 9 signals, was ordered read into the Congressional Record yesterday by Representative Augustine Lonergan (Democrat), Connecticut. The report was requested by Representative Lonergan.

bers under the reapportionment law approved by Congress in 1929. This necessitated a regrouping because of population changes since the last reapportionment several years before.

Minnesota's representation was reduced from 16 to 13, and Missouri from 10 to 9. New York, however, gained 2, its representatives being increased to 45.

New York's two additional representatives will have to run in the State at large, Chief Justice Hughes said, unless that State is redistricted before the November elections.

In his lengthy opinion, Chief Justice Hughes said "the primary question" was whether the power conferred by the Constitution upon the States of prescribing the time, place and manner of choosing their representatives to the National Legislature was that "of making laws."

"The subject matter is the 'time, place and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives,'" he said. "It can not be doubted that the comprehensive words embrace authority to provide a complete code for congressional elections * * * in short, to enact the numerous requirements as to the procedure and safeguards which experience shows are necessary in order to enforce the fundamental right involved. * * * all this * * * involves law making in its essential features and most important aspects."

Minnesota's law was vetoed by Gov. Olson, but the State supreme court decided it was valid nevertheless. In a similar situation in Missouri, that State's highest courts took the view that the supreme court did yesterday.

The New York Legislature passed a resolution which theoretically did not require Gov. Roosevelt's signature but the State courts held it was invalid.

California Franchise Tax Upheld by Divided Court

(Associated Press.)

The California Corporation franchise tax, measured in part on income from tax-exempt securities, was sustained yesterday by a divided Supreme Court, 6 to 3.

The majority, in an opinion by Justice Stone, held that the tax levied on the Pacific Co., Ltd., for 1928 was valid. It was assessed by the State franchise tax commissioners to include interest derived by the company from improvement district bonds, which were tax exempt. The company insisted the tax exemptions must be construed as a binding contract on the State which could not be subsequently abrogated.

Justice Stone cited numerous cases in which the highest court had held States had the authority to levy a franchise tax measured by net property or income, including tax-exempt bonds, and also referred to other precedents which he declared sustained the validity of the tax.

Income from oil and gas produced on Oklahoma public school lands which have been leased was declared exempt from Federal taxation by the Supreme Court in a case against the Coronado Oil & Gas Co.

The court declared such a tax would constitute an illegal levy on a State agency.

Solicitor General Thacher, in asking the Supreme Court how far the Government could go in taxing the agencies and instrumentalities of States, said he was advised that in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico alone taxes aggregating $12,000,000 were involved.

Mitchell Defends Signing Bills After Adjournment

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell defended in the Supreme Court yesterday the action of President Hoover in signing a bill after the final adjournment of the Congress which had passed it.

The question, considered of great importance in regulating the action of Presidents, reached the court in a case of minor importance, in which Congress had referred to the Court of Claims for its adjudication of a claim of Thomas C. Edwards, of Alvin, Tex., under a wartime contract to furnish hay for the Army at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. Congress adjourned sine die March 4, 1931, and President Hoover did not sign the bill until the next day.

Attorney General Mitchell insisted that under the Constitution he had authority to approve bills after the final adjournment of Congress, provided he acted within ten days from the time the bills were presented to him, Sundays excepted.

Representative Hatton W. Sumners, of Texas, chairman of the House judiciary committee, insisted that the House judiciary committee had consistently contended and still maintained that a bill passed by the two houses of Congress which was not signed by the President by the hour Congress finally adjourned was dead.

PRESIDENT PRAISES RED CROSS WORK

Attends Convention Opening and Expresses Hope for Continued Success.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's gratitude to the Red Cross for ministering to the victims of drought, storm and unemployment in time of need was expressed yesterday by President Hoover.

Paying a surprise visit to the opening of the organization's annual convention, Mr. Hoover gave it lavish praise and said the Red Cross "daily demonstrates that fine sense of service and devotion which expresses the heart of the American people."

Hardly a delegate knew the President would attend until the Navy orchestra began the familiar strains of "Hail to the Chief," and he crossed the stage to be greeted by the Red Cross chairman, John Barton Payne.

Mr. Hoover sent word at 10 a. m. that he would speak briefly at 10:30 to the far-flung organization which he heads.

Introduced by Chairman Payne, the President said:

"During the past year the Red Cross has carried a great load in the national burden. It is serving at the same time to give relief from drought, from flood, from storm, from unemployment. It daily demonstrates that fine sense of service and devotion which expresses the heart of the American people.

"You have discharged your trust. In the name of the American people I wish to convey to every individual member, to every chapter, to your central staff and to your devoted chairman, the appreciation and the gratitude of a whole Nation. May the Great Providence add to your strength, your courage and your steadfastness during the coming year."

The delegates were told last night by Dr. Linsly R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine, that communities must not curtail their sanitation and public health activities as a means of trimming budgetary expenditures, lest disease and sickness gain a foothold.

BISHOP CANNON CASE IS APPEALED BY U.S.

Petition Filed Here Seeking Reversal of Ruling Sustaining Demurrer.

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday moved to a higher court with its attempt to convict Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., of violation of the Federal corrupt practices act.

John J. Wilson, assistant United States attorney, filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a petition seeking reversal of a lower court decision sustaining a demurrer to an indictment filed by the head of the Virginia anti-Smith fight of 1928 and the organization's treasurer.

They were indicted for failure to make proper accounting to the House of Representatives of contributions received during the Southern Methodist churchman's campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

In February Justice James M. Proctor, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, held that ten counts of the indictment failed to charge any offense under the corrupt practices act. The justice declined, however, to pass upon the constitutionality of the act, which had been challenged by attorneys for Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs.

Broadly speaking, the election laws require that money contributed to presidential campaigns be reported to the Clerk of the House. It was charged that Bishop Cannon and his treasurer conspired to withhold reports on certain contributions by Edwin C. Jameson, a wealthy resident of New York.

Justice Proctor held the indictments void because they did not say Miss Burroughs had knowledge of these contributions. He decided a person could not be held criminally responsible for failing to report contributions of which he or she had no knowledge.

Action to procure new indictments can not be taken now, the three-year limit prescribed by the statute of limitations having expired.

DEMOCRATS AGREE TO LIMIT TARIFFS IN TAX MEASURE

in a statement by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, party leader.

"The conference," Senator Robinson said, "agreed unanimously on the following resolution:

"It is the sense of the conference of Democratic senators that the hearings on the revenue bill be closed at the earliest practicable date and that the passage of the measure be expedited in every possible way."

Summarizing the discussion, which was held behind closed doors, Senator Robinson said:

"It developed in the discussions that the opinion is quite generally entertained that it is desirable if possible to conclude the hearings before the date fixed by the committee and that if this can not be done there should be no extension beyond that date.

"The opinion also prevailed that while there is no limitation of amendments that may be proposed general consideration can not be had of tariff items and that no Senator shall be deemed bound by the conference in his vote on those tariff items in the bill or as to amendments touching conditions that have been reported on by the Tariff Commission.

"There was limited discussion pertaining to the consideration by the Senate of essential emergency relief measures including advances to the States and public construction.

"The chairman was asked to reconvene the conference when in his judgment it becomes desirable or necessary."

Merits Consideration.

There was some discussion of the subject of the reduction of Government salaries and of the proposal for basing the Government service on a five-day week, he said. Asked his opinion of the five-day week proposal, the senator said he believed it merited consideration.

Senator Robinson went directly from a conference at the White House with President Hoover to preside over the meeting of his colleagues in the Capitol. He went to the White House after adjournment of the Senate late in the afternoon.

At the White House he said he had discussed with the President the revenue bill and the subject of the soldier bonus and the economy proposals.

"There was no firm decision, but it was understood that such changes as are found necessary in the revenue bill shall be advanced as promptly as practicable," Senator Robinson said.

Conferences on Bill.

Although the President did not indicate to him his purpose to call conferences national leaders in Congress and in business and finance, Senator Robinson said that Mr. Hoover had indicated he desired to have some conferences on the tax bill.

Advocates of the oil tariff have fought hard for its approval, and they argued that if it were stricken out of the bill it would mean another item of disagreement over the bill between the House and Senate.

The same thing was said about the coal tariff, but that does not have the same support as oil, inasmuch as opponents pointed to small importations and comparatively large exportation of coal.

Those fighting for insertion of a tariff on copper argued that the Tariff Commission had approved the need of the American industry, thereby placing it in a favored position, inasmuch as advocates of tariffs on other commodities could not advance such a claim.

May Be Acted Upon Quickly.

"There was no expressed conclusion for exclusion of other items," Senator Robinson told newspaper reporters, "but the course of discussions indicated that it is believed any further tariff proposals may be very quickly disposed of.

"I think I might say that the proponents of the tariff on oil insist that inasmuch as it is in the bill and imposes a duty of only 1 cent a gallon that it may not be discarded as a revenue producer. General opinion seemed to question the justification for a tariff on coal, since importations are small and exportations are comparatively large."

In response to questions the Democratic leader said that there was a feeling among his colleagues that "it may be necessary" to consider the Wagner unemployment and construction bills.

Balancing the Federal budget by taxation, which interferes with purchase of goods consumed by the great majority of the people will "inevitably make the depression deeper," the Rev. John A. Ryan, of Catholic University, nationally known economist, warned the Senate finance committee at hearingh earlier in the day.

Dr. Ryan Issues Warning.

"The demand for a balanced budget," Father Ryan said, "has become, in the minds and mouths of the majority of those who are most articulate about it, an empty slogan. The slogan is working or being worked overtime as a facile substitute for the ardous processes of analysis and thinking."

A budget balanced by Government borrowing is not unsound, he said. He approved of high income, inheritance and gift taxes, opposed a general sales tax and special taxes on commodities purchased by persons of moderate means, and illustrated by saying that Ford or Chevrolet automobiles are "not as reasonable objects of tax levies as Lincolns, Cadilacs or Rolls-Royces."

Last of Nine Witnesses.

Dr. Ryan represented the joint committee on unemployment and was the last of nine witnesses heard by the committee yesterday; he was the only one who did not either urge or assume the need for balancing the Federal budget in the next fiscal year.

Rpresentatives of farmer organizations urged war-time income tax rates and advances in inheritance tax rates to the same point. They advocated taxation as a means of redistributing the wealth of the country, forecasting revolution unless there is a redistribution. The farmer witnesses were Chester Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Fred Brenckman, of the National Grange, and John A. Simpson, of the National Farmers Union.

Protest Stock Tax.

John Hovey, of Boston, a vice president of Kidder, Peabody & Co., protested against the one-fourth of 1 per cent tax on stock transfers and proposed a far-reaching tax on automobiles as a substitute. His proposals included a tax of $1 on each holder of an operator's license, a tax of $5 on each automobile owner, and a 2-cent bank check tax. His program would produce $245,000,000 revenue, he estimated.

Three representatives of insurance companies wanted the House bill changed so as to permit greater exemption of interest their companies earned on the reserves maintained against outstanding policies. They disagreed on whether the exemption should be 3¾ per cent or a flexible one. They were James Lee Loomis, of Hartford, Conn., representing the Association of Life Insurance Presidents; Gen. Frank W. McAllister, representing the American Life Convention companies, and M. J. Cleary, vice president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Co.

Garner Discounts Reports Of New Tariff Proposals

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner told newspapermen yesterday that no tariff bill carrying changes in rates is contemplated in the House and expressed hope that the Democratic measure passed by the Senate would be sent to the White House this week.

"Contrary to some reports that a tariff bill including some changes in rates would be passed this session, I do not believe we'll have any tariff bill of that sort," Garner said.

"It would have to originate in the House and no such bill is contemplated here to my knowledge."

The Texas Democrat said he hoped the Senate amendments to the Democratic tariff bill restoring the flexible provisions of the tariff act to Congress would be approved by the House this week and sent to President Hoover.

Capital Man Named On Prisons Council

Albert H. Conner Elected at New York Session; Others Chosen.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, N. Y., April 11.—Albert Holmes Conner, lawyer, of the Department of Justice in Washington, was among those elected here today to the Advisory Council of the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor, which includes in its roster many of the Nation's leading educators, sociologists and penologists.

Those elected to the national council of the committee included Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, and Representative John E. Weeks, of Vermont. Former Ambassador Ogden H. Hammond, of New Jersey, and Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania were among the directors chosen for the current year. The delegates, presided over by George Gordon Battle, heard an address by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who analyzed thoroughly the problem of criminal labor as it affects the wage level of free labor, as well as the effects of the dumping of prison-made goods.

A telegram was received from Gov. Roosevelt in which he stated that "the solution of the prison labor problem, to my mind, lies in the coordination of all the economic and social agencies and the State in proper planning and development of proper administration so that a balance between production and the market in our State institutions will relieve industry in general and provide opportunity for the prisoner. I am for protecting the American workman and training the prisoner for honest work."

New Ferry on Bay Assured by Ruling

Plea to Prevent Operation Refused in Supreme Court Decision.

The way was cleared yesterday for opening of a new ferry service across Chesapeake Bay by the Chesapeake Beach Railroad Co., when the United States Supreme Court denied the appeal of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. to prevent the operation of the new company and annul the permit granted it by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The appeal was made from a verdict of the District Supreme Court. The Interstate Commerce Commission, which granted the permit to the Chesapeake company two years ago, also was made a defendant in the action of the Claiborne company.

Following the decision, officials of the railroad company announced they would launch plans immediately for operation of a ferry and railroad service between Chesapeake Beach and Hudson in Dorchester County on Eastern Shore. The service will begin in July, it was announced. The new service is expected to be a boon to Eastern Shore farmers and Washington trade.

ANGLO-IRISH TREATY IMPASSE COMPLETE

House of Commons Supports Firm Stand on Oath and Annuities.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—Great Britain and Ireland stood tonight in as complete a political deadlock, as ever before, in all the troubled history of their mutual relations.

The gravity of the situation, which has arisen as a result of President Eamon de Valera's expressed intention to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown, was made clear by a statement in the House of Commons by J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions.

Mr. Thomas drew ringing cheers from most sections of the house when he said the British government "reaffirmed in unmistakable language that they stand absolutely by the treaty"—meaning the Anglo-Irish treaty on which the Free State government is based.

Correspondence Reviewed.

The greater part of the speech by the dominions secretary was devoted to directing the attention of the house to the correspondence which has passed between Great Britain and Ireland in the last three weeks.

He said that correspondence would be given out as soon as he sat down. Members who rushed excitedly to obtain copies of the interchange when he took his seat found that it consisted essentially of British and Irish assertions and counter-assertions regarding the oath and regarding the payment of land annuities by the Irish.

Despite protestations of each side's desire for "friendly relations," the communications contained phrases so downright as to be rare in diplomatic correspondence.

British Coastal Defense.

The Anglo-Irish treaty, President de Valera said in a note dated April 5, "has meant consummation of the outrage of partition and alienation of the most sacred of our national territory northern Ireland), with all the cultural and material loss that this unnatural separation entails."

"British maintenance parties are still in occupation of some of our principal courts, even in the area of the Free State," he continued. "Our coastal defense still is in British hands.

"Britain claims right in times of war or strained relations with a foreign power to make demands upon Ireland which, if granted, will make our right to neutrality a mockery."

Enniskillen, Northern Ireland, April 11 (A.P.).—Viscount Craigvon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, told a Unionist meeting tonight that, whatever happened in the controversy between England and the Irish Free State, nothing would make his government "flinch in upholding the flag which so long has flown over Ulster, the United Kingdom and the rest of the empire."

A resolution expressing unshakable loyalty to the British King and a determination at all cost to remain within Great Britain and the empire was adopted by the meeting. (The Unionist party is the government party in Ulster.)

SENATOR WALSH.

THE beetling brows of the senior senator from Montana are the danger points of any senatorial investigation. They hood the kindliness of quiet gray eyes with an almost falcon-like ferocity that bodes ill for the person or persons being investigated.

To see this same man in the home, playing with his two delightful grandchildren with all the tenderness and consideration of a parent, is to behold his kinder, human side.

Senator Walsh has had an almost Lincolnian life, from the rough, self-taught days of his youth at Two Rivers, Wis., through the long drawn-out struggle for education and his legal degree and finally to the political battles for election to the Senate.

He follows the traditions of Wilsonian Democracy and has become the leader in the fight for the adoption of those political principles which are heritages of the late President. He is the eloquent proponent of the League of Nations and the World Court.

Prohibition knows no champion so eloquent and so free from rancor and prejudice. He is a dry, but still filled with the juices of human kindness.

Dry Agents Are Restricted But Import Law Is Upheld

Supreme Court Declares Warrantless Raid Not Valid.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition agents were materially restricted yesterday by the Supreme Court in making searches and seizures of evidence, but enforcement was strengthened by a decision permitting prosecutions under the tariff law of those importing liquor unlawfully.

Armed with warrants of arrest Federal prohibition agents visited the office of Daniel M. Lefkowitz, in New York City, and arrested him and his assistant, Pauline Paris, on a charge of violating the national prohibition law. They then, without a warrant, made a search of the premises.

Justice Butler, in delivering the decision of the court, held that the agents saw no conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, and that a nuisance was not maintained on the premises. Pointing out that liquor was not manufactured, sold, kept or bartered in the room and that those arrested were not taken while committing the crime of conspiracy or of maintaining a nuisance, the court declared the prohibition agents had exceeded their authority.

They had, the court held, unlawfully assumed the right to search out and scrutinize everything in the room in order to ascertain whether the books, papers or other things contained evidence of the guilt of those under arrest.

The court held the search was exploratory and general and made solely to find evidence of the guilt of those under arrest, and that searches of one's house, office, papers, or effects merely to get evidence to convict was illegal.

John T. Callahan was indicted and convicted under the tariff act of 1922 on the charge of bringing intoxicating liquor from abroad into Delaware. Callahan contended, without success in the lower Federal courts, that he must be prosecuted under the more lenient Federal prohibition law, but the Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Roberts, held that the national prohibition act provided no penalty for importation in violation of its provisions, but that the tariff act did impose penalties for illegal importations, whether the importations consist of intoxicating liquor or some other commodity, and that the prosecution had been properly brought.

Cardozo Trails Holmes Along Path of Dissent

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court's newest member, Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, by dissenting on two opinions yesterday stepped out upon the path blazed by his predecessor, Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The first words spoken from the bench by Justice Cardozo were to disagree with the majority of his fellow justices in a California case.

Justices Brandeis and Stone joined him in dissent, as they so often did the dissenting opinions of Justice Holmes.

"I am unable to concur in the reversal of this judgment," Justice Cardozo said, and then he proceeded to state his reasons for disagreeing in the highly technical case.

GERMANY IS FACING ANOTHER ELECTION

Opposition to Hitler to Be Tested April 24, in Diets, Including Prussia.

Berlin, April 11 (A.P.).—Having weathered one election by returning Paul von Hindenburg to the presidential palace for seven more years, political Germany today started preparations for another one.

On April 24, less than two weeks away, the strength of Adolf Hitler's opposition National Socialists will be tested again in the election of members of the Diets—the state Assemblies—of Prussia, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Hamburg and Anhalt.

The election in Prussia is by far the most important. "Whoever has Prussia, has the Reich," is an old German political mixim. Its population is 38,000,000, against 24,000,000 in the other seventeen German states, and it covers two-thirds of the nation.

Seek to Preserve Republic.

In Prussia yeoman work has been done for the preservation of the young German republic. The determination with which Premier Otto Braun and Interior Minister Karl Severing put down the Communist rebellion in Westphalia in 1921 and nipped incipient uprisings elsewhere, has been credited with saving Germany from bolshevism.

To Adolf Hitler and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, the Braun-Severing government is a structure that must be torn down. It is generally believed that Hitler's Nazis, who now have only six seats in the Diet of 450 members, will greatly increase their representation. Whether the Nazis and Nationalists combined will have strength enough to form a government of their own is another question.

Allocution by Hindenburg.

President von Hindenburg, who topped Hitler by almost 6,000,000 votes in yesterday's run-off presidential election, achieving an absolute majority, today issued an "allocution" thanking the nation for its support and calling for unity in facing the problems of the future.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening offered his formal resignation to the president, in accordance with custom, and was asked to continue at the head of the government. He acquiesced.

Jefferson Statue To Receive Wreath

Society Tomorrow Will Begin Capitol Pressure for Memorial.

Col. Francis Scott Key-Smith, great-grandson of the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and vice president of the Society for a National Memorial to Thomas Jefferson, will place a wreath on the statue of Jefferson in the Capitol at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

He will act for the society in the absence of its president, Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri. Mrs. Mabel Jennings Fry will have charge of the ceremony, which will be attended by local members of the organization.

This commemoration of Jefferson's birthday by the society is intended by its officers to mark the beginning of its efforts to induce Congress to recognize by a suitable memorial in the National Capital of Jefferson's share in creating the United States and in enlarging its area. They point out that except for a few small statues, and a street and a school which bear his name, Jefferson is practically unremembered in Washington by a monument.

Suit for $3,750 Rent Naming Thaw Revealed

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—A suit for $3,750 against Harry K. Thaw for rent on an apartment from last August to the present month was disclosed in Supreme Court today when a warrant of attachment against Thaw's property in New York State was signed.

The plaintiff, the 1136 Fifth Avenue Corporation, alleged the lease was signed June 27, 1929, by Aloysius J. Connolly for five years occupancy from October 1, 1929, to September 30, 1934, at $5,000 a year, payable in monthly installments. The complaint says Connolly is Thaw's private secretary and that he sublet the apartment to Thaw, who took possession in November, 1929.

Roumanians Ask Delay On Debts for Salaries

Bucharest, Roumania, April 11 (A.P.).—A demand was voiced in both houses of Parliament today that Roumania cease paying interest on her foreign debts and devote the money instead to the payment of government salaries and pensions, which have been unpaid for months.

Finance Minister Constantine Argetoianu replied that the country must not resort to a moratorium. He said he hoped soon to be able to reach an agreement with creditors which would permit the payment of back salaries and pensions.

Missionary Dies at 77; Father of Capital Man

Pittsburgh, April 11 (A.P.).—Mission offices of the United Presbyterian Church were informed today of the death of the Rev. J. Kelly Giffen, 77, who has spent 50 years in missionary work. He died April 6 at Khartoum, South Africa.

The Rev. Mr. Giffen was a native of St. Clairsville, Ohio. He became a foreign missionary in 1881 after graduation from the Xenia Theological Seminary. A son, Morrison B. Giffen, lives in Washington, D. C.

ECUADOR REBELLION IS ENDED BY BATTLE

Federal Troops Capture All Who Seized Navy and Fort Last Week.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, April 11 (A.P.).—The rebellion against the government was put down today when government troops, after two hours of fighting, captured all of the men who precipitated the uprising last week by seizing Ecuador's two-ship navy and taking over the fort at Punta Piedra.

Col. Ricardo Astudillo, chief of the government forces, returning from the battle, said Federal troops boarded a gunboat held by the rebels. They found four of the mutineers dead and a number wounded, he said.

Commandante Ildefonso Mendoza, rebel leader, was taken prisoner along with his followers and will be brought to Guayaquil tomorrow.

Col. Astudillo said his loyal troops encountered the rebels near Punta Arenas and engaged them in battle, ending the revolution victoriously by capturing the gunboat.

The rebels previously had been driven out of Punta Piedra and fled aboard the gunboats Tarqui and Cotopaxi, first to the Island of Puna, in the Gulf of Guayaquil, from which point they controlled the port, then toward Port Bolivar.

Schools Will Give Festival of Music

Triennial Spring Program to Be Presented on April 28 and 30.

As a contribution to the District of Columbia bicentennial celebration the Public Schools of the city will present the triennial Spring Music Festival in the Central High School Auditorium on Thursday and Saturday nights, April 28 and 30 at 8 o'clock.

The program will consist of the singing of a cantata, directed by Dr. Edwin N. Barnes. More than 1,000 sixth grade pupils throughout the city will take part. The Pre-Orchestral Group, composed of the youngest pupils in the city and divided into sections of 125 each, will play on Thursday and Saturday nights under the direction of Miss Elsie Roach. A second group composed of 60 older children, and known as the Inter-Grade School Orchestra, will present special numbers under the direction of Mrs. Laura Fairchild Ward.

Mary E. Woolley Plans To Attend Session Here

Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College, will serve as a member of the advisory committee of the League of Nations conference to be held at the American University Graduate School next February 20-25, it is announced by Miss Fredericka Critchett, in charge of organization of the conference.

Miss Woolley, who is one of the American delegation at the arms conference at Geneva, adds another distinguished personage to the list advising on the conference here next winter.

Tools May Replace Toys In Santa's Pack This Year

By JOHN J. DALY

THOUGHTS of Santa Claus are premature, with the tang of spring in the air and dew on the lilac buds.

Just the same, Santa Claus has a great surprise in store for him when he starts his toy factory to supply the boys and girls next Yuletide.

Since the last visit of the old gentleman some of the teachers specializing in nursery school work have conducted a survey, and the survey discloses startling facts, the foremost being that tools and not toys are what little children desire.

The day of the toy soldier has gone. No longer does Johnny want a drum.

* * * *

SISTER SUSIE may still show a craving for dolls, but not in the age-old fashion—merely to hug it to her bosom, fondle it, dress it, mother it, and sing "Rock-a-bye Baby." If Susie displays any inclination toward rocking a baby to sleep these days it is merely an indication that Susie when she grows up is going to be a nurse or a psychiatrist.

Left to her own resources and not swayed by old-fashioned notions, the little girl would probably be found knocking the doll baby's head off with a hammer, then putting the pieces together again—preliminary work for surgery.

Childhood, along with everything else, has changed.

Children no longer want to be amused, as the oldsters suppose. Children want to amuse themselves—and they amuse themselves best when given tools with which to make their own playthings.

* * * *

WHAT the surveyors found will be quite illuminating to Santa Claus, that poor old man who has suffered from any number of illusions, delusions by the dozen, these many years.

Even at the age of 2 months, a child—boy or girl—knows what it wants, and it is not a rattle.

Furthermore, what delights the babe of 3 months will bore him to tears when the ripe old age of 6 months has been attained; for the new generation tires of things quickly, and time is on the wing.

In the machine age even the babies are anxious to be Up and At 'Em, to get out of their cradles and start manufacturing, making something worth while, some new machine that will throw a lot of people out of work, themselves included.

Santa Claus, preparing for the Christmas demand, probably will make note of all this and bring along a shipment of machinery, instead of the usual toys.

The theme song is:

Rock-a-bye, baby, on the treetop,
When the wind blows don't let your tools drop;
If the boush breaks, the cradle will fall,
And down will come baby, tool chest and all.

BORAH BARES PLIGHT OF CUBAN STUDENTS

Quotes Charge 3 Are Held Incommunicado; Havana Denies Tale.

(Associated Press.)

The reported plight of three Cuban students held for trial in Cuba in a bombing plot was brought before the Senate yesterday by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, with the assertion that if charges brought to him were true, it was not a matter to which the United States could be indifferent.

Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, read an account of the case which was sent to him by the Cuban Patriotic League, which also had been sent to Secretary Stimson by the organization.

He said he had been told the students had been in prison two months, had been denied permission to see their attorneys or friends and that it was likely they would be tried before a military tribunal without opportunity to communicate with anyone.

Action Not Asked by Borah.

The Havana government denied yesterday they were being held incommunicado and said the three were charged with six attempts upon the life of President Machado. The students are Ruben Leon, Ramiro Valdes Daussa and Rafael Escalona.

Although Borah did not propose any action, he had this to say of the report:

"If this be true, I think it is a matter in which we can not, under the circumstances, owing to our connection with Cuba, be indifferent.

"We have passed the time when that kind of proceedings ought to be countenanced or recognized by civilized society.

"That is all I desire to say this morning, but I shall watch with interest the procedure."

Denial Made at Havana.

Havana, Cuba, April 11 (A.P.).—The government denied today reports that three Cuban university students were being held incommunicado for trial in a bombing plot and said the three "stand charged with having sought six times to assassinate President Machado."

The government denied that the prisoners, who face military trial April 15 on a charge of violating the antibombing law, had not been allowed to see their lawyers.

They were arrested three months ago when police raided a house in the suburb of Vedado and said they found an automobile loaded with explosives, arms and ammunition.

Referring to charges made by the Cuban Patriotic League in Washington, and repeated by Senator Borah, that the prisoners were students and were held incommunicado, it was said officially:

"The three, who so far as is known have never been enrolled in any Cuban school or university, are now held in the hospital of the Isle of Pines model prison. They saw their attorney, Aurelio Fernandez Concheso, yesterday."

HURLEY CONSIDERED AS G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

May Be Named for Post as Fess Retires Following Chicago Convention.

(Associated Press.)

The name of Secretary Hurley, of the War Department, was mentioned in political circles last night for the chairmanship of the Republican national committee.

The position will be open upon the retirement of Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, after the Chicago convention.

Secretary Hurley has not been an active candidate for the position and has told friends he feels another should be chosen. Those close to him are certain, however, that if offered the post, Mr. Hurley would accept it. Postmaster General Brown also has been mentioned for the chairmanship, but he is understood not to want it.

Mr. Hurley has been urged by a number of prominent Republicans, particularly those from his native Oklahoma, to seek the vice presidential nomination in place of Vice President Curtis, but the War Secretary has persistently turned these urgings aside and several times has pronounced his "whole-hearted support" of Mr. Curtis.

Colonial Congress Of Women Gathers

Nineteenth Convention of New England Society to Start Today.

The nineteenth annual congress of the National Society of New England Women will officially convene at 10 o'clock this morning at the Hotel Washington. A procession will open the first meeting. An entrance march will be played, while the column, led by white-clad pages and flag bearers carrying the colors and banner of the national society, enters. Following them will be the 60 colony presidents with their banners, and the officers general.

A buffet luncheon at 1 p. m. and a banquet in the evening are scheduled for today. Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. Colonial costumes will be worn in honor of the Bicentennial.

The election of national officers and directors will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, of the New York City Colony, will talk on patriotic education, and the chairman of the standing committees will give reports of their work. At 3:30 p. m. the organization will go to the George Washington University campus to dedicate a marker to George Washington. The congress will terminate on Friday.

New Patent Office Opens With All-Day Celebration

Industrial Leaders Discuss Problems of Invention and Engineering at Banquet; Research Holiday Suggestion Is Deplored.

An all-day celebration of the opening of the new Patent Office in the Department of Commerce Building was brought to a close last night with a banquet of the American Patent Law Association at the Mayflower Hotel, at which addresses were made by Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors Corporation; Dr. Frank B. Jewett, vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and Prof. M. I. Pupin, of Columbia University, developer of the long-distance telephone, who addressed the patent lawyers and inventors over long-distance telephone from New York.

Standardization, and the consequent difficulty of getting industry interested in new things, were cited by Mr. Kettering as among the chief problems confronting the inventor of today. "The inventors," he said, "need a sales organization, and the patent solicitor seems to be the one best suited to do this work."

Research Holiday Opposed.

He expressed faith in the American inventor and engineer, providing he presents an open mind to new ideas, "rather than overcapitalize the things that already exist."

The General Motors vice president charged the average technical graduate of the present time with a lack of imagination, guided entirely by what he has been taught and handicapped in tackling problems if the remedy is not conveniently available. He said that his corporation has started a department designed to remedy these handicaps.

Dr. Jewett described as "abhorrent" the idea of a holiday in scientific research. He advocated an increase of activity, "since to me there is nothing repugnant in the idea of a goal which has for its aim the minimum of human drudgery and the maximum of human enjoyment in living."

Patent Examiners Lauded.

He envisioned the growth of the modern industrial research laboratory as bidding fair "to have stupendous reactions on the very organization of society itself." He predicted the future growth of industrial research laboratories" if for no other reason than that of protecting the industry against attacks from the outside by creating within the industry weapons for counter attack."

Prof. Pupin, his telephonic broadcast amplified by loud speakers, declared that the patent examiners are less appreciated than any Government workers, adding "that they look more hard-worked and are less paid than any of the others."

Herbert H. Dyke, national chairman of the celebration committee, presided, and Wallace R. Lane was toastmaster. The committee in charge of the banquet was composed of H. E. Stauffer, chairman; Arlon V. Cushman, William S. Hodges and H. Schuyler Shepard.

Addresses Open Program.

The celebration opened yesterday morning with addresses by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Thomas E. Robertson, Commissioner of Patents, and Thomas Ewing, former patent commissioner.

An official reception and opening of the new Patent Office to the public took place in the afternoon, with the commissioner and his staff acting as hosts. Visiting delegations of inventors and patent law attorneys placed wreaths at the memorials and monuments to eminent inventors who were granted patents by the Patent Office. These include Presidents Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, John Ericson, Joseph Henry and Samuel B. Morse.

At the morning ceremony, Secretary Lamont read the following greeting from President Hoover:

"It is particularly fitting that this move from the former inadequate quarters to a building provided with every facility to meet the modern conditions of the patent world should take place during the Bicentennial celebration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, our first President, who, at the first session of the Congress, urged the enactment of a statute granting patents for inventions.

First Patent Anniversary.

"It is also fitting that the celebration should take place on the 142nd anniversary of the signing by President Washington for the first patent statute.

"Our patent system has been so beneficial in carrying out the constitutional purpose of promoting the progress of science and the useful arts, that another great President, Abraham Lincoln, classed the discovery of America, the invention of printing, and the establishment of the patent system as three incidents in the history of the human race that were of preeminent consequence."

A history of the patent office was given by Commissioner Robertson. He said that although the United States has shown more inventive progress than other countries, many inventions made in America are the work of foreigners, "who seemed to have been spurred on by the atmosphere created by our patent system."

Income from Office.

Secretary Lamont referred to the patent office as one industry that is running with 100 per cent capacity. The office, he said, will pay about $4,500,000 into the Treasury by the end of the present fiscal year. Since the new patent office was opened three months ago, 12,773 patents have been turned out, an increase of 8 per cent over the average for the preceding year with the same force, Secretary Lamont said.

Mr. Ewing predicted that within the next twenty years the number of examiners will have to be doubled to meet the demands placed upon the bureau by the inventive world. He expressed hope that the present force will not be reduced as a part of the economy program. Answering criticism that the work of the bureau is two years behind, Mr. Ewing said that the bureau is making headway on its delayed research since moving into the new building.

Paying tribute to Commissioner Robertson, Mr. Ewing said that he has filled the place of five men and has accomplished more toward restoring the office to its former and better state "than any five men, serving in rapid succession, could have accomplished."

Those attending the opening celebration included Melville Church, W. W. Dodge and W. H. Finckel, veteran patent attorneys of 60 years' professional life; four other former patent commissioners, James T. Newton, Frederick I. Allen, Melvin H. Coulston, Robert H. Whitehead, and two assistant commissioners, F. A. Tennant and Karl Fennifg.

GENERALS OF BOTH PARTIES LINE UP AGAINST BONUS BILL

To raise the $2,400,000,000 necessary to meet this payment, Mr. Patman proposes to have that amount of currency run off by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, without bothering to back it up dollar for dollar with Treasury gold.

Not only would his scheme aid the veterans, Mr. Patman argued yesterday, but it would be a boon to the entire country. It would put money into circulation, he said, boost commodity prices, and thus place the country back on the road marked prosperity.

Mr. Connery agreed with him, and so did another witness, 76-year-old Robert L. Owen, former senator from Oklahoma. However, Mr. Owen differed with Mr. Patman on one thing: Instead of issuing Treasury notes to cover the bonus payments, he would issue Federal Reserve notes backed by Government bonds.

Floor Leader Rainey, in his statement denouncing the Patman scheme, said that "once inflation is started, the currency will immediately drop below par value, and it is impossible to check its downward trend."

Robinson Fears Results.

Senator Robinson said he was convinced "that legislation appropriating more than $2,000,000,000 for that purpose (payment of the bonus) will produce harmful results which will more than offset the benefits to be anticipated."

"If, as some propose," he said, "ourrency or Federal Reserve notes may be issued in payment of adjusted service certificates, why all this confusion and controversy about increasing taxes to balance the budget, if it can be accomplished by the simple process of printing money?"

Yesterday's initial hearing was not nearly as exciting as the hearings that were held on the bonus in 1930. The crowd of spectators was comparatively small, and of dramatic incidents there were none.

York May Add Color.

However, a witness who is expected to provide some color, is now on his way here—Sergt. Alvin York, of Tennessee,—"greatest hero of the World War," the man who, in one smashing coup, killed 29 Germans and captured 132 others.

At the outset of the hearing, Representative Parker (Democrat), of Georgia, declared that if the people had to be taxed to pay the $2,400,000,000 bonus money, a "rebellion would be the inevitable result."

Representative Patman, however, made it clear that there was no thought of raising the money by taxation. He told the committee that he had even abandoned his idea of raising the money by a bond issue.

National Benefit Urged.

"Unless we can show that the payment will benefit the country and promote the general welfare," Mr. Patman said, "we are not entitled to have this bill pass. The question is can this payment be used to bring the country back to prosperity?

"One of the main reasons for passing this legislation is the reflation feature. We are hopeful that it will put enough money into circulation so that commodity prices will rise and prosperity return.

"We don't have to start on a wild program of inflation. I don't believe this amount is too much. The question in mind is whether it is enough. We don't expect to start out on any wild program like Germany did. We don't want to put out five times as much money as the country needs. We are willing to tie to a 40 per cent gold basis.

"We have $4,000,000,000 in gold, according to Treasury statements. That is enough for $10,000,000,000 in currency. But there is only $5,500,000,000 in currency in circulation. The trouble with this country is that its on a double gold standard."

Representative Connery, in backing up Mr. Patman, dared Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, to make a poll of the legionnaires on the bonus question. If he did, Connery said, he would find that 95 per cent favored a cash payment.

Commander Stevens is expected to appear later and oppose the Patman bill. At its Detroit convention in September the Legion, hearkening to a personal appeal by President Hoover, voted down a resolution for payment of the bonus.

Mr. Connery argued that the Patman bill was a measure to prevent starvation.

"You can picture what is in the minds of these Communists who stage scenes in the streets and are hit over the head by the police," he said, "but none of you can picture what is in the mind of the man who comes to the breakfast table and is told by his wife that there is no bread in the house to feed his little child.

Starvation Is Charged.

"That happens right here under the Stars and Stripes. There is starvation right here in the United States.

"This starvation can not be relieved by creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. I have no complaint to make against the corporation, as it has done good, but the money eventually gets back to New York and adds to the concentration of wealth that has grown up in this country.

"The only way to relieve the situation is by paying the soldiers their bonus and in that way put money into circulation, so as to bring a return to normal times."

Former Senator Owen, who was chairman of the Senate banking committee when the Federal Reserve law was drafted, said that the proposal to circulate $2,000,000,000 in additional currency should not be considered solely from the standpoint of gold coverage.

Dollar and Commodities.

"We are no longer on the gold basis," he said. The American dollar is based on the value of commodities.

"The bonus payment would compel a rise in commodity prices. It is the way to restore prosperity. You are not going to do it with measures like the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"The only way to increase values and put the country back to normal is by restoring the currency and putting money into circulation, and there is no more equable way than through these soldiers who are scattered throughout the country.

Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, who now is running for the Senate in Pennsylvania, sent the committee a telegram saying he could not appear to testify. He added that he would continue to be in favor of the bonus, having found in a tour of 40 States that the veterans are badly in need of it.

WOMEN REPEALISTS TO CONVENE TODAY

1,000 Foes of Prohibition Plan National Drive Against Dry Law.

Claiming that repeal of the eighteenth amendment offers the best solution for betterment of civic and social conditions, more than 1,000 women will open the third national conference of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform today at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Charles H. Basin, of New York, who initiated the plan for reorganization in 1929, and who resigned from the Republican national committee to concentrate on prohibition repeal efforts, will be the presiding officer.

It has been announced that plans for a Nation-wide demonstration for repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be made by the women anti-prohibitionists.

Educational Campaign.

Under the direction of Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, New York City, repeal week chairman, an intensive educational campaign among women will be staged by the 41 State divisions of the organization, as well as by workers in the District.

Commenting on the proposed drive Mrs. Edward Small Moore, chairman of the organization's national information service, said: "This is the first concerted national membership and fund-raising campaign to be conducted by our organization. Our work is being intensified at this time because of the importance of demonstrating to both major political parties the urgency of repeal planks in the party platforms."

Sessions Open to Public.

Women prominent in social welfare, labor, religious, and philanthropic circles in the Republican and Democratic parties and in such organizations as the Daughters of the American Revolution, the League of Women Voters, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Junior League, the Civic Federation, Colonial Dames of America, Needlework Guild of America, Parent-Teacher Association, Young Women's Christian Association, and others make up the membership of the large delegations arriving from metropolitan centers, small towns, and country hamlets.

Opening sessions of the conference today will be featured by addresses by Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, of Chicago, former member of the Democratic national committee. The meeting is open to the public.

Shipstead Wants 'Cal and Al' Ticket

Nationalist Government, as in Britain, Espoused in Submitted Editorial.

A nationalist government, formed in the same spirit as that behind the British cabinet and with Calvin Coolidge as President and Alfred E. Smith as Vice President, was proposed in an editorial placed in the Congressional Record yesterday by Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota.

In submitting the "Cal" and "Al" editorial, printed by the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, Senator Shipstead pointed out that the United States, in the beginning, had a nonpartisan Government, with George Washington at its head.

The present period, the editorial stated, is too critical to risk the chaos of a partisan presidential campaign. Hence the suggestion of a "coalition of Democrats and Republicans in a genuine national administration, with former President Calvin Coolidge as President and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as Vice President."

Bullitt Rites to Be Held Today at Seattle Home

80 New Delegates Held for Roosevelt

Supporters Claim Total Will Be 235 After Week's Voting.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt here expect 80 Democratic national convention votes to fall into his column formally this week—boosting their estimate of his strength to 235, a third of the number needed for nomination.

At this time in 1928 Alfred E. Smith, a receptive candidate again this year, had 241 instructed, pledged and claimed delegates.

Democrats in four States will pick 134 delegates this week—26 in Kentucky, 16 in Nebraska and 54 in Illinois, all tomorrow, and 38 in Michigan Thursday.

Republicans choose 110 delegates this week, bringing the total picked to 402. President Hoover has 270 of the 292 named to date. Those up for selection this week are: Illinois, 61; Nebraska, 17, and Florida, 16, all tomorrow. North Carolina, 7, Thursday, and Delaware, 9, Saturday.

FARM BOARD PROBE WILL BE THOROUGH

Senate Votes $25,000 for Quiz of Half-Billion-Dollar Operation of Body.

(Associated Press.)

The story of how the Farm Board spent and loaned most of the $500,000,000 given it by Congress was promised yesterday by the Senate as it voted for a complete investigation of the board's activities.

Along with that, however, it agreed to go thoroughly into the operations of the cotton and grain exchanges whose members generally have been opponents and critics of the board.

The inquiries were provided in a resolution by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, which went through without a record vote. No time was set for the inquiry to begin, but it will probably be in the near future.

The salaries paid by cooperative organizations which have borrowed from the board were also among the subjects of investigation.

Critics of the board have centered on this, referring particularly to the $75,000 in salary and commissions paid E. F. Creekmore, of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, and the $50,000 paid George S. Milnor, of the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

The resolution asked that the investigation, which will probably be made by an agriculture subcommittee headed by Mr. Norris, to determine whether stabilization operations could not have been performed better by cooperatives than the stabilization organizations set up by the board.

The resolution carries $25,000 for the inquiry.

The committee would be authorized also to investigate the interstate and foreign marketing of agricultural commodities by individuals, firms or corporations doing business for private profit or by cooperative associations which have borrowed from the Farm Board.

Specific instructions were given to inquire into the stabilization operations of the board and their advisability and to ascertain whether any agencies have interferred with or hampered the activities of the board.

Dry Agents Who Slew Man Remain in Service

(Associated Press.)

Until evidence has been produced that they did not act in self-defense, two prohibition agents, accused of killing a man in Dallas, Tex., will continue as members of the Federal enforcement staff.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, made this statement yesterday. The agents are Laurence C. Smith and Nathaniel D. Heaton. The man fatally shot was M. C. McGlothlin.

MATCH CRISIS BARES END OF PHONE DEAL

International Company Says Kreuger Canceled Contract to Buy Ericsson.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—A new and surprising development in the Kreuger debacle came in Wall street today when the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. revealed that its contract with Kreuger & Toll to purchase control of the Ericsson Telephone Co. had been rescinded.

International Telephone disclosed that the contract had been voided by mutual consent during the visit to New York earlier this year of the late Ivar Kreuger, "since certain representations of fact upon which the arrangement was based had been found inaccurate."

It was nearly a year ago that the announcement that International Telephone had acquired control of Ericsson came as a major development in the foreign telephone world. Ericsson, which has large electrical manufacturing interests and operates telephone systems in Europe, Argentina and Mexico, was one of International's principal competitors. A few months later Mr. Kreuger became a member of the board of directors of International and financial quarters assumed that the transaction had been completed.

The announcement of cancellation of the contract lent a new and confusing element to the tangled state of the Kreuger-Swedish match trust affairs. The Swedish investigating committee had already charged that the Kreuger & Toll statements contained serious misrepresentations.

From the brief statement issued by International Telephone, however, it appeared that it might still retain its hold upon Ericsson, unless Kreuger & Toll returns the cash which International advanced. The block of stock in Ericsson is still being held for the account of International at a Swedish bank. Some months ago, it was generally understood in Wall street that International had paid for its interest with a block of its own stock, in exchange for Ericsson stock. This was later denied, however, and it was learned that cash had been paid. International has not disclosed the amount, but unconfirmed Wall street reports have mentioned some $11,000,000.

Card-Game Battle Puts 2 Women Behind Bars

Two colored women, who entered pleas of guilty of assaulting each other with, in one case, a knife, and in the other case, a razor blade, yesterday were sentenced to 90 days each in jail.

Judge R. E. Mattingly imposed the sentences after he learned that nine stitches were taken in the scalp of Mary Bell, 32 years old, and seventeen in the scalp of Elsie Selby, 24 years old. The pair had been playing cards when a disagreement arose, and the fracas began.

Alleged Auto Thief Ordered Held.

Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday ordered Walter Scheffler held under a $1,000 bond for the action of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. The charge arose from the alleged theft of an automobile belonging to Florence B. Allison, 1344 Michigan avenue northeast.

STUDENTS IDENTIFY DEPUTY VIGILANTE

Victim of Beating Not Sure, However, Harlan Man Struck Him.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 11 (A.P.).—Five Arkansans, who were ejected from Kentucky yesterday, while seeking to enter the coal fields to aid striking miners, today tentatively identified a newspaper photograph of Lee Fleenor as that of one of the men they charged with beating them in Harlan County.

Fleenor, a deputy sheriff of Harlan County, was accused of killing two miners last August and recently was indicted on murder charges. Sheriff J. H. Blair said tonight Fleenor had been dismissed two weeks ago, when more than 80 deputies were ousted, but since then he has been resworn.

Lucien Koch, 24, director of Commonwealth College at Mena, Ark., and leader of the ejected group, at first said Fleenor was the man who beat Sam Sandberg, 29, a Commonwealth student. Later Sandberg said that he was not certain Fleenor actually beat him, but that he saw him standing nearby holding a stick before the beating started.

Efforts to reach Fleenor by phone in Harlan County tonight failed, and Sheriff Blair said he was not certain Fleenor was in the county. Blair said he understood Fleenor was out of the State yesterday.

Meanwhile it was reported that four men and two women from Anderson, Ind., also had been escorted out of Harlan County by vigilantes Sunday. Sheriff Blair said Garry Weir and Joseph Schmidt, who indentified themselves as representatives of a magazine published by the Church of God, interviewed him yesterday concerning conditions in the coal fields. Blair said he had not heard from them since.

Methodists Finish Annual Conclave

Bishop W. F. McDowell Is Lauded by Delegates; Prohibition Backed.

The Washington Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday closed its sessions in the Asbury Church, Eleventh and K streets northwest, following a week of organization activity, featured by various testimonials to Bishop William Fraser McDowell, expected to retire in May from active service in this area. Addresses were made by Bishop McDowell and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and by Dr. Ernest Lyon, of Baltimore.

Continued effort in behalf of prohibition was pledged by the conference in a resolution following the address of Dr. Wilson, who predicted victory of prohibition forces everywhere. Education programs of various groups within the church were directed by another resolution to be placed under the Methodist Board of Education. The conference will meet next year in Baltimore, at the Ames Church, either in March or April, the date to be determined later.

A resolution of thanks and appreciation of Bishop McDowell for presiding during the conference, delivering addresses, and taking general interest in colored Methodists of the Washington Conference area, including Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, was passed. Dr. Lyon, former Minister to Liberia under President Taft, praised President Hoover for courage in taking a course he deemed right, although unpopular.

Jury Holds Police Free in Cell Death

Suicide Verdict Returned After Veteran Hangs Self in Station.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide in the death of Neil V. Johnston, 32 years old, of 427 Fourth street northwest, who hanged himself Saturday night in a First Precinct Station cell, after being arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

Two men in the cell with Johnston at the time, James R. Green, 36, of 517 Sixth street northwest, and Jeremiah Quigley, 38, of 47 Second street northwest, were held blameless, as was also the police, by the jury. Police inquired yesterday of rooming houses and hotels in an effort to locate relatives of Johnston.

Mrs. Claudia A. Johnston, his mother, was not notified of his death because she is critically ill with paralysis, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Fort Scott, Kans., which also said that Johnston served for 18 months with Co. L of the Fifty-ninth Infantry during the World War.

BABY BOND SALES TO END TOMORROW

of the certificates on that day had amounted to $27,996,400. While this sum was comparatively small, President Hoover's antihoarding campaign, in which the bonds were an incident, drew more than $200,000,000 out of hoarding. On last April 6, circulation of money in the United States amounted to $5,458,000,000, which was $847,000,000 more than in circulation a year ago. At the beginning of the antihoarding campaign, however, the increase over a year ago amounted to approximately $1,100,000,000.

The return of the money to the Treasury from hoards was brought about through a drop in the money in circulation, which includes all of the money outside of the Treasury not held by Federal Reserve Banks.

The campaign to stop hoarding of funds and return them to the banks was inaugurated by the President on February 10. Each week saw a substantial reduction in the amount of money in circulation until April 6, when there was an increase of $19,000,000. This was attributable, officials said, to seasonal increase.

The baby bonds were issued by the Treasury as an aid to the citizens' reconstruction organization, headed by Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago. They were intended to aid the committee in calling forth hidden funds by enabling it to offer a safe investment to persons who were hoarding. The certificates were to run for one year from last March 15 and bear interest at 2 per cent, and could be cashed in by the holder upon 60 days' notice.

WOMAN SOUGHT BY POLICE OFFERED SUSPICIOUS MONEY

whether he had established a new contact.

Condon was revealed Sunday as the "Jafsie" who has been publishing messages to the kidnapers. One of the men with him today was Al Reich, former prize fighter, who was present when $50,000 in small bills was turned over to a man purporting to be a representative of the kidnapers the night of April 2.

They departed in an automobile bearing Bergen County, N. J., license plates, stopped at a Fifth avenue drug store briefly, then sped away to lose pursuing cars.

Condon's Activities Bared.

The importance of Dr. Condon's part in the kidnaping case was revealed today by the Bronx Home News in a copyrighted article telling in detail how "Jafsie" negotiated with the abductors and finally paid them the ransom.

This story aroused speculation in many quarters as to the position of the man who reputedly received the $50,000 from Dr. Condon.

It was reported that Col. Lindbergh believes the man who took the money was authorized by the actual kidnapers to negotiate with Dr. Condon, and that once having received the cash he did not bother to turn it over to the people who actually have the child.

Another theory, this one held by Dr. Condon, is that the kidnapers probably are going to ask for more money and that the baby eventually will be returned to his parents alive and safe.

Dr. Condon's negotiations, as related by the Bronx Home News, apparently coincide with known facts, and the story has not been denied at Hopewell or Trenton. In effect, this story follows:

Cemetery Rendezvous.

Dr. Condon, on March 9, offered through the Home News to pay a $1,000 reward for return of the baby. That night the kidnapers communicated with him. He went immediately to Hopewell where he conferred with Col. Lindbergh. On the next day he inserted the first advertisement: "Money is ready, Jafsie."

That evening the kidnapers telephoned him and said they would call again the evening of March 12, between 8 and 9 o'clock. At 8:30 that evening a taxi driver delivered a letter to Dr. Condon at his home and hurried off.

This letter instructed the professor to proceed at once to the last station on the Jerome avenue subway line. The last station is Woodlawn Cemetery.

Accompanied by Reich, Dr. Condon hurried to the designated spot and waited. Finally he saw a man standing behind a tall picket fence, waving at him. He approached the man and they had a long conversation regarding payment of the ransom and return of the baby.

Arrangement for Exchange.

At one point a cemetery guard approached and the man, becoming frightened, leaped over the fence and ran away. He returned later, however, and told Dr. Condon to insert, on the following day, an advertisement in the Home News saying: "Baby is alive and well. Money is ready." This advertisement, the man explained, was to inform the kidnapers that the negotiations were under way and proceeding in good order.

This sort of communication continued for several days and a short time before the money was delivered, Dr. Condon received a note telling him that the money had to be delivered without any one visiting the baby, and that eight hours after payment, Col. Lindbergh would be notified where to find the child.

On the night of April 2, accordingly, Dr. Condon and Reich proceeded to "a secluded spot in the Bronx" with the $50,000, which was handed over to the man.

Lindbergh's Quest by Air.

It is assumed, though not definitely known, that eight hours or so later Col. Lindbergh was told his child was on a boat called the Sallie in the vicinity of Marthas Vineyard, for it was on the day following the ransom delivery that he flew up the New England coast.

Col. Lindbergh, Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey and Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey State police, all are convinced that Dr. Condon was dealing with a genuine representative of the kidnapers, if not one of their number. Why they failed to keep their promise after the money was delivered remained a subject of wide speculation.

Reports that the suspect who was arrested in New York Friday and subjected to prolonged questioning had been released could not be verified either at Hopewell or Trenton.

State police said the suspect's alibi still was under scrutiny today, but declined to discuss this phase of the case any further. It was denied that he is a man named Sylvian Ortlieb, 34. Ortlieb, the police said, volunteered information which is being investigated and was permitted to go his way.

Du Pont Kidnaping Report By Police Proves Error

Wilmington, Del., April 11 (A.P.).—Charles Chickering, 16-year-old son of an employe of the Du Pont Powder Co., disappeared from his home today and police telegraph-typewriter systems erroneously reported that the son of the president of the Du Pont Co. had been kidnaped.

The boy's father told the Associated Press that his son was not related to the Du Pont family and expressed the belief that he had not been kidnaped.

The lad left home about 4 o'clock this afternoon in a roadster, ostensibly to shoot "a few crows." He took a double-barreled shot gun with him and his father expressed a fear that the boy had accidentally injured himself.

The telegraph-typewriter alarm said the car was a light blue roadster with yellow wire wheels and carrying license plates," number 24-302.

Young Chickering was said to be wearing a tan tweed suit, a camel's hair topcoat and no hat. His address was given as 1107 Nottingham road, Wilmington.

cation, he early in life added that of big game hunting. From his graduation from Harvard in 1891, Mr. Leiter worked and played at full blast.

He lost and made fortunes, and, at his death, his income was estimated at $1,000,000 a year. This was the first winter in years that he and his family spent more than a few weeks in his birth city.

His racing stable was one of America's finest. His Louisiana home was a historic old plantation on Bayou St. John.

Mr. Leiter was as well known in the Nation's Capital as in Chicago. There he married. There he owned a gas company that helped to recoup his fortunes after the 1898 fiasco. Ranching in the West and coal mining in southern Illinois added more millions to the family coffers.

Since his retirement from business several years ago, he became a turf enthusiast on a large scale, owning a stable of 24 thoroughbreds at the time of his death, including his two stake winners, Prince Hotspur and Princess Camelia.

He never started a horse unless he figured he had a fine chance to win and he always insisted on seeing them perform.

At the recent meet at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, he attended whenever his mounts were entered, despite his serious illness and against the protests of his physician. The last time he attended he watched Prince Hotspur win a $5,000 handicap purse and elevate his belief that he had a Kentucky Derby possibility at last—one of his greatest ambitions.

Last summer, at Arlington Park, he was in the stands when Princess Camelia came home first in another $5,000 handicap. The stewards ruled Jockey C. Landlot guilty of crowding and awarded the race to Butter Beans. Mr. Leiter protested in no uncertain terms. The stewards countered by refusing his entries. He apologized several days later, ending what looked like a bitter turf feud.

Eugene R. Pike, a close friend of the family, announced tonight funeral services would be held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. John's Church, Washington, D. C. A service will also be held at St. Chrysostom's Church here tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington.

Stanton Park Opposes U.S. Funds for Hospital

A congressional appropriation of funds to Casualty Hospital, to take care of alterations, repairs and indebtedness, was opposed last night by the Stanton Park Citizens Association at a meeting held in the Peabody School, Fifth and C streets northeast.

The organization pointed out that the hospital was a privately owned institution and should not receive funds appropriated through Congress. A committee was appointed to investigate the handling of first-aid cases at the hospital.

Interior Agent Goes to Alaska.

H. M. Gillman, jr., of 3449 Holmead place, left yesterday for Nome, Alaska, where in his capacity as field representative, office of the Secretary of the Interior, he will be engaged for approximately six months in carrying on investigations in connection with adjustments of reindeer matters in that Territory.

SPLIT IN KIDNAPING BAND CAUSED HOAX

Saturday afternoon before the ransom hoax became known here, and it was said he had gone to "visit friends." No communication had been received from him up to tonight.

Both Curtis and Peacock expressed themselves as "amazed" when advised late Saturday night that Lindbergh had sent $50,000 to the supposed kidnapers. The clergyman has stated that the representative of the kidnapers with whom the Norfolk men were dealing had asserted they did not want any money until Lindbergh himself had personally identified the child as his own. It was reported at the time that the Norfolk negoitations first became public that the kidnapers were willing to deliver the child on a signed statement by Lindbergh that a reward would be paid within a certain time after the child had been delivered and identified.

South American Work Of Y.W.C.A Reviewed

The work of the Y. W. C. A. in South America was outlined yesterday by Miss Anne Guthrie, continental secretary for that country, in an address before a group of workers in Barker Hall.

Miss Guthrie told of the establishment of the association in Bolivia and the organization's work throughout the country. Miss Guthrie will leave for New York this morning to attend a reception to Jonkvrowe C. N. Van Asch van Wyck, president of the world council.

All Soul's Players Name Officers.

K. Hilding Beij was elected chairman of the council of the Pierce Hall Players of All Souls' Church yesterday. Others made members of the council were Frederic Staebner, Marjorie Brockett, Sedgley Thornbury, Paul Alexander, Sally Stewart, Ina C. Hawes, William G. Eliot 3d and Mabel Van Dyke. Priscilla Staples was elected secretary.

SOVIET TROOPS KILL KOREANS, IS REPORT

Hundreds of Chinese Also Felled in New Battles in Manchuria.

Tokyo, April 11 (U.P.).—A new outbreak of fighting in Manchuria, where Soviet troops were reported to have killed 20 Koreans, appeared tonight to have thrust the Far Eastern conflict into a new and complicated crisis.

Latest developments included:

1. A Nippon Dempo News Service report from Chientao that Soviet soldiers shot down Koreans (Japanese subjects) on the Korea-Siberia frontier when they attempted to cross into Russian territory.

2. New clashes in Manchuria in which hundreds of Chinese were killed or wounded.

3. Delay in the Shanghai peace negotiations which probably will lead to Chinese efforts to place the entire matter in the hands of the League of Nations.

4. A reiteration by officials of the new pro-Japanese Manchurian government that Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese diplomat, will not be permitted to enter with the league investigating commission despite the declaration of the commission that they will not leave him behind.

The killing of Koreans on the Siberian frontier, if confirmed, may lead to fresh difficulties in the Chientao region, which is the scene of the present Japanese drive to wipe out strong Chinese forces in rebellion against the Manchurian government. The advices from Chientao said the Siberian frontier was heavily patroled by troops and it was known that the Soviet recently has greatly reinforced its Far Eastern frontier guards.

Novelist Starts On Hermit Life

John Cowper Powys Bids Permanent Farewell to New York.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Waving a permanent farewell to skyscrapers and busy people, John Cowper Powys, British novelist, left New York today to become a hermit and establish a secret Utopia. Not even his closest friends know exactly where he has gone, except that what he calls "my Arcadia" is an old abandoned farm somewhere in up-State New York.

Occasionally, he explained, he may come back to visit "civilization," but he really wishes to spend the rest of his life in absolute seclusion, practicing one of his greatest theories—that pure laziness is the secret of happiness.

For most of his 60 years, the wiry, keen-witted writer-lecturer has been searching for a place to settle down and "really live."

Police of Rhode Island Issue Kidnap Warning

Providence, R. I., April 11 (A.P.).—"Information has reached these departments that kidnapings are planned of certain children of wealthy and prominent residents of Rhode Island," says a public warning issued by State and Providence police today. "Special police measures will be taken to meet the situation," the warning says and the public is asked to be on guard.

Special attention is called to the fact that children have been called from schools by persons who said their parents had sent for them, and the public is asked to report all suspicious persons and automboiles to the police.

Northeast Group Urges Death for Kidnapers

Capital punishment should be accorded kidnapers when the case merits it, according to a resolution adopted last night at the meeting of the Northeast Citizens Association in Ludlow School. The resolution approved the bill now pending in Congress which would exact more stringent penalties for kidnaping.

Another resolution asked Congress to authorize $600,000 for relief work in Washington—the money to be taken from an appropriatoion of $1,600,000 already made for a new courthouse.

Conan Doyle Knew War Was Due, Widow Says

London, April 11 (A.P.).—Lady Conan Doyle, widow of Sir Arthur, testified today in a libel suit brought by a woman spiritualist against a newspaper that Sir Arthur knew the Sino-Japanese fighting was coming two years ago.

Before he died, Lady Conan Doyle said, Sir Arthur learned many things about the future from his spirit "guide." She cited this as evidence that the activities of a medium are not the workings of the medium's subconscious mind, but are motivated from the spirit world.

Curtis' Long Absence Engenders Optimism

Norfolk, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—The Very Rev. Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, intermediary in the Lindbergh case, in a statement tonight said the continued absence of an associate on a contact mission convinces him that he has been able to reestablish connection with the kidnapers.

The clergyman, serving as spokesman for John Hughes Curtis, now away on the contact trip, and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, said he felt more optimistic tonight than he had at any time during their negotiations.

The statement follows:

"The continued absence of Mr. Curtis convinces me that he has been able to reestablish his contact despite all the recent discouraging complications. If he had returned today it would have been indicative of a serious setback in the negotiations. I feel more optimistic tonight than I have at any time during our efforts to bring about the return of the Lindbergh baby."

Murray Declines To Attend Session

Objects to Ban Placed on Controversial Issues by Governors.

Richmond, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray thinks his attendance at the national governors' conference is "not justified" since the conference has a ban on controversial discussions.

"Since finding that the governors' conference did not permit discussion of questions over which there was a division of opinion it occurred to me that my attendance was not justified," the Oklahoma governor wrote to Gov. Pollard today, politely declining the invitation to attend the conference to be held in Virginia April 26-28.

Gov. Pollard pointed out that while the conference rules do prohibit discussion of topics over which there is national political controversy, it encourages comprehensive study of problems of State government, even if there is a difference of opinion in their solution.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN WILL START FRIDAY

Chamber to Launch Drive at "National City Night" Program.

The members of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will join in launching the 1932 clean-up campaign at a special "National City night" meeting to be held Friday in the new National Museum, according to President Harry King.

With Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, presiding, the members will be addressed by Charles W. Eliot 2d, city planner of the commission, who will discuss the Bicentennial exhibit on the development of the National Capital.

The motion picture of the park system of Washington also will be shown at the meeting.

The movement to clean up and beautify Washington, as launched by the chamber three years ago, will be briefly summarized by Col. Edward Goring Bliss, who will announce the plans of the District of Columbia committee on employment for the 1932 clean-up program, a major aim of which will be to stimulate private employment.

Vice President Thomas P. Littlepage, chairman of the chamber's Bicentennial committee, will report on the work of his group and Raymond F. Garrity will present a report for the District finance committee on the Mapes bills now pending in Congress.

George E. Knepp, chairman of the transportation committee, will tell of action on the present taxicab situation in the District and there will be further reports from the law and legislation committee, Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman, and the public recreation committee, Thomas Slator Settle, chairman.

Plane Crash Kills Michigan Flier.

Pontiac, Mich., April 11 (A.P.).—Joseph P. Goodall, 24, of Flint, was fatally injured in the crash of his airplane near here this afternoon. Witnesses said the plane suddenly dived into the ground from a height of 50 feet, while Goodall apparently was seeking a place to land. Goodall died a short time after being taken to a hospital.

"QUALITY is long remembered after PRICE is forgotten"

You perhaps will not apply this epigram to the clothes you purchase here, because their lasting quality is a constant reminder of the moderate price you pay for what you receive. In your costumes by Erlebacher you obtain not only quality, service and expert fittings, but the finer distinctions in fashions that retain their charm longer. Our patrons who come here season after season know this fact, because it is they who are continually telling us (very enthusiastically, too) of the long lived pleasure and wear they find in all Erlebacher clothes. Why not avail yourself this Spring of QUALITY at a price?

NATIONAL ECONOMY.

President Hoover's conference gave more impetus to the economy movement than any other meeting or event since Congress assembled. Partisanship seems to have been submerged beneath a general desire to eliminate every extravagant item from the 1933 budget. With the House and the Chief Executive cooperating for a genuine reduction of expenditures the Senate will be forced by public opinion to fall in line.

It goes without saying that every item of economy suggested by the President or the House committee will be stubbornly opposed by people whose interests are directly or indirectly involved. Leaders at the head of the economy drive fully realize that it will impose hardships upon various groups that are now supported by the bounty of Congress. That fact does not and ought not to deter them. The country is face to face with a crisis. The way to meet it is not to perpetuate extravagance, but to let the ax fall wherever useless or unnecessary expenditures are being made. Adjustments of this-kind are always difficult, but when the Government is spending twice as much as it is collecting from all sources of revenue they are absolutely necessary.

The joint economy program has not been fully outlined, but details are less important than the fixed determination of the House group and the President to bring expenditures into line with revenue. In the last few weeks the country has experienced the depressing effect of a tax bill that must raise an enormous sum when the people are in no position to pay higher taxes. It would be utterly inexcusable for Congress to impose this new burden upon taxpayers without trimming every appropriation to the bone and eliminating waste and unnecessary functions. Economies are imperative. Government bureaus must face the music just as private institutions have done.

It is unfortunate that any bureau must be abolished in times of distress. It is unfortunate that Government employes, who are not overpaid, must be called upon to sacrifice some of the advantages they have gained. But the Government can not continue to live beyond its income without prolonging and intensifying the depression. The situation has reached a point where Congress must choose between two evils. The suspension of activities not absolutely necessary, the abolition of obsolete bureaus, and even the reduction of salaries, constitute the lesser evil. But Congress ought not to take any action that will leave faithful Government employes without jobs in this period of distress.

In times of emergency measures of emergency have to be taken. The effects of the depression upon the Government finances can not be smoothed over by deferring fixed obligations and raising taxes. The time for rigorous economy has arrived. It may be assumed that Congress will make its retrenchment as painless as possible. But stern necessity rises above mere desirable activities of Government. Taxpayers whose incomes have been drastically reduced can not support governmental units on the extravagant scale of 1928 and 1929.

Cooperation by the President and the House on this issue is one of the most encouraging signs that have come to light in recent weeks. The whole country is cheered to know that the Government intends to meet this issue squarely. Enactment of an economy bill, along with the tax measure, is the most important business before Congress.

VETERANS SEEK HANDOUT.

While the ways and means committee is listening to the pleas of veterans for immediate payment of the so-called soldiers' bonus and hundreds of veterans are in Washington for the sole purpose of bringing pressure to bear upon their congressmen, it should be worth while to analyze the exact status of the bonus certificates. Is Congress asked to fulfill a pledge, or to extend a gratuity? That is a vital question. The Government is not in the habit of repudiating its promises. On the other hand, if the demand is merely for a gratuity never promised nor anticipated by Congress, it should be rejected without compunction.

Representative Johnson pointed out in an address last week that the adjusted compensation allowed to veterans was based on $1 per day of service in this country and $1.25 for every day served overseas. This was limited by a maximum allowance of $500 to the soldier who served on this side and $625 for the veteran who went overseas. Congress also decided, very wisely, against demoralizing former soldiers by giving them a cash handout. Furthermore, the Government was not in a position to pay the cash. Consequently, Congress added 25 per cent to each veteran's allowance and used that fund to buy him a 20-year insurance policy.

It is obvious that these endowment certificates are not worth as much today as they will be in 1945. By investing the bonus allowances in insurance Congress planned to give former service men twice as much as it could have done if payment had been made in cash. The added value was to accrue in the form of interest over the 20-year period.

A year ago Congress allowed veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates. Veterans who took advantage of that privilege have now received in cash about as much as the Government promised them in passing the bonus act. If they do not repay the loans, nor the interest, the value of their certificates will be virtually wiped out when they become due. That, of course, is the fault of the veteran, since the Government can not use his money to earn interest if the veteran insists upon using it for his present benefit.

The original obligation undertaken by the Government for the benefit of veterans could be paid off with a very small appropriation. But that is not what they ask. Their petitions demand twice the amount that Congress promised them. Under any circumstances such a demand would be unwarranted. Under existing circumstances it is outrageous. The generosity of Congress last year has virtually wiped out the bonus obligation of the Government. Veterans who ask anything more at present are seeking a gratuity when the Treasury is facing its greatest crisis of the century. It is not surprising that the more responsible veterans' organizations are revolting against the bonus drive.

CONSTANT AND FAITHFUL.

The National Capital is pleased to welcome the delegates to the annual convention of the American Red Cross. No organization is entitled to be received with more honor and distinction than this loyal group of men and women. Washington is always proud to extend hospitality to the representatives of an institution whose historic record in war is constantly matched by its no less merciful and necessary achievements in time of peace.

More than 1,000 delegates are gathered in the city for the sessions that will be held every day at the United States Chamber of Commerce. Unusual interest attaches this year to the meetings, due to the exceptional activities of many chapters in drought and unemployment relief, in wheat distribution, tornado relief in the Southeastern States, and in behalf of war veterans. Relief work has necessitated the greatest community activity in the United States since the World War, and in all of this the Red Cross, of course, has been an active participant.

In addition to the great parent organization several hundred boys and girls of high school age representing the American Junior Red Cross will also assemble here in convention, holding sessions in the auditorium of the new Interior Building. The days will be full for all the delegates.

JAPAN LOSES TRADE.

Manchuria and China proper occupy radically different relations to Japan with regard to trade. While 70 per cent of Japan's exports to China went to territory south of the Great Wall last year, 56 per cent of the empire's imports came from Manchuria and 44 per cent from China proper. Civil conflict and the Japanese invasion both contributed to a severe decline in China's foreign trade, the United States being the only nation to supply an increased amount of imports. This was largely due to shipments of cotton and wheat.

Japan was more severely hit than other nations in its commercial exchanges with China, due to the added prejudicial effect of the boycott. Japan's most important article of export to China is cotton piece goods, which forms 27 per cent of the total. According to Japanese official trade figures, as reported by the Department of Commerce, Japan's exports to China in 1931 fell off 36 per cent and imports 17 per cent. Following cotton goods Japan's principal articles sent to China are refined sugar and print paper, representing 9 and 8 per cent, respectively, of the total.

As in all figures on international trade throughout the world, the general decline in prices must be taken into consideration. Commodities forming the bulk of Japan's exports suffered drastic price reductions, as did imports from China of oil cake, beans, peas and raw cotton. Japan was still further handicapped, not only by new Chinese tariffs, but by the stimulus given to manufactures in China by the low price of silver. The full effect of the boycott was noticeable in the last three months of 1931, when Japanese exports to China were curtailed 74 per cent as compared with the same period of the previous year. It was estimated that nearly 2,000,000 tons of Japanese goods were stored at Chinese ports at the end of last year. Like other countries, Japan had adopted the plan of circumventing tariffs by establishing factories in China. There are 50 Japanese cotton mills in China, with 2,430,000 spindles. The output from these, as well as that of the Japanese sugar, flour, paper and other mills, have had to be stored, owing to Chinese prejudice against them.

BASEBALL AGAIN.

Baseball takes the stage again at a propitious moment. The winter has been tedious and depressing. Fans of the great American game haven't had much to talk about except hard times, unemployment, prohibition and politics. But after the eventful first day in the Nation's ball parks life is again more cheerful.

Although nature did not deign to smile upon the opening game, the season got off to a good start in Washington. The official opening ceremonies, in which President Hoover took the lead, will whet the appetite of baseball fans all over the country. Today the great tournaments will be in full swing. The classic collision of hickory and horsehide will resound throughout the land. It is a reassuring sound, giving promise of returning summer and of normal recreation and enjoyment in spite of adverse conditions.

Professional baseball has come to occupy an important place in American life. It is notable that its popularity continues at high tide in spite of hard times. The truth is that baseball has become a great industry, furnishing amusement and relaxation to tens of thousands of citizens in all cities and giving employment to a considerable army of men. It is one of the few pastimes that can lure men away from their business, profession or employment during busy hours. Since the American mind is unduly occupied with the business of making a living, the country can welcome the development of this vast recreational project, which tends to maintain a balance between serious work and refreshment of mind.

Cheer up! Play ball!

LABOR IN OIL FIELDS.

One of the most misleading contentions of the advocates of the prohibitive oil tariff masquerading in the current revenue bill as an excise tax is that the exclusion of foreign oil will restore work to many thousands of laborers in the oil fields. Without considering the highly exaggerated estimates given of the number of workers employed in the oil districts, figures greatly at variance with those of the United States census, no claim of the embargo champions is more delusive than this.

The great surplus of potential oil production that exists today in this country is a positive bar to any important increase in labor requirements in the immediate future or probably for several years to come. The small pumper wells in this country number about 300,000. They produce about 20 per cent of the American output. The great bulk of the production comes from the gusher, or flowing wells, that number from 5,000 to 6,000. The amount of flow from a gusher well is regulated as readily as water is turned on to supply a fire hose. These flowing wells today produce some 600,000 barrels a day through valves that are closed down to the fraction of an inch. They are allowed to yield only about 10 per cent of their reasonable capacity.

Even at one-tenth of their possible flow the product of the gusher wells of the United States is equal to more than twice the total imports of all petroleum products. A few hundred men in the flush fields could step up the production of the flowing wells to their full capacity of 6,000,000 barrels a day, approximately ten times the output of all the wells in Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico. Hence it is patent that exclusion of the present imports of oil could have no important effect upon labor.

The present scarcity of work in the oil districts is as unfortunate as such conditions elsewhere in other industries. But it is clear that any decided increase of employment of oil workers must await at least partial exhaustion of flowing output, and is further contingent upon failure to replace it by additional production of the same character. The shut-in gusher oil is sufficient to supply any possible increase in demand in the next few years and in the meantime it is evident that tariff laws are powerless to solve the problem of unemployment in the oil fields.

GET OUT THE HOE

From the Christian Science Monitor.

After all, if you are a true amateur of the garden, it doesn't make much difference whether the caterpillars get your tomatoes or you do, provided they give you at least a chance to save the cherished vine. Actually, part of the fun in growing a garden is in trying to outwit the various interlopers—from arrant ragweed to bone-burying dogs—that would try to keep your harvest from coming to fruition.

And whether your attempts be directed at tomatoes, cucumbers, peas, beans or Jerusalem artichokes, you will have opportunity enough to exercise your wits. You may plant seeds or transplant seedlings, but the fun doesn't begin there. It began long ago when snow was on the ground, cold and frosty by night, but melting and trickling over the eaves into long icicles during the day. That was when you pored over the seed catalogue.

When you get the things into the ground is when the activity begins. You stroll out in the morning to see what has taken place overnight; and in the evening after you have mowed the lawn, you do a little hoeing in the garden, water and otherwise care for the silent growing things there.

There may be some feeling to equal the delight that greets the appearance of the first little green tomato, or the first tiny "cuke." A "baby" anything is an appealing object, and it requires some restraint not to caress the youngling tomato or cucumber.

Yes, there is a feeling that to some extent equals this. When the day comes that a large red tomato—that is, it may be large and red, or it may be puckered and a somewhat pale pink—is on the table. And right from the vines, your own vines.

So get out the rake and hoe and spade—and your wife will show you where she wants to plant the sweet peas.

PAUL HUDSON.

WASHINGTON'S PROWESS.

Lafayette once said that George Washington's hands were the largest he had ever seen on a man. The muscular development of his arms was unusual. It is recorded that he could throw a stone from the bed of the stream to the top of the Natural Bridge, and that he could skip a pebble across the full breadth of the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg—feats not easily equaled by others.

One to Reprove a Cheater Is Not the One Who Taught Him.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A FEW years ago the government of Mexico was too weak to maintain peace and order. The land seethed with revolution. The revolutionists operated in small and irresponsible bands, without discipline or common purpose, and looted private property to get money for ammunition. In the eyes of civilization they were bandits.

American citizens owned mines, ranches, oil wells and other properties in Mexico, all legally obtained, and made fortunes for themselves while the less efficient natives remained poor. When their properties were looted, they appealed to their own government for protection.

One of the bandit leaders named Villa, hating the Americans who took wealth from his land, led his followers across the international border under cover of darkness and attacked a sleeping regiment of cavalry.

Then America acted. If the government of Mexico couldn't suppress bandits, somebody else had it to do.

A "punitive expedition" under Pershing invaded Mexico and chased Villa into the mountains. Then, having failed of its purpose, it came home and the incident was closed.

The American Government, with the almost unanimous approval of its citizens, had reaffirmed the doctrine that a strong nation, in duty bound to protect the lives and properties of its nationals, may without a declaration of war invade a weaker nation whose government can not control its citizens.

Today Japan is doing in China what America did in Mexico. Her motive and her methods may be offensive to civilization, but not one of the great powers can interfere with clean hands.

Hot-heads who would make America a party to the conflict should remember that Japan is but following this Nation's example.

And when the war-mad Japanese, incensed by America's sympathy for the Chinese, attack and maul American citizens, these hot-heads should remember what happened to neutrals and "German sympathizers" when the war madness deprived this land of its reason.

You can't condemn a man for doing the things you did in like circumstances.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Beer for Beer's Sake.

St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The return of beer already has been urged to improve the moral situation and to right economic conditions, and now Al Smith urges it as a means of raising taxes.

Whatever the merits of Gov. Smith's arguments as to the constitutionality of 4 per cent beer, there is room to doubt its efficacy as a tax relief expedient. It seems hardly necessary to create a new commodity in order to find sources of taxation. A quicker and more direct way to the taxation of beverages would seem to be provided by heavier sales taxes on beverages, the manufacture and sale of which already is legal. Dragging beer in for its taxing value seems hardly the statesmanlike way of settling the prohibition question.

Beer's possibilities as an economic restorative or a source of revenue are as debatable as other aspects of the prohibition question. Even if merits in this connection are conceded, few drys would be likely to yield their former position for this reason. The proposal is likely to appeal only to those who are in favor of beer for beer's sake, regardless of economic or taxation expediency.

Taxed for Waste.

Kansas City Star.

The people are being taxed for congressional extravagance. They must bear the burden for the time being. But they do demand of Congress that expenditures be cut, and cut deep, for, unless they are, still higher taxes will be demanded of them. The power to tax can not be separated from the power and the obligation to reduce expenditures and taxes when both are necessary to meet a national crisis.

If He Is Willing.

Detroit News.

One would think the party groups and factions in the perplexed national legislature should welcome the President's offer to take upon his shoulders so large a part of their troubles.

Crazy Quilt.

New York Herald-Tribune.

Against the background of Secretary Mills' criticism the unscientific nature of the revenue measure hastily thrown together in the House becomes clearly apparent. Though he made the point in its favor that it would raise $1,031,000,000 toward balancing next year's budget, a very important consideration, he pointed out convincingly wherein certain of its provisions would at the same time seriously retard business recovery. Since the whole object of tax revision is, by maintaining the credit of the United States, to facilitate business recovery, the conflict inherent in the crazy quilt of levies dumped into the Senate's lap is obvious.

Bold Leadership.

New York Times.

The President surely must be right when he declares it impossible to believe that such legislation as the bonus bill can become law. He has certainly done his official duty in trying to prevent it. Instead of evading the issue, he ran out to meet it and to dispose of it. This was a bold assumption of leadership, but it was the kind of courage which the American people, when they see its display delight to honor, and which must command the respect even of the veterans against whose wishes and demands Mr. Hoover sets himself so strongly.

Lots of Prayers.

Chicago Tribune.

Gen. Smedley Butler told a Bible class in Philadelphia that he always prays before he makes a speech. If the general says all those sulphuric things attributed to him, a few words of prayer at the end of his speech might also be advisable.

Pretty Picture.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is a spectacle for all the world to see the President of the United States repeatedly appealing to Congress to cut Federal expenditures and without satisfactory results.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

American Is Shocked by Proposal to Dismiss Legation and Consular Employes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a measure of economy in the State Department, Secretary Stimson proposes the dismissal of 100 American employes in certain of our legations and consulates, and replacing them with foreigners at half the salaries paid the Americans.

Such a proposition is so amazing that it is hard to believe Mr. Stimson meant it to be taken seriously. Far better abolish these legations and consulates outright than to fill them with foreigners to betray our commercial and state secrets to their governments and our commercial competitors.

Would it not be a better plan to turn over our foreign representation in other countries to the British government? The British would handle it for a nominal sum, and with far greater efficiency and intelligence than we seem to do.

AMERICAN.

Al Smith's Eclipsed Glory Analyzed. His Attitude Hard to Understand.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In my judgment The Post, speaking of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as a Presidential aspirant, is correct in its view that his "prestige, both in and outside of his party, would have remained on a much higher plane if he had remained out of the race this year." In a politician of his standing his attitude is hard to account for. As you say he "has become a pathetic figure in national politics," and it may be that ambition has blinded him to hard facts and the plain experiences of the 1932 situation.

That this is so seems evident when the ground on which he bases his availability as a presidential candidate is considered.

In his letter to eight Connecticut mayors, as reported by the Associated Press, he complains that "it is whispered among the rank and file" that he is not "available." To this he adds:

"There is no difference between me today and four years ago when I was nominated in the national convention of the party on the first ballot and secured for the party the largest popular vote ever polled by a defeated candidate.

This doubtful glory is a little bit dimmed when we consider the millions of new voters that took part in the election of 1928. And besides President Hoover can boast the largest vote ever polled by a successful candidate, the difference between his 21,392,190 and Smith's 15,016,443 being 6,375,747. Strangely enough, too, in view of the pride with which the former candidate points to his popular vote, his electoral vote was only 87 against 444 for Hoover.

J. J. RORABAUGH.

"Former Diplomat" Praises Mr. Villamin's Moderation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article "Japan and the Philippines" expresses the prevailing opinion in America regarding the position of Japan in the Orient. The article is not anti-Japanese but pro-Orient, of which Japan is the leading country. It is an appeal for a square deal by and between the Oriental countries. I wish to commend the dispassionate and cogent manner with which Vicente Villamin has handled an explosive subject.

JUST FOLKS

THE LADIES AND CONTRACT BRIDGE.

(With apologies to Rudyard Kipling)

For years I've played bridge when I've had to;
I've filled, when a table is short.
I've tried to oblige all the ladies,
For I'm an agreeable sort.
One was a Culbertson teacher,
One had no sense in her dome,
One had read volumes by Whitehead
And one is the lady at home.

Now I aren't no 'and with the wimmen,
It's out with the men I belong.
They leave you to guess what they're thinkin'
An' your guesses are usually wrong.
There's times you will think that they 'ave 'em,
There's times when you'll know they 'ave not,
But the things that you'll learn from the feminine sex
Will undoubtedly help you a lot.

One was as proud as a duchess,
An' I know she was eager to win.
She counted her cards ten times over,
Then bid me "two spades" to begin.
Now I 'ad a king an' two aces,
An' I thought that all powerful we were,
So I took her to six, an' they set us four tricks,
An' I learned about bidding from 'er.

The next was the wife of a tailor,
As sharp as his scissors was she;
She played what is called "the official,"
So I opened a club bid of three.
She went to four hearts and she made it,
But as mad as a hatter she were
Cos' a slam we'd have made had I mentioned a spade,
An' I learned about bidding from 'er.

Then I sat down witif my Nellie;
I bid an' she gave me a jump.
I figured she must have an ace on the side,
So I went for the game at no trump.
They opened a diamond suit solid
An' set for a thousand we were.
When peace settled down, I'd a bump on my crown,
An' I learned about bidding from 'er.

POST RECORD MADE BY CHARLEY CHASE

Keith Comedian Tries Act on RCA-Victor Combination; Expresses Enjoyment.

Charley Chase, versatible comedian of MGM pictures, now appearing personally at Keith's Theater, is the latest of popular professional actors and actresses who have availed themselves of the opportunity to hear their acts recorded on the marvelous new RCA-Victor "home recording" radio combination.

Although not officially participating in the contest for $700 in merchandise prizes, such well-known personalities as Lilyan Tashman, appearing in the current bill at the Rialto; Phil Lampkin, new master of ceremonies at the Fox Theater; Maxine Doyle, mistress of ceremonies at the Earle Theater, and Jean Harlow, who lately appeared at Loew's Palace Theater, have obtained visible enjoyment from hearing their voices reproduced on this remarkable instrument.

The thrill of "talking back to yourself" is not confined to celebrities, however, as any one is privileged to make the same type of record at any of the various Post recording stations listed below, and to share in the distribution of more than 50 valuable prizes.

No Obligation Involved.

It is only necessary to visit one of these stations, where, under the direction of an expert and with positively no cost or obligation, you will be provided with a blank record on which you may record your own voice in speech or song, or your playing of a musical instrument. The record will immediately be played back to you and after it has been rated by a committee of judges it will be yours to keep.

All records, whether of vocal or instrumental nature, will be judged entirely upon their character of registration. The decision of the judges will be final, and in case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The contest is separated into an amateur and a professional division, and each entrant will compete entirely within his own division for the prizes listed elsewhere on this page. Children are invited to participate but, naturally, an adult must accompany them when applying for records.

Free Auditions Given.

The contest closes at 6 p. m., Saturday, April 23, but until that time you may secure a blank record at any time during the regular store hours of the recording stations listed below. Whether or not you feel that you may win one of the valuable prizes, do not neglect this opportunity to make a genuine RCA-Victor record, without any cost or obligation. Free auditions will be given daily at the following "home recording" stations.

Charley Chase, MGM comedian now appearing personally at RKO-Keith's Theater, regrets the lack of his favorite instrument as he makes a record at The Post recording station of F. S. Expedition to West Indies Seeking Animal Life Links

Seeking clews to the extinct animal life of the West Indies, a party of explorers, headed by Gerrit S. Miller, jr., curator of mammals at the Smithsonian Institution, is attempting to penetrate the mysteries of Porto Rico's many dark and unexplored caves.

Animals of this region offer endless puzzles to biologists. It is hoped that from the many bones buried in the cave floors, representing the vanished forms of a peculiar mammal life, will be learned something of the fundamental question of the origin of the islands themselves.

One theory is that they were once part of a continuous land mass connected with the North American continent, while another theory holds that the islands rose from the sea and were never connected with the continent. If a land connection existed, it is believed the continental mammals wandered freely into the West Indian area.

The question as to where animal life started if the islands are of oceanic origin is as yet unsolved. It is believed that perhaps the smaller creatures drifted from the mouths of the Orinocco and Amazon Rivers on great masses of vegetation. From the present mammal life of the islands, however, it is impossible to determine what it was in past ages.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SEEKING 11 PER CENT FEDERAL PAY CUT

tions, rather than in one large omnibus bill.

These sections, which would be in addition to the pay cut rider, would group, first, changes proposed of a legislative nature; second, appropriation economies, and third, retrenchment under a series of mergers and bureau consolidations.

Interior Bill Attacked.

Meanwhile the $20,223,869 legislative bill, about which the salary slash fight will center, was reported to the House with a $7,903,517 cut under current appropriations, and a reduction of $2,293,973 below budget estimates. In the Senate the $50,000,000 Interior Department supply bill, cut 10 per cent by the McKellar mandate, was under attack.

While Representative McDuffie was defending his 11 per cent pay-cut proposal before the House rules committee, a White House secretary indicated the President may invite House members to another conference today to talk over the salient features of his own program.

"The economy committee is not out of accord with a good deal the President has suggested," said Chairman McDuffie before the rules committee. "What we want is to save money for 1933. You can not do that if you wait solely for reorganization of the Government service. That can not be done in time to make the 1933 saving."

He declared Mr. Hoover believes he now has the power to reorganize virtually all of the executive departments.

All Except Agriculture.

"The President said to me yesterday that he has authority today to reorganize every department of the Government with the exception of the Department of Agriculture," Representative McDuffie stated.

"Where is the law for that?" asked Mr. Cochran.

"I did not ask the President for the law," Mr. McDuffie replied.

This colloquy followed assertion by Representative Earl C. Michener (Republican), Michigan, that no reorganization of Government offices can be successfully accomplished from the floor of the House; that a plan should be worked out, then brought before Congress.

Chairman McDuffie told the rules committee his "real purpose" in introducing a salary cut rider to the legislative bill was to force Senate action.

He charged there is more opposition to the committee's 11 per cent plan from the high salaried workers than from the lower brackets. The latter group, he asserted, would not know how to plan their budget under the President's plan. Furloughed for a month, an $1,800 Government clerk would lose $150, but under the pay cut plan, only $88, he contended.

Cochran In Conference.

Representative Cochran, who opposes salary slashing, but favors giving the President authority to reorganize and consolidate bureaus, conferred yesterday with Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York. As the New York Progressive is an even more bitter opponent of pay cutting, rumors circulated of a coalition in process of formation to defeat the slash.

Before the rules committee Representative Cochran said:

"There are many ways to reduce expenditures. It can be done by abolishing useless offices. You can pass a bill to empower the President to reorganize the Government service. The President told me at the conference at the White House that $600,000,000 to $750,000,000 is being spent by bureaus of the Government that could be abolished with a tremendous saving to the Treasury."

Observers last night were awaiting a new test of party leadership if the pay-cut rule is granted and the salary issue put to a test on the House floor. There is no positive assurance that the rule will be reported by Chairman Edward W. Pou's committee. Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, is leading a fight to defeat it.

Sham, Says Johnson.

The economy battle in the Senate raged around reductions ordered in the Interior Department bill, under the McKellar resolution. Senator Johnson (Republican), California, assailed the cut in Boulder Dam appropriations contained in the bill as a "sham."

"I think the $4,000,000 should be restored," shouted the California senator. "The fact is that your reduction is just a sham."

"The fact is it's real, and that's why the objection is being made," said Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee. He said construction work on the dam is already five or six months ahead. Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, said the appropriations committee had done the "best it could" under the Senate's instructions.

Provisions of Measure.

The House did not get around yesterday to consideration of the legislative supply bill. Most of its membership was at the baseball park, while District Committee Chairman Mary T. Norton was battling fourteen local bills to approval.

The legislative measure provides $3,236,524 for the Senate and $8,187,924 for the House. For the salaries of senators, $960,000 would be appropriated, with $51,000 for mileage; while representatives' pay would amount to $4,405,000, with $175,000 for mileage. If the McDuffie pay cut goes through, $990 would be lopped from the Federal income of members of both bodies.

Failure of Speaker Garner to accept an automobile at Government expense, allowed him under the law, effected a $4,000 economy in the bill.

Slash Will Not Decrease Efficiency, Says Woodcock

(Associated Press.)

Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, said yesterday his forces' activities could be maintained with present efficiency, but without increased efficiency, with "a substantial cut" in its budget. The Senate appropriations committee recently cut the enforcement allotment a million dollars, so that it now stands at $10,000,000.

The Federal dry chief outlined means by which $700,000 expenditures could be eliminated—if imperative—without setting back enforcement activities. He emphasized, however, that he "had hoped we would be able to go forward in efficiency."

A final decision on the cut remains to be made in the Senate, and then differences with the House will have to be ironed out in conference. The funds bill already has passed the House. The economies Woodcock outlined include abolishing training schools for agents, eliminating duplication of supervision of permits and cutting out the office of assistant prohibition administrator; also a saving in administration of about $200,000.

U. S. ARMS PROPOSAL ASSAILED BY FRANCE

courteously, and the representatives of Great Britain, Germany and Italy rose to express full or partial approval.

Premier Andre Tardieu, of France, who sat beside Mr. Gibson at the conference table, also rose, but said bluntly:

"The plan is insufficient in scope."

The French premier then criticized the fact that the plan lacked strong sanctions to prevent war, and emphasized the interdependence of armaments.

"The French plan, he pointed out, goes much further and includes "big submarines and battleships over 10,000 tons."

M. Tardieu opposed suggestions that the American plan be discussed immediately to speed up the conference action and generally—but politely—expressed his opposition to quick action. The plan finally was referred to the steering committee, where it probably will be pigeonholed until other such schemes are debated. Hundreds of plans are now before the conference, and the American proposals apparently will be dumped into the general pot for debate at a later date, to be decreed by the steering committee.

Great Britain appeared likely to support the American plan for avoiding complicated debate on many conflicting proposals simultaneously.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, praised Mr. Gibson's "practical and definite proposals," and expressed pleasure that "we are moving out of a world of sometimes vague and impalpable conceptions."

The American delegate suggested abolition of all mobile guns larger than 155 millimeters, with nations undertaking not to use such weapons in event of war.

He promised that later he would present the United States views on other aggressive weapons, such as bombing planes.

"If we were all unwilling to acquiesce to any reduction save on the part of our neighbors, we might as well acknowledge this conference is a sort of farce," he said.

He admitted that the United States had not been particularly interested in the question of security in the past, but wished other nations to share his nation's "blessing of security."

VOLCANOES ERUPT; CITIES ARE IN PANIC

Ashes Hurled as Far as 600 Miles in South America; Aid Is Asked.

moved more slowly northward toward Santiago, capital of Chile. Deep underground rumblings and earthshocks accompanied the eruption, terrorizing many thousands of persons in towns of Argentina, Chile and Uruguay.

The erupting volcanoes were believed to be high in the Andes—the "backbone" of South America—about 200 miles southwest of Mendoza, Argentina.

The most serious eruption was believed to be at the volcano Domuyo, at 18,822 altitude, about 25 miles north of the town of Chosmalal, in a thickly populated part of Neuquen territory, messages received here said. It was feared that loss of life would be heavy in that district.

The other eruptions were reported to be the Peaks of Descabezado Grande (Big Beheaded), at 12,756 altitude, and Descabezado Chico (Small Beheaded), at 10,669 feet. The eruptions were violent and could be seen at Talca, Chile, 75 miles away. The population of Talca was terrorized by subterranean rumblings and electrical discharges from the peaks, while the underground roars were heard and felt in six of the central provinces of Chile.

The street scenes in Buenos Aires and Montevideo, which presumably were comparable to the scenes in all towns in the path of the ash clouds, were remarkable. The ash was blown by a strong east wind—which partly kept it away from Santiago—and came so swiftly that it outran mail planes approaching the city.

By early evening it appeared that a light snow had fallen in the capital and in Montevideo, which is across the river in Uruguay. The novelty of a rain of ash quickly gave way to alarm. Pedestrians took all sorts of precautions against the dust. Truck farmers worked frantically to cover their gardens, fearing the ash would kill produce.

Traffic was disrupted. Railroad locomotives could not grip the rails because of the ash and were greatly delayed.

Santiago, Chile, April 11 (U.P.).—Ashes and cinders began falling on Santiago tonight, while vast clouds of smoke and obnoxious gas were blown northward from the belching mountain craters.

The cinders fell on the capital and nearby towns, including Rancagua, Rengo and San Vicente, which have been in darkness since early afternoon.

At sundown, when the streets of Santiago were in semidarkness, the ash cloud presented a remarkable—and menacing—picture. It could be seen spreading slowly along the snow-capped peaks some 15,000 to 23,000 feet above the city and the sun glistening on the mountain tops also reflected against the cloud, making it appear to be a mighty flame extending for fully 60 miles across the horizon. The wind held the ash back from Santiago for hours.

Aviators from the Chilean army service attempted to approach the Descabezados volcanoes, 200 miles southeast of Santiago, but failed. They said the smoke and ashes were so dense near the craters that it would be suicidal to fly near them.

They reported almost continuous noises like heavy artillery fire from the volcanoes.

Parachute Failure Fatal To New Orleans Aviator

New Orleans, April 11 (A.P.).—Hal Stern, New Orleans aviator, was killed late today after his parachute failed to open in the course of a stunt at an air show at the Wedell-Williams Airport. He came here two years ago from Indianapolis.

G. W. U. HOST TODAY TO PI DELTA EPSILON

National Journalistic Group Begins 3-Day Session; Initiation Planned.

George Washington University Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, will celebrate its tenth anniversary as a member of the fraternity by being host to the 1932 grand convention which convenes here today for a three-day program. Chapters at the University of Maryland and at Catholic University are assisting the George Washington University Chapter in preparations for the conclave.

A smoker at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity House, 1128 Sixteenth street northwest, will officially open the course of events tonight. Joseph C. Patty, national president of the organization and a former student at George Washington University, will deliver the main speech. An address will also be made by Henry Gratten Doyle, grand secretary of the fraternity and dean of the Junior College in the George Washington University.

Business sessions tomorrow morning and afternoon will be interrupted by a luncheon at 12 at the National Press Club.

The outstanding event of the convention program will be a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow evening, at which the speakers will be Frederic William Wile, George Rothwell Brown and Gideon A. Lyon. Ten pledges of the George Washington University Chapter will also be initiated at that time.

The Catholic University campus will be the scene of activity for the assembled delegates from almost a half hundred chapters on Thursday morning, while the afternoon will be devoted to "seeing the Capital." A dance at the Roosevelt Hotel Thursday night will complete the affairs of the convention.

William Greevy, Veteran, Is Dead

Funeral Rites to Be Held Tomorrow for Native of Williamsport, Pa.

William J. Greevy, a World War veteran and long a resident of Washington, died yesterday in Walter Reed Hospital, following a protracted illness. He was 37 years old.

Mr. Greevy, a native of Williamsport, Pa., was living in Washington at the outbreak of the war. He went overseas and saw active service for two years and two months. The majority of his service was as a first sergeant with the Nineteenth Railway Engineers. He acted for some time as the personal driver of Gen. W. W. Atterbury.

Returning to this city, Mr. Greevy went into business for himself and for a number of years operated the G. & H. Garage at Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast. He was a member of the American Legion.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the home of his father, W. J. C. Greevy, at 628 Ninth street northeast, the Rev. John Weidley officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Williamsport.

George CurrySuccumbs; Former House Member

Hillsboro, N. Mex., April 11 (A.P.). George Curry, 70, former Territorial Governor of New Mexico, member of Congress and widely known New Mexican, died here yesterday. Physicians said death was brought about by natural causes.

During the Spanish-American War he served with the Rough Riders, and after the war was appointed first civil governor of the Province of Ambos Camarine, Philippine Islands.

Federal Judge Youmans Dies at 72 in Arkansas

Harrison, Ark., April 11 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Frank A. Youmans, of the Western District of Arkansas, died here today. He was stricken with influenza last week while holding court.

The jurist, who would have been 72 years old next month, had been judge of the Western District since 1911. His home was in Fort Smith.

217 Pardons Held Illegal.

Jackson, Miss., April 11 (A.P.).—Attorney General Greek Rice informed trustees of the State penitentiary today that 217 pardons issued under the administration of Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, were, in his opinion, illegal and void. Mr. Rice based his opinion on a lengthy investigation which he said showed that legal requirements, including publication of pardon application and other technicalities, had not been complied with.

Defunct Bond Company Official Sent to Prison

Detroit, April 11 (A.P.).—Nathan M. Gross, former vice president of the defunct Federal Bond & Mortgage Co., today was sentenced to pay a $1,000 fine or serve six months to three years in prison following conviction of fraudulent misapplication of funds. He was granted a 20-day stay for appeal.

Gross was convicted February 13, on a charge of misapplication of $20,000 belonging to the National Assurance Society of Toledo.

Spanish Bishop Hits Government.

Segovia, Spain, April 11 (U.P.).—Bishop Perez Platero published a pastoral letter today in which he accused the Republican government of attacking the sovereignty of the church with the recently enacted law legalizing civil divorce. Enactment and enforcement of the law, the letter said, constituted persecution of the church and its devout followers.

Coronado Beach Navy Ball Brilliant Affair.

The Navy ball given last Saturday night at the Hotel del Coronado at Coronado Beach, Calif., in honor of Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander in chief, and other officers of the United States Fleet was the most brilliant in its history. Nine admirals and hundreds of officers in full dress uniforms, with the brilliant gowns and jewels of the women, made a colorful scene.

The ball, which was attended by 1,000 guests, was preceded by a dinner given by prominent social leaders of Coronado and San Diego in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Schofield, and dozens of smaller dinners were given in the hotel as well as in the cottage colony. The crown room of the hotel was the setting for the admiral's dinner and the table was arranged around a sunken garden. Additional guests were:

Vice Admiral William Harrison Standley and Mrs. Standley, Rear Admiral Thomas J. Senn and Mrs. Senn, Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell and Mrs. Yarnell, Rear Admiral William T. Tarrant and Mrs. Tarrant, Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig and Mrs. Taussig, Rear Admiral Ammon Farenholt and Mrs. Farenholt, Rear Admiral Edward C. Kalbfus, Rear Admiral William D. Leahy.

The University Club dance committee has completed arrangements for the annual Easter dance to be held Tuesday evening in the ballroom of the clubhouse. The annual Easter dance brings to a conclusion each year the series of dances which are sponsored throughout the winter season by the dance committee, and is one of the most brilliant occasions of the club's social season.

Among those who have made reservations for dinner parties preceding the ball are Col. Rawson Warren, Mr. Allin H. Pierce, Judge and Mrs. E. H. Van Fossan, Mr. and Mrs. Northcutt Ely, Mr. W. H. Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Shelton, Mr. Lewis Lofton Moneyway, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Brooks, Mr. Frank B. Netherland, Mr. Andrew D. Sharpe, Mr. Wellsfood White, Mr. Edwin Bates and Mr. E. M. Shepard.

Miss Edith Litchfield, of Lexington, Mass., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hersey Munroe. Miss Litchfield is a cousin of Mrs. Munroe and will remain in Washington for the D. A. R. Congress.

Mrs. Louis McC. Little will return today to Washington and will be at the Mayflower for an indefinite period. Mrs. Little spent the winter in Port au Prince, Haiti, where Col. Little is assigned to duty with the United States Marine Corps.

Garden Club Luncheon In Alexandria Today.

TRAIN

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON

WILL BE INAUGURATED APRIL 24th

Here's news—important news—for travelers to Cincinnati, Lexington, Louisville, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis and the West, from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Richmond and Norfolk and the East. Forget about the weather, hot or cold. For The George Washington, starting service Sunday, April 24, assures ideal temperatures the year 'round.

No Dust . No Dirt . No Cinders

Every car on this train is air-cooled and air-conditioned. Its sleeping cars are the first in the world to offer this feature. Winter or summer, day or night, you can ride and sleep in perfect comfort. No open windows. No dust and dirt. Instead, clean, cool, refreshing air—always exactly right for health and comfort.

Every Car Air-Conditioned

Air-conditioned throughout, The George Washington is furnished with taste, beauty, and distinction. The interiors of all cars follow the bright, graceful Colonial style of Washington's day.

No Extra Fare

In every detail, The George Washington is a luxury train—but it also is a train for everybody. There is no extra fare to any point. All its comforts and advantages can be enjoyed economically. Travelers who do not desire Pullman accommodations will find the Imperial Salon Cars, also air-cooled and conditioned, an unusual source of comfort and enjoyment.

The time-tables below show how carefully this new train has been scheduled for your convenience. Leaving at the "idle hour" of the day, you arrive at your destination at a logical time to begin the new day's activities.

Make The George Washington your train the next time you travel.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Women Are More Beauty Conscious Than Ever

LIKE a butterfly emerging from its chrysalis, women are emerging from the dull, drab looking women they were last winter to the glamorously lovely ladies facing the spring season.

Elsie Pierce.

The spring season makes women more beauty conscious. This is particularly so this year, with spring's little hats wearing colorful fruits and beautiful blossoms, with the gay, colored gowns, sleek, youthful lines, military mode, with its curls and swirls and bangs for topknots, with the fashion world and the beauty world working hand in hand, closer than ever before to make the feminine picture a truly enchanting one.

There's newness in nature. Blossoms bobbing forth, lifting their heads a little meekly at first, to say "Hello spring." There is something new under the sun. And there's something new in fashion and beauty panorama.

It is this newness that is awakening in women an even keener-than-natural desire to "be beautiful." Which is as it should be. For with the new hat and the new haircomb, with the new makeup and new gown comes a far more important change. There's a new interest in people and things, a new fund of energy to body and spirit. It makes one feel alive again, and what is better, it makes one want to live. That joy in just living adds beauty to the face, wards off wrinkles, encourages smiles, makes one feel young again. And youth is the envied counterpart of beauty.

Renew Your Beauty.

As one writer puts it, "spring makes you want to do a good overhauling job on yourself, doesn't it, Miss Pierce?" It is the logical season to take stock and if you are not pleased with your assets get busy to overcome any flaws. Take an inventory of your beauty. Your hair, your skin, your figure, your hands, your brows, your eyes, your every feature. Remember that a long nose is no longer a sign of lack of beauty. Nor does a full mouth detract.

If your face looks as though you are proud of it, if your skin is clear and your makeup appears natural and soft; if your figure wears a slender, molded exercised look, without and pads or bulges (but no protruding bones, either), if your hair gleams with highlights and is arranged becomingly, if you wear your clothes well and keep them neat and trim, that is all the world asks of you. You are probably contributing to the picture of new loveliness one sees everywhere.

Elsie Pierce

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"ARIES."

IF APRIL 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m., from 3 p. m. to 6:20 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:35 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Astrological "do's" and "don'ts" for April 12: Write letters of importance. Travel if opportunities are given. Engage in social affairs. Do not speculate. Do not listen to gossip, and remember that scandal wants auditors as well as talkers. Do not make a business change.

Children born on this April 12 will have marked artistic tendencies and very catholic tastes. They will be loyal and faithful to both their work and man, and will do well in both a social and business sense. They will strike out a path for themselves, and will always do the unexpected.

Born on April 12, you are intellectually virile, and have many earmarks of an opportunist. Your material advancement is not a certainty but it is a certainty that you will see and know life, as few have the courage, ability or desire to do. Life will offer you a hodge-podge of mingled experience and chance—much of it sweet, much of it exciting and interesting and no small amount of it bitter. The excitement will never go out of things for you, and the pleasures of your youth, to a greater or lesser degree, will be pleasures of your lifetime.

You are master of your own decisions, and your ear is usually deaf to advice-mongers. You want to play, work, laugh and cry with the rest of the world; in other words you want to be "one of them" wherever you may be. You do not mingle play and work, although you may be guilty of hurrying through the latter in order to throw yourself with abandon into the former. You are capable of being both indulgent and frivolous, or of being extremely sober and steady. Circumstances, more than moods, are the regulators of your actions. Your disposition is sunny, hopeful and merry, but you are not immune to storms of temper.

Successful people born April 12:

Henry Clay, statesman.

Donald Grant Mitchell ("Ik Marvel"), author.

Charles Foster, Secretary of Treasury under Harrison.

Julian Street, author.

John S. Billings, physician and author.

Walter A. Wycoff, author and sociologist.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Different versions of the higher waistline effects. (Selected in New York shops.)

Jan 4-12

NEW YORK, April 11.—Have you wondered at the popularity of the little scarf? The way scarfs came into style popularity is interesting. During, and, more especially, after, the war many women who had learned their chic and elegance in days of plenty found themselves without the means to indulge their taste as before. But elegance, once learned, is impossible to unlearn. So, instead of retrogressing and sinking back into the limbo of mediocrity, these women invented and sponsored short cuts to chic, or cuts that made shorter inroads into their wardrobe budget!

One of the innovations, or abovementioned short cuts, was scarfs—to replace the expensive fur neckpiece that was seemingly the only possible way to finish a daytime frock that had not its accompanying coat. With what result? That women found scarfs, bows, neckerchiefs and neck finishings in cloth to be far, far more youthful and charming than the animal skin! And a delightful costume finishing that lent itself to infinite variety, required a great deal of taste in selection, and quite a flare to wear properly.

And scarfs have been steadily growing in popularity ever since, until this summer it is rare to see a frock or tailleur without its scarf.

But Mr. Fur wasn't to be neglected, oh, no. He, being a wise old gent, compromised. And the compromise has resulted in fur cloth and fur neckpieces of every description! Every shape, every combination, of fur—one just can't name them.

* * * *

And too, there were other little things that lovely ladies discovered when they found that a banking account actually had limits. All truly chic and elegant women know these secrets, and they are certainly secrets that every woman should know—and can know. So I just made you a leaflet of all the secrets that a lovely lady should know, and you can have it for sending a stamped, self addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

* * * *

The very much higher waistline has some variations, too! Criss-crossing, its variations are, as though they didn't dare just go right up. But certainly the higher waistline is higher this season, sometimes so high that the frock looks as though it simply had a yoke, rather than a waist.

The little waist sketched in the upper left hand corner is more truly waist-like in effect, depending upon the lines of its incrustations for its movement. Then in the center is another waist that has lines, but remains a waist for all that, albeit a high one cut lower only in front. Below, at the left, is a cunning waist that is really a yoke, and the dress is reminiscent of a little boy's pantie suit with its suspenders, while the largest figure shows a draped Sunday night dress of peach grey chiffon over a rose satin slip, with Valenciennes lace top through which the slip shows, and a little jabot flutters!

Au revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Maiden's Plaint.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: We girls seems to get a lot of blame for "petting" that is going on. The outsider will more often say, "Oh, it's the girls' fault. Why does she encourage the boy?" But, that isn't so! I don't go out very often, but when I do, the same thing never fails to happen. You go to some entertainment and then on the way home, he stops the car on an off-road and tries his "luck." I give no encouragement whatsoever and the more resistant I get, the more persistent he gets. If these episodes didn't strike me as serious, I'd certainly get a good laugh out of them. The way they try "to get around" and things they say are just good jokes when you're safe at home and think things over.

Some even have tried to bribe me by promising me something nice the next time they come down, but I seldom have a second date with the same fellow. I am so disgusted I usually end up with a fight and a frozen goodby. I've been told many times that I'm too cold, inhuman and that I didn't understand nature. But I do! I just can't see myself stoop so low.

Well, they've got all my sympathy, especially the men who are supposed to be so strong, that they can tackle most any thing, but when it comes to emotion, they're—oh! so weak!

Maybe, Miss McDonald, you'll say I just didn't happen to find a decent one. Well, if you can't find one out of an average of about ten or over, they certainly must be rare. Or are they in seclusion somewhere? If so, here's an S. O. S. to them. Come out of your hiding places, you real men, for you're needed to make some doubtful girlies believe that there still are such things as gentlemen.

NAN-C.

My dear, it is not "indecent" for a man to act the lover when occasion offers. It is indeed the edict of nature that he do so. And you must learn the gentle art of understanding what is going on in man's rather elemental mind and meeting the situation with a little more finesse.

For a good many thousand years, now, man has been confronted with two problems—wresting a living from the earth and wresting a little happiness from life before he dies. No need to enlarge upon the difficulties that confront him in that first, and to him major problem. We are concerned for the moment only with the second. He is more or less a slave all day. A cog in a wheel. But when a day is done he is an individual. He then reaps some of the rewards of labor. He dons a bright tie and calls up a girl. His spirits rise. He is a man, making a woman happy. A man tackling the second of man's problems. And deep within him stirs that buried longing old as life itself—the loneliness that is life itself, the sudden sense of being nothing—unless some one cares. He does not know all this, of course. He only knows that he wants to hold the girl in his arms, forget the office and the poor cog that will look at him out of the shaving mirror on the morrow and be a man for the brief duration of a kiss. And we regret to state the average girl either excoriates him as a brute or accepts his advances as if he were a brute. Not one girl in 100 in this age of advanced thought ever thinks of crediting the impulse with the faintest tinge of glory. Poor man. Poor cog. It matters not whether his moment ends in a slap or in disillusionment. The result is just the same. He wonders what is the matter with women. Why they mean so much when they are so little worth while.

Now, do not interpret this as a brief for the lowering of any standards. It is just a plea for a little reasoning and a little thought on a most vital subject. For we happen to know from first-hand experience that a woman need not even be unkind to discourage these efforts of poor man to justify his title and banish his sense of futility. At such moments he is about as dangerous as a child lost in a crowd. He is an atom adrift. A cog trying to feel like a man. A man trying to wrest a bit of happiness from life. And we consider it woman's business to know how to meet his mood, to understand and sympathize with it and to know that there is nothing the least indecent in it, but much that is close kin to the sublime. Think it over.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

Fresh Pork With Border of Vegetables

A LETTER asks whether it's true that the climate in Hawaii is not so wonderful after all and that it rains all the time, almost every day in Honolulu. The question makes me homesick, makes me remember those old days with their occasional "liquid sunshine" and wish myself back again on Oahu. No, my dear Mr. and Mrs. T., it does not rain all the time, but during the spring and early summer come frequent little showers, without warning and as light, for the most part, as they are refreshing. One carries an oiled paper parasol of the Japanese variety—at least, those who know their way about take this precaution—and when the drops begin to filter down, up go the gay parasols. But you've never seen showers just like those showers; the rain falls gently and with the sun shining brightly, to the end that they are known as moments of liquid sunshine.

They leave the air clean and fresh, with that curious freshly washed cleanliness which only air in summer sunshine gives. One's parasol may be up one minute, or five, but seldom much longer. And then one goes on with one's marketing in that marvelous open market space as though nothing had happened. Which is, indeed, the case. No one pays any attention to the weather, one is too much interested in getting back to the Diamond Head end of town and ready for one's afternoon dip in the blue Pacific. Yes, it's Waikiki Beach, where people gather to swim before teatime just as accredited in novel, song and the movies.

I can't tell you about the rain, the scenery and the food all at one time. Each is a subject unto itself. The food, at least "native" food, is decidedly "different," as you put it. I'll tell you about it soon, but go ahead and plan your trip, you'll love "The Islands."

And now a drop from the blue skies of the Pacific to a dinner of fresh pork with vegetables.

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.

Kidney Soup

Fresh Pork with Vegetables

Baked Potatoes

Dandelion Salad with Egg Dressing

Fruit Bavarian Cream

Coffee

Kidney Soup.

½ pound beef, top of round
1 beef kidney, small
3 cupfuls stock
3 teaspoonfuls butter.
3 teaspoonfuls onion, chopped.
1 teaspoonful parsley, chopped.
3 teaspoonfuls flour
Salt and pepper to taste.

Parboil the beef and kidney. Cut into small pieces. Place butter in frying pan and fry beef, kidney, onion and parsley to a light brown. Add them to the stock with the seasoning. Bring to a boil and simmer for two hours. Strain, force kidney and meat through sieve and place in soup. Add the flour mixed with one-quarter cupful cold water and boil 10 minutes, stirring constantly.

Fresh Pork With Vegetables.

1 pound pork butt
4 parsnips
4 carrots
1 small red cabbage
Seasoning.

Simmer the pork for an hour and a half. Cook the vegetables in the same kettle until tender and remove them. Finish cooking the pork and cut into thin slices. Arrange slices down the center of a large platter; make a border of the vegetables.

Dandelion Salad With Egg Dressing.

Select young dandelion leaves, wash carefully and dry. Chop two hard-cooked eggs, add them to French dressing and serve over the dandelion.

Fruit Bavarian Cream.

2 cupfuls canned or fresh fruit
2 tablespoonfuls gelatin, granulated.
½ cupful cold water
Powdered sugar
1 cupful whipped cream.

Put fruit through a colander. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 15 minutes and then set over hot water to dissolve. Add powdered sugar to the fruit to taste. Add gelatin and stir until well mixed and sugar is dissolved. Set in a pan of cold water and stir until it starts to thicken. Whip the cream and fold it into the fruit mixture. Turn into large mold or individual molds which have been dipped in cold water. Place in refrigerator to set. When ready to serve, turn out of mold and garnish with a sauce made of sweetened mashed fruit.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me of a flower that will bloom in sandy soil. I refer to a flower that might be described as a ground-cover plant. It bears all-colored wee, daisy-like blossoms, not very attractive individuality, but collectively decorative.

MRS. CHARLES F. S.

You no doubt refer to the portulaca. This flourishes at the seashore.

Please tell me of a reliable grass seed and how much I will require to cover a space of approximately 1,000 square feet. WILLIAM D. E.

Sow the following at the rate of 3 pounds per 1,000 square feet:

40 per cent Kentucky bluegrass.
40 per cent Chewing's fescue.
10 per cent Redtop.
5 per cent Italian rye.
5 per cent South German mixed bent or white clover.

I have a wistaria, seven years old, which has never bloomed. Now I have to transplant it. Must I prune it about one-third and when would you advise moving it? MRS. A. L.

Transplant your wistaria in the fall and prune it about one-third at the time you uproot it. Of course, if you cannot wait until fall, move it as soon as possible before growth starts.

I am planting a rose garden. Where should I place it and when should I plant it? MRS. CARL F. Y.

Choose a well-drained, sunny spot for your rose garden. It may be started in the early spring, at this time, or in the fall. The plants must be given plenty of time to become established before hot weather sets in, or, when planted in the fall, they must be well-ripened before they are moved, which means they may be planted the latter part of November.

I have a pandanus which is standing with roots about 5 inches above the surface of the soil, which isn't attractive. Could I successfully transplant it at this time? If so, what kind of soil should I use?

MRS. HUEY T. A.

Transplant it at once, using a soil composed of good garden loam, sand and manure in equal parts. Keep shaded for a few days after planting.

Is it well to keep pinching back coleus throughout the year? No matter how carefully I treat these plants and no matter if I have them in the house or in the garden they are always leggy. MABEL F. E.

Yes, pinch them back about once in three weeks. If you do not do this they will become tall and spindling.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SNORING.

W. T. W. writes: Is the matter of snoring of enough importance to merit consideration? It is such a rich fount of facetiousness that perhaps nothing should be done about it unless we should try to make them so snorty that they might improve to real "snootiness."

Seriously, does snoring do anything worse to the addict than to give his best friends murderous impulses?

REPLY.

Since your facetiousness can be depended on to snare readers I can use all the space left for the heavy work.

The sounds which excite you are caused by vibration of the soft palate. When this curtain is caught in cross currents it vibrates, causing the noises called snoring. In 99 cases out of a hundred the mouth is partly open and some of the breath is traveling that route and some the other, and the palate hangs just where the two paths cross.

When a person lies flat on his back, gravity tends to drop the enlarged jaw and open the mouth, and the same force puts the curtain in the best position to be caught in the cross current. When the curtain falls across the nose channel in such a way as to stop it, the breathing ceases for a short time, to be resumed with a snort as the palate muscle contracts and pulls the curtain to one side. And that is enough, from the standpoint of physics.

The most important underlying factor in snoring is lack of room in the nasal air passages. In children the principal obstruction to the free flow of air through the nasal passage is enlarged adenoids. In adults the obstruction generally lies farther forward, being located within 3 inches of the outside. In the plan of growth, one of the later accessions is the face. The face of babyhood is very different from that of maturity. The principal structure grown on is the nose. As a rule, we do not grow as much nose as we need, or, if we do, not enough of it is set aside for air passage purposes. When repeated infections have caused the membranes and bones along the air routes to thicken up, insufficient room is left.

Your question is, does snoring harm the snorer? A brief answer and one that is reasonably near correct is—no. It disturbs his sleep somewhat, dries his mouth, and causes coated tongue and unpleasant breath. That is about the limits of the indictment.

Nevertheless, for one reason or another, people prefer not to snore. The various methods of prevention consist of operations to enlarge the nasal passages, procedures to hold the lips closed during deep sleep, and devices to make one sleep on the sides or front, rather than on the back. Procedures in each group have their advocates. They work sometimes. None, however, are wholly satisfactory.

CAUSE OF DANDRUFF.

A. G. writes: I would like to know what causes dandruff. I am just getting it. Is there any cure?

REPLY.

Put your trust in care and cleanliness. Wash your scalp frequently. Brush your hair industriously several times daily. Grease it occasionally if it appears too dry.

YOU ARE THE PROOF.

Mrs. J. P. writes: I was a blue baby, and I have heard that they very seldom live. Is that true?

I am now 26 years old, have been married two years, and have no children. Would the fact that I was a blue baby have any effect on a baby of mine?

REPLY.

1. You seem to be proof enough that it is not always true, whatever the rule may be.

2. Probably not.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A LOVELY DAY DRESS.

Very graceful and lovely is this new daytime dress. Many of fashion's most favored features are introduced into this model with a most pleasing result. Of course, you've heard lots about the light topped bodice. It's so becoming and flattering. Its clever bias lines and the wrapped suggestion of the skirt produce an exceedingly slender appearance.

It combines plain and printed crepe silk, because Paris is so fond of it this season, particularly in navy and white tones.

And here it is for you to copy it exactly. For the medium size it requires but 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with 1 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Style No. 2642 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust.

Then again if you prefer a dress made of one material, you'll find this model stunning in flat or rough finished crepe silk or in the new looking sheers in silk.

The pattern also provides for it to be made with short sleeves, as seen in the miniature back view.

You'll be surprised at the attractively small sum it will cost you to make it. And it will take very little of your time—it's so simple!

Beautiful styles covering the complete range for the woman, miss, child and the stout, articles showing what hats will be worn, hairdressing hints, afternoon wear, subdeb frocks, &c., &c

It points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by spending 10 cents for this book. Just write your name and address clearly on any piece of paper. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Mexican Paintings Are Shown Here

Pan-American Union Is Sponsor of Exhibit in Its Building.

Several oil paintings, the work of pupils of the open-air schools of painting in Mexico, were on display yesterday and will continue to be on view in the map room at the Pan-American Union Building as part of the celebration of Pan-American Day this week.

The paintings were sent to this country for distribution among schools here and in South America by the Pan-American Union. They were sent as a result of an invitation sent several weeks agoy by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, requesting Latin-American ministries of education to send material illustrative of the natural beauty, life and culture of the different countries for use during the celebration of the second Pan-American Day.

According to experts, the pictures indicate a genuine and innate artistic ability in the children of Mexico. It is claimed that the works offer distinct proof of the value of the open-air painting schools in developing creative effort as opposed to the former system of formal instruction in painting and drawing which had been in force since colonial times.

DEVIL'S LOTTERY

Culbertson on Bridge

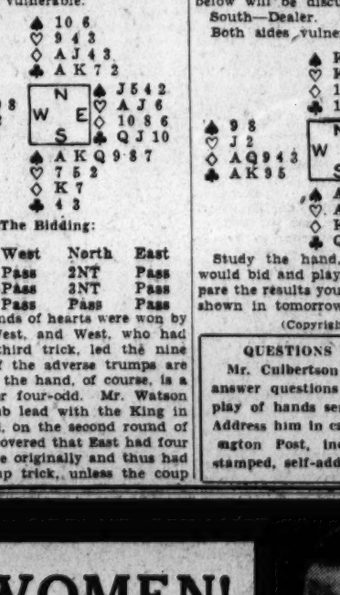
TAKING AN "UNNECESSARY" FINESSE.

THE coup is one of the rarest and most sought-after plays at the Contract table. Hands which permit this play are far from common, and even when the cards are so distributed that it may be made players often fail to recognize the situation in time, so that the coup may be successfully accomplished. If in order to accomplish the capture of an adversely held trump, which must be led through, it is found necessary to risk the loss of a trick through taking what appears to be an "unnecessary" finesse, the thrill in the play of the hand is all the greater. A coup involves the use of an end-play to capture an adverse trump honor when there are no trumps in the Dummy hand to lead through this adverse honor, having first reduced the number of trumps in the closed hand to the same number as those held by the opponent to be coupled, so that the closed hand will not have to trump prematurely at the end and thus be compelled to concede a trump trick.

Recently, in a rubber game at the Nelson Bridge Club, Mr. Louis H. Watson held the South hand shown below, in which he successfully executed the coup, but, in doing so, found it essential to take an "unnecessary" finesse.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♠	Pass	3NT	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Three rounds of hearts were won by East and West, and West, who had taken the third trick, led the nine of clubs. If the adverse trumps are divided 3-2, the hand, of course, is a lay-down for four-odd. Mr. Watson won the club lead with the King in Dummy and, on the second round of trumps, discovered that East had four to the Knave originally and thus had a sure trump trick, unless the coup could be accomplished. On the seventh lead he led his last club, won with the Ace and returned a club from Dummy, which he trumped. This was the first step in the execution of the coup.

The next step involved a brilliant and unusual play. Although his hand contained no losing diamonds, he now led the seven of diamonds and when West played a low diamond, finessed the Knave. When the finesse held, Dummy's last club was led and trumped in the closed hand. The King of diamonds was then led, overtaken by the Ace, and Mr. Watson, as a result of his careful play, won the last 2 tricks with his trump, tenace, East's trumps falling harmlessly under them.

The diamond finesse was a brilliant and sound play and, while it risked the loss of an additional trick, it also presented the only method by which the hand could be made. Faced with such a situation, a good Contract player never hesitates. The game is the thing and the loss of an extra trick should not be permitted to weigh against it.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A good player will take the risk of the defeat of his contract through taking an "unnecessary" finesse, if it presents the only method by which the contract can be made.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

BUYING-POWER PLEA MADE IN ARLINGTON

Lozier Tells Mass Meeting Depression Will End if Strength Returns.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Representative Ralph F. Lozier, addressing the Democratic mass meeting at Ashton Heights under auspices of the Arlington County Democratic Club last night, declared that until the buying power of the more than 70,000,000 people of this country is restored the depression will not come to an end.

"The farmer today," he said, "is unable to pay even the interest on his property and in many instances is losing his farm and home because he, with the rest of the people, is being taxed to the limit.

"The Democratic party for the last 150 years has been the party of the masses and while it has made mistakes it still stands for those principles which will benefit the masses and not the few.

"In 1893 we had a panic, but we heard no one at that time say it was world-wide. Our friends on the other side laid it at the door of the administration of Grover Cleveland. Today we have what is termed a depression, but we are told it is world-wide.

"Had more care been exircised in carrying on the affairs of government we could have avoided this so-called depression.

"There is but one way to bring the depression to an end: By legislating in such a manner that it will bring money into the pockets of the masses, and not in the pockets of a few as advocated by our Republican friends."

William L. Bragg, County Democratic chairman, predicted success at the polls in November.

President Robert N. Anderson presided and introduced the speakers.

There will be no increase in the Arlington County school levy this year, it was revealed today.

From an examination of the Virginia laws it is found that no increase in the levy can be made without notice of such an increase by the county board being published at least 30 days prior to May 1.

As the situation now stands it will be necessary to borrow more funds to keep the schools open until the end of the school year in June and this all has to be paid back in December of this year, it is pointed out.

Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross; George A. Collier, county chairman of the annual roll call, and Mrs. W. W. Willis, Mrs. Edna Butterfield and Mrs. W. M. Seligman, members of the executive committee, are attending the annual convention of the American Red Cross session in Washington as representatives of the local chapter.

The junior Red Cross is being represented by Bernard Marcey, Margaret Yost and Rachel Tabor, students at Washington-Lee High School.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the firemen's hall at 8 o'clock.

Navy Curtailment Attacked by Oddie

Nevada Senator Speaks at Dedication of Tablet to Stoddert.

The road to economic recovery does not lie through reduction of government salaries and curtailment of Navy estimates, Senator Oddie, of Nevada, said Sunday in the course of an address incident to the dedication of a tablet to Benjamin Stoddert, first Secretary of the Navy, in Addison Chapel, near Seat Pleasant.

The tablet was erected by the Army and Navy Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Senator Oddie was chosen to make the dedicatory speech, as he is a member of the Senate naval committee and great-grandson of the first Secretary.

The Navy is of service to its country in time of peace as well as of war, Senator Oddie said, and it should not be combined with the War Department merely as an economy measure.

Other speakers at the ceremony were Commander William H. Lee, U. S. N., representing Secretary Adams; Mrs. David Caldwell, vice president-general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Helen Harmon, State regent of the District D. A. R.; Mrs. George W. McIver, regent of the Army and Navy Chapter; Miss Catherine Harvey, State chairman of the Historical Society of the organization, and the Rev. Andrew G. Shilling, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church of Seat Pleasant.

Taylor Case Oral Arguments Begin

U. S. Unwilling to Admit Error in Dry Law Conviction.

(Associated Press.)

A prohibition case in which the Government admitted that John Vance Taylor, of Curtis Bay, Baltimore, Md., had been convicted on evidence illegally obtained, was reached yesterday afternoon for oral argument in the Supreme Court.

Unwilling to confess error, the Government insisted that the sentence imposed on Taylor should be permitted to stand, although it frankly stated it could not defend the action of the prohibition officers who broke into his garage and seized intoxicating liquor without a search warrant.

R. Palmer Ingram, as counsel for Taylor, shortly before the court adjourned for the day began an argument protesting against the search and seizure as illegal and contending the lower Federal courts should have excluded the evidenc obtaind by the search. He will continue today.

National Buddy Poppy Sale Started by Hoover

The first Buddy Poppy, opening the 1932 National Buddy Poppy sale under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was presented to President Hoover yesterday by Betty Joan Christian, 4-year-old daughter of a deceased service man.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for relief work among war veterans. Harold D. DeCoe, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, took Betty Joan to the White House for the occasion.

City Council Seeking Fire Fund Control

Money paid to the Hyattsville Fire Department by Prince Georges County would be turned over to the town council and paid out only on order from the council under a proposed ordinance changing the relationship between the town and the volunteer fire department.

The ordinance and a new charter and by-laws will be studied by the fire committee of the council tomorrow night and then passed on to the whole council. If approved by this body it will be passed and sent to the fire department for approval.

The new charter and laws of the department are an attempt to clarify the old regulations. The office of president of the department is abolished, the chief having complete control of the unit. A new office, that of superintendent of machinery, is also created. The duties of all officers are set forth in the new code, according to Caesar L. Aiello, town attorney, who drafted it.

Since passage of a law increasing the county aid to volunteer fire departments, it is expected that the Hyattsville unit will receive between $1,500 and $2,000. This is on the basis of a $15,000 payment to all fire companies. Previously, when the county payment was $5,000, the Hyattsville company received about $500.

Howard U. Board Report Due Today

Trustees Are Expected to Suggest Agency for Investigation.

In accordance with a resolution adopted at a special meeting of the board of trustees of Howard University, held in the Prince George Hotel in New York March 24 last, a special committee of the board was expected to recommend to that body today, at the university, a disinterested person or agency for the purpose of ascertaining and reporting to the board all of the facts regarding the organization and operation of Howard University.

The committee which was named to make the recommendation consisted of Dr. Abraham Flexner, Dr. Peter M. Murray and Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, of New York; George W. Crawford, of New Haven, Conn., and Dr. Sara W. Brown, alumni trustee. The board was expected to fill several vacancies and receive certain resignations.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES HYATTSVILLE PAVING

Authorizes Purchase of $200 Worth of Street Signs for Intersections.

New street construction, parking restrictions, and the purchase of street signs were considered by the Hyattsville town council at its regular April meeting. It was decided to buy enough signs to mark all street intersections in the town which are not already marked, the cost to be more than $200.

The council was told that petitions asking the widening of Banner, Arbor, and Ivy streets and Melrose avenue were being prepared. They ask that the streets have 3½ feet added to their width to allow parking of cars, it was said. A petition asking that a road and sidewalk be laid down on Rheems avenue between Wine avenue and Oakwood road was also received and referred to the road committee. A request for a sidewalk in front of 138 Maryland avenue was referred to this committee, as well as a petition asking that the grade of the alley at this point be reduced.

A public hearing on the proposal to remove the parking restrictions on both sides of Block street will be held on April 19 before the police committee in the council rooms. The council also discussed the removal of the electric lights on the street railway right of way along Rhode Island avenue, but no decision was reached. It was contended that the lights, being across the street from the sidewalk, were too far from the walk to be of any use.

The town attorney, Caesar L. Aiello, announced that warrants for nineteen persons had been sworn out because they failed to connect their house drainage systems to sewers. Hearings on these warrants will be held in the council room on April 20. An ordinance restricting the number of chickens which might be kept on lots within the town limits was proposed and referred to the health committee.

U. S. Navy Quits Port For Biggest Maneuvers

San Pedro, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—Prepared to shoot it out with a phantom enemy fleet, the United States Navy moved out of San Pedro and Long Beach harbors today for the biggest show of its history.

Force battle practice in which the combined units of the Navy will shoot every gun they have was the objective of the 100 surface craft and 300 airplanes, which left for the firing area off San Clemente Island.

MONTGOMERY WARS ON FEDERAL PAY CUT

Emergency Resolution Is Adopted at Meeting of Civic Federation.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Reaffirming its stand against any reduction in the pay of Federal employes, the Montgomery County, Md., Civic Federation last night adopted a resolution opposing any such cut. The federation voted to send copies of the resolution to the Maryland senators and representatives and ask that they oppose such a move.

The resolution was adopted as an emergency measure on motion of Hugh Frampton, chairman of the social welfare committee, at its monthly meeting last night in the Bethesda School. The executive committee voted that it considered the matter an emergency and the motion was brought before the federation out of order. The resolution states that certain bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives looking to the reduction of salaries in the departmental and field services of the Federal Government.

The federation adopted a report of the streets, roads and bridges committee, which advocated acceptance of Plan "D" for the beautification of Wisconsin avenue from the District Line to old Georgetown road. This plan provides for bringing the roadway and street car tracks to grade, with a 20-foot strip of 9-inch concrete for the car track section; moving the street car poles to the side of the street; improvement of the bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks and laying of 2-inch black bituminous material roadways.

The federation also adopted resolutions asking annual auditing of the county books by a certified public accountant that a comprehensive study be made of the zoning situation in the county.

A resolution was received from the Takoma Park Community League asking that the Federation indorse prompt action on paving of Philadelphia avenue.

Public sale was started yesterday of approximately 1,000 pieces of Montgomery County real estate on which taxes had not been paid. The sale was held on the steps of the courthouse and attracted some spirited bidding but the county was forced to bid in most of the property sold. The sale will be continued today.

The owners of the property may redeem it within two years from the date of sale by paying the delinquent taxes and 10 per cent interest per annum. The sale of property on Bonifant street for front foot assessment taxes, was halted by an injunction issued by Judge Robert B. Peter, in Montgomery County circuit court, pending decision on the constitutionality of the assessment. The property owners posted bond double the amount of the taxes.

Driver of Death Car Fined $50 in Laurel

Otto Walter Peterson, of New York City, was fined $50 yesterday in Laurel police court on charges of reckless driving, arising out of an accident several weeks ago in which a 9-year-old boy was killed. The crash occurred near Muirkirk, Md., on the Baltimore boulevard.

James Thompson, of Washington, was fined $25 for speeding, and $50 more for having a smoke screen on his car. Mary Blackwell was convicted of reckless driving on the Defense highway near Collington and fined $25. Charges of speeding against Dr. Martin J. Keane were dismissed by Judge J. Chew Sheriff when the physician testified that he was on an emergency call when stopped on the Baltimore boulevard near Riverdale.

INTRASTATE TRAFFIC BAR HIT BY BUS LINE

Virginia's Right to Punish Interstate Carriers Is Doubted at Hearing.

Richmond, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Representatives of the Alexandria-Washington Buses, Inc., appeared before the State Corporation Commission today and questioned the commission's right to restrain interstate motor bus carriers from doing an intrastate business.

The appearance was on an order to show cause why the company's interstate certificate of authority should not be revoked. After it filed a demurrer to the action of the commission, the company's counsel was instructed to file a brief Thursday.

At present the Alexandria-Washington Buses, Inc., is operating in Virginia under an interstate certificate of authority from the Virginia commission. The commission issued its order upon hearing that the company was soliciting and hauling passengers in Alexandria alone, which was construed as intrastate business.

J. C. Masten, a member of the commission staff, testified he rode buses of the company within the limits of Alexandria upon payment of a fixed fare.

Charles Henry Smith, counsel for the company, did not deny the company was carrying passengers in Alexandria, itself, as well as from Alexandria to Washington, but filed a motion asking for dismissal of the inquiry "on the ground that the commission has no right or authority under the law to revoke a certificate of authority issued to an interstate passenger carrier, and also on the ground that the commission has no right or authority under the law to impose any fine or other punishment for the violation charged; to wit, engaging in passenger-bus operation for hire without authority."

Auto Accident Fatal; Driver Is Under Bond

Injuries he received when knocked down by an automobile in front of his home in Vienna, Va., Sunday night, proved fatal last night to A. L. Rickert, 68 years old. Mr. Rickert died about 7 o'clock at the Washington Sanitarium, where he was taken after the accident.

Leslie Nalls, 20 years old, of West Falls Church, is under $1,000 bond in connection with the case. He surrendered late last night. After the accident he and Miss Caroline Davison and Elliott Franzell, who were riding with him, took the injured man into a nearby house. Nalls then went to get a physician, but police and another physician arrived before his return and Rickert was taken to the hospital.

16 TRUE BILLS FOUND BY ALEXANDRIA JURY

Seven Indictments Returned Against One Man; Police Docket Is Heavy.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 923.

A grand jury in the corporation court of Alexandria, Judge William P. Woolls presiding, yesterday returned sixteen true bills, of which seven were against Milton Shephard, alias Milton Dowling, charging forgery and uttering worthless checks. True bills also were returned against Thomas Pratt and Harold Coleman, charging attempted burglary and one for robbery.

B. E. Squires was indicted for grand larceny, it being alleged that the offense occurred last December when Squires brought several passengers in an automobile from New York City, bound for the Pacific Coast, and on arrival in Alexandria, while his passengers were spending the night at hotels, decamped with certain articles of baggage belonging to his fares. Squires was located in Oklahoma and brought back to Alexandria by Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims.

Other indictments returned were against Walter Bryant, charging him with stabbing; A. H. German, forgery and uttering; Clarence Sims, abortion; Margaret Lane, encouraging and procuring abortion; John B. Lowry, burglary; Robert Watts and Thomas Robinson, robbery.

In the case of Elmore Hendrick, charged with assault, the jury ignored the presentment and returned "not a true bill."

The grand jury was composed of J. E. W. Timberman, foreman; Joseph H. Newell, E. D. File, Edward S. Leadbeater, Wallace N. Lindsey, Reuben J. Schooley, T. Clifton Howard and George E. Garrett.

In connection with the work of cleaning the water mains of Alexandria, as recently ordered by the State corporation commission, the 20-inch main on Duke street was shut off last night, greatly reducing the pressure and flow of water over the entire system. Warning had been given to water users to provide themselves with a reserve supply to last until this morning, when the regular service will be resumed.

There was an unusually large docket in the Alexandria Police Court yesterday, there having been 63 arrests over the week-end. Of these, 21 were charged with gambling, two raids having yielded 16 and 13 arrests, respectively, the former being made by Sergt. Kaus and Policemen McClary, Hawes and Embrey, and the latter by Policemen Curtis, Stewart and Welker. A majority of the alleged gamblers forfeited collateral of $5, and the others were fined.

Of the total number of prisoners, 13 were sent to jail in default of payment of their fines.

The Alexandria Rotary Club will hear a vocational talk on "Public Speaking and the Business Man," by Kirk E. Wallace, at the weekly luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock today, in the George Mason Hotel.

Vernon H. Slaughter has been elected delegate to the international convention of the Rotary Club, to be held in Seattle, Wash.

Former Tea House Head Found Guilty

Appeal of Woman Fails Following Conviction on Disorderly Count.

Estella Christopher, alleged to be one of the earlier managers of the Colonial Tea House, at Bladensburg, which was the scene of a fatal shooting last fall, was convicted in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday of operating a disorderly house. The sentencing was deferred.

The tea house was raided by Sheriff W. C. Hopkins and several deputies early last summer. The Christopher woman was convicted in Police Court, but appealed. After her arrest she gave up the place.

Four other criminal appeals were tried yesterday, but in each case the appellants were found not guilty. Trials of this class of case will continue today. One of the cases yesterday was that of James Murphy, of Capitol Heights, charged with driving while drunk. Murphy contended that he was not drunk when his auto was in collision with a bus, but said that after the accident a friend gave him several drinks.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE is always an announcement of importance to make to the theatergoers of the Capital every spring. There are, as a matter of fact, usually more than one. The first, however, to come to hand this season is approximately as follows:

RKO-Keith's is to discontinue its vaudeville policy for the summer months, reverting to the exclusive presentation of feature pictures on Saturday, April 23.

During the past several months the combination policy has brought a long list of well-known vaudeville, musical comedy and picture stars to the stage of the Fifteenth street theater, as well as a group of outstanding feature pictures. The discontinuance of the stage attractions during the summer is in line with a general policy in certain portions of the country.

With the resumption of the straight picture policy on April 23, the feature will be the new radio production of Fannie Hurst's "Symphony of Six Million." This showing in Washington will be "day and date" with the showing of the Fannie Hurst picture at the Gaiety Theater, New York City, for an indefinite run at $2 top.

With Irene Dunne, Ricardo Cortez, Anna Appel and Gregory Ratoff in the principal roles, RKO officials, who have previewed the picture, believe it to be the outstanding dramatic production of the year.

Following the showing of "Symphony of Six Million," the local Keith Theater will follow in rapid sequence with John Barrymore in "State's Attorney," Ann Harding in "Westward Passage;" Myrna Loy and Conway Tearle, in "Vanity Fair;" Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea, in "Bird of Paradise," and "The Roar of the Dragon," with Richard Dix.

Every cloud, they say, has its silver lining, and I hope Mary Brian comes along in time to be interviewed before this curtailment goes into effect!

A grand girl, Mary, from all I can gather.

And speaking of grand girls—a few afterthoughts on this here now Lilyan Tashman:

She is "regular," if ever anybody was . . . None of this laying a dead fish in your hand when you shake hands, but a regular grip . . . No pretense, whatever she likes, or doesn't, you don't have to worry about finding out—she tells you . . . Crazy about her husband, that lucky Edmund Lowe . . . Loves him to death and hopes soon to do a picture with him . . . Can you imagine what a wow that would be? . . . But this may never come off . . . George Gershwin, a boy who writes music—and how!—wants to do a musical show for her next season . . . Having been in "The Gdid Diggers," "Follies" and what not, a stage production leaves her devoid of gasps, ahs, ohs, or even oohs . . . Then there is the idea that she and her husband, that same Eddie Lowe, might like to do a stage drama together, both having won their spurs on the so-called "legit," before venturing in front of those withering Kliegs . . . However this, too, may never come out, since Lilyan is starting back to that wiggle-picture coast on Saturday morning, the Washington engagement having written a period to these intervals of incompetent dentists, annoying photographers, irritating interviewers, and the like—if any such things have any likes . . . Which Lilyan Tashman will tell you they haven't . . . But I can never seem to shake off Edmund Lowe's appraisal of his own wife—"the most beautiful girl in New York, the best scout in all the world, my first and only love, Lilyan Tashman" . . . And from all I gather, that still goes!

When I swam those last few miles into Hardie Meakin's office at the RKO-Keith Theater last Saturday afternoon, hot on the trail of Charley Chase, who should be sitting there in the office but Jack Connolly, former representative of the Will H. Hays organization in Washington, later European representative of the Fox Movietone News and now directing genius of the RKO-Pathe News.

It is too bad Jack doesn't get around more!

"A week ago this Saturday I was on the ocean; two weeks ago this Saturday I was in Paris; three weeks ago in Berlin; four weeks ago in London; five weeks ago on the ocean; six weeks ago in New York; seven weeks ago in Los Angeles; eight weeks ago in Agua Caliente; nine weeks ago . . .

But why go on with this dreary recital? Jack has been traveling. But his stories weren't so hot, at that!

And, for no reason at all, that reminds me:

Washington motion-picture fans can expect some corking good pictures at the Fox Theater, for, according to Managing Director Harry W. Crull, the pictures which will come into his theater during the next two months are honeys.

This parade of hits begins next week with "Devil's Lottery," starring Elissa Landi, Victor McLaglen, Paul Cavanaugh, Beryl Mercer and Alexander Kirkland.

Another picture on the current list is "Young America," with Spencer Tracy, Doris Kenyon, Ralph Bellamy and Tommy Conlon. This was directed by Frank Borzage, whose direction is said to be a masterpiece.

"The Trial of Vivienne Ware," one of the most widely read mystery stories, is another "coming soon" attraction. The cast of this picture includes Joan Bennett, Donald Cook, "Skeets" Gallagher, ZaSu Pitts, Lillian Bond and others.

"Woman in Room 13," another thriller, with Elissa Landi in the title role, is another.

Warner Baxter will play the lead in "Man About Town," a picture dealing with political, social and diplomatic life in Washington. A few other attractions include "Society Girl," with James Dunn, and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," with Marian Nixon.

Well, maybe I'll be catching up to you—I hope not!

GAYETY

"HOT-CHA GIRLS." Columbia Burlesque attraction, with Lou Powers, Lou Devine, Hazel Miller, Hazel Devine and the Gamble Brothers. Reviewed by W. L. Wright.

The "Hot-Cha Girls," playing at the Gayety this week, is one of the "class" shows of the Columbia circuit. It is a happy mixture of snappy comedy, spicy songs and pretty girls. You'll like it.

The two Hazels, Miller and Devine, carry off top honors as graceful, vivacious charmers. Billed as the "Broadway Sensation," Miss Miller was just that in her second appearance of the evening. Very nice, was the opinion of those down front.

Two blondes, "Boots" Rush and June Vitile made good in a big way. Both are easy on the eyes and their specialties were well received. Boots had several difficult parts in some of the comedy scenes and she played them to perfection.

Lou Powers and Lou Devine handled the fun end in a manner that could hardly be improved on. Their earnest enedavors were rewarded by much laughter and applause. The two Bobbys, Leonard and Burch, proved apt foils for the fun-making of the comedians.

TUESDAY APRIL 12, 1932 SPORTS

CROWDER PITCHES NATS TO 1-0 VICTORY BEFORE 20,000; COLD AND RAIN THREATEN TO MAR OPENINGS IN 8 CITIES

MAJORITY OF TEAMS TO MAKE DEBUT WITH REVAMPED LINE-UPS

Upward of 200,000 Expected to Watch Opening Games.

Yankees and Macks to Battle for First Blood at Philly.

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, April 11 (A.P.).—A series of eleventh hour developments today, all calculated to have a distinct bearing on the pennant races from the outset, marked the preparations of major league baseball clubs for the general opening ceremonies, scheduled tomorrow in eight cities under dubious weather conditions.

While a cold wave blew into the Middle West and a rainstorm swept the East, the world champion Cardinals handed the dope sheets another jolt by trading the National League batting king, Chick Hafey, to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Pitcher Bennie Frey and Harvey Hendrick, an all-around handy man.

Thus it appears all holdout trails lead down the river to Cincinnati's outfield. Hafey will join a former teammate, Taylor Douthit, fleet center fielder who used to worry the Cardinal front office, and Babe Herman, recalcitrant Brooklyn slugger who figured in the year's biggest player swap last month.

Reds Have Strong Outfield.

Together they give the Reds one of the strongest outfields in either big league and increase the prospect that last season's eighth-place outfit will be a sensational factor in the 1932 race.

The Cardinals now face exceptionally strong challenges, minus two of the biggest cogs in their championship machine—Hafey and Burleigh Grimes. It remains to be seen whether the world champions can offset the loss of these stars by getting pitching results from new men like Frey, Carleton and Dean, and finding an outfield punch in the bats of Jim Collins, or Ray Pepper, the latest acquisition from the champion Rochester Internationals.

Meanwhile, one of the Cardinals' chief rivals, the Chicago Cubs, must start the season without Elwood English, star shortstop, out with a broken finger, while another contender, Brooklyn, tries the veteran George Kelly on first base to fill the gap caused by the disablement of Del Bisonette.

Over in the American League camps, starting line-ups also were affected by late developments.

Washington's star shortstop and cleanup hitter, Joe Cronin was not sufficiently recovered from an attack of tonsilitis to get into the opening game against Boston.

Detroit, apparently dissatisfied with the condition of Dale Alexander, slugging first baseman sent a hurry call for Harry Davis, of Toronto, to take over this job in the opening tussle with Cleveland tomorrow.

Yankees Battle Macks.

The New York Yankees, since coming back to the big town, have shaken up their line-up for the opening skirmish of their pennant battle with the Athletics at Philadelphia. Sammy Byrd, due to his sensational spring hitting, was picked to replace the veteran Earle Combs in center. The infield was due to start with Lyn Lary at shortstop, the position he played last year, and his spring place at third taken over by the spectacular recruit, Frank Crosetti.

Although weather prospects have upset calculations, including hopes for record turnouts, more than 200,000 fans are expected to witness the eight games listed tomorrow. The outlook was good for overcoats and furs in the Middle West, with clear, but cold weather moving into this territory. It was raining today in most of the big league towns, from Detroit eastward, with one storm blowing in to replace another going out in a northeasterly direction.

Despite the unsettled conditions, capacity crowds were anticipated for at least two openings, with 40,000 expected for the Brooklyn-Boston game in Ebbets Field and the headliner between the Athletics and Yankees at Shibe Park. Fans in Cincinnati, where spring trade winds have blown almost an entire new cast into town, also figured to jam Redland Field for the opener with the Chicago Cubs.

Nationals to Exchange Unused Apr. 11 Tickets

Just to show that he is a good sport, President Clark Grimth, of the Nationals, last night announced that fans who bought and did not use their tickets for yesterday's opening game will be given tickets to any other game scheduled here this season upon presentation of their April 11 tickets at Grimith Stadium.

This action was taken because of the threatening weather of yesterday, which probably caused a doubt in the minds of many that the game would be played, and is not to be considered as a precedent, the Nat owner stated.

Buster Brown Bows To Benny Leonard

Ex-Champion Is Winner by Wide Margin; Has Foe Near K.O.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, continued his comeback campaign at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight by handing Buster Brown, of Baltimore, a neat trouncing in ten rounds. Leonard weighed 151 pounds; Brown, 145½.

Leonard still showed a distressing tendency to trip over his own feet, but he had no trouble at all outpointing Brown by a wide margin.

After a shaky first round, Benny took eight of the last nine rounds, Brown succeeding in holding the veteran even in the fourth.

Leonard started slowly and Brown piled into him with a body attack that drove Benny around the ring. But Leonard took command of the situation in the second round, backed the Baltimore boy to the ropes and belabored him with both hands to the body and staggered him with a right uppercut to the jaw later in the round.

Brown resumed his body attack early in the third round, but the former lightweight champion easily outboxed him. Midway through this round Leonard, trying to evade one of Brown's rushes, tripped and fell to the canvas.

The fourth round was evenly fought as they traded body punches without much damage either way. Leonard had Brown in bad shape with lefts and rights to the body and head in the fifth and earned the round by a wide margin. Brown again stumbled and slipped to the floor.

Brown took considerable punishment through the next five rounds, but Leonard could not floor him. The Baltimore welterweight was staggered by healthy rights that clipped him on the jaw in the seventh and eighth, but Benny could not finish him.

Two Hurlers, Infielder Cut Loose by Macks

Philadelphia, April 11 (A.P.).—Connie Mack wielded the paring knife on three of his young players today, releasing outright two recruit pitchers and one outfielder.

Sollie Carter, a right-hander whose home is in Opp, Ala., and who pitched for Williamsport, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, last year, was let out along with Wilbur Dumford, the youth from Blanchardville, Ohio, who pitched for Beckley, W. Va., last year.

Don Robertshaw, the Collingdale, Pa., youth who made a reputation as an infielder at Duke University, is the infielder who must play elsewhere this season.

3,745,000 Olympic Tickets on Sale Today

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Sale of tickets for the Olympic games here, July 30 to August 14, will begin at a downtown office building tomorrow with 35 ticket and information clerks on duty.

There will be available 3,745,000 tickets, each an admission to one or more of the many events.

Olympic headquarters has thousands of advance requests for tickets, officials said tonight, and the plan is to start filling these orders tomorrow simultaneously with counter sales.

Tickets for the 27 events scheduled for Olympic Stadium, one of the five to be used, will be offered for $22 for adults, $11 for children. These tickets are transferrable.

Scenes as Nation's Capital Pays Homage to Return of Baseball

CHICK HAFEY TO REDS IN TRADE

Card Batting Champ Obtained for Frey and Hendricks.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds secured slugging Charles J. (Chick) Hafey, champion batsman of the National League, from the St. Louis Cardinals today, giving in return Harvey Hendricks, star first baseman, and Denny Frey, young right-handed pitcher.

At the same time, Manager Dan Howley definitely announced Hafey would play for the Reds and no one else. "Hafey is going to play left field and stick here," Howley said.

Howley made a similar pronouncement recently when Babe Herman was obtained from Brooklyn. It had been reported Herman would be passed along to Chicago.

In addition the Reds made a cash payment, rumored to be large.

Will Play Left Field For Reds.

Officials of the Cincinnati Club insisted he would stay with the Reds and not be used as the basis for another spectacular trade.

"Hafey will play left field," snapped Dan Howley, manager of the club, when the question was asked.

Hendricks came to the Reds last year from Brooklyn. An outfielder there, he switched to the infield for Cincinnati, and added to a reputation won there with a slugging ability that for a time enabled him to lead the league batsmen; Hafey among them.

Frey, two years ago a promising young pitcher, has been troubled with his arm and since has not shown at his best.

The deal was the second major one executed by the Reds in recent weeks. They scooped the league, and at the same time got rid of two troublesome holdouts, by garnering in Babe Herman, of the Brooklyn Club, slugging Ernest Lombardi, and keen, active Wally Gilbert.

Golfers to Compete For Carload of Salt

Hutchinson, Kans., April 11 (A.P.).—A 35,000-pound carlotd of crushed rock salt is one of the prizes posted for the Kansas Editorial Golf Association tournament here, May 6 and 7.

"It's the winner's worry what he does with it," remarked Herbert Waggoner, president of the association, in announcing the donation by Emerson Carey, local salt manufacturer.

Coal and gasoline in carload lots have gone to champion divot diggers in previous tournaments staged by the association.

Threatening Skies Forgotten as Capital Greets Opening of Another Baseball Race

OPENING-DAY baseball crowds generally show up for the game with the feelings of youngsters attending a circus, and yesterday's gathering at Griffith Stadium, which saw the Nationals take a 1-to-0, ten-inning thriller from the Boston Red Sox, was no exception—and it was not disappointed, for more stunts than feature a three-ring circus were shown.

Official recognition of baseball as the national game was given by President Hoover, who was on hand to toss out the first ball. His effort was not a good one, for he threw the ball high over the head of Umpire George Hildebrand, who was due to catch it, but the heave was well meant and added to the cash customers' entertainment. In the presidential party were Secretary and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, of Commerce; Secretary and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, of Navy; Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur, of Interior, and Secretary and Mrs. Ogden Mills, of Treasury.

Two Bands, Comedians On Job.

Prior to the presidential wild pitch, which started the game, the fans were entertained first by one band and later by the Army's crack musical organization, which paraded with President Clark Griffith, of the Nationals; Secretary Mills and the players of both teams to the flagpole, where the Stars and Stripes were unfurled. And just before the march to the flagpole stunts by Comedians Altrock and Schacht and practice sessions by the two teams helped make time pass quickly.

Until two hours before game time, there was considerable doubt that play would be attempted, for the weather was chilly and damp and indications were that rain would fall long before much baseball could be played. As a result, the gates were not opened until 1 o'clock and neither were admission tickets put on sale for the rush seats in the left center field and the right field pavilions. The latter was well filled, but only a hundred or so took a chance on getting soaked by using the uncovered seats.

Because of threatening weather, the crowd was slow in arriving as it feared that it would not see much baseball, as showers appeared imminent. The game started as per schedule, however, and it was not long before all thoughts of weather were forgotten, so interesting was the diamond battle staged.

Heinie Manush Plays Hero Role.

It was a great game, with players of both teams showing midseason form, with Pitchers "General" Alvin Crowder and Danny MacFayden performing brilliantly, and with some sparkling fielding turned in by both sides. Especially did the work of the outfielders—all of them—impress, for they had to play on a soggy field, with mud puddles all around them, and yet gathered everything within reach. Fine catches were made by Sammy West, Heinie Manush, Tommy Oliver and Bill Rothrock.

The way the sketch was written yesterday, the fans were forced to suffer considerably during most of the game, for the Red Sox did most of the threatening, but things turned out all right at the finish, with big Heinie Manush suddenly appearing in the hero role. He doubled in the tenth after Buddy Myer had coaxed a pass, and the latter looked like Charley Paddock as he rounded the bases and slid safely home to break up the ball game.

Previously, as already stated, the Sox had done most of the threatening. Meanwhile, the fans had had little over which to enthuse from a Washington standpoint. Judge got as far as second in round 2 but was stopped, while Myer made the same base-progress in the third, only to be left. And it was not until the winning effort in the tenth that a home player was able to pass the halfway mark. Then, as already chronicled, Myer coaxed his walk, Manush did his stuff at the plate, and the Nat second sacker used his speed to dent the dish and send everybody, except the Red Sox, home in a proper mood to enjoy the evening meal.

Mack Fan in Line 29 Hours Before Game

Philadelphia, April 11 (A.P.).—Fortified with an orange, a box of chocolate bars and several magazines, Philadelphia's first bleacherite of the season took his place "in line" before the Shibe Park ticket window at 10 a. m. today.

Daniel Santosusso, 20, said he would win a $10 bet if he remains in line until the window is opened tomorrow for the Athletics-Yankees opener. A day-long drizzle had failed to drive him away tonight.

Jablonowski and Lee Sent to Toledo Club

Toledo, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.).—General Manager Billy Evans announced today that Pitchers Pete Jablonowski and Thornton Lee have been transferred from the Cleveland Club to the Mud Hens.

Jablonowski, a right-hander, is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Cleveland purchased him and released him to the local club. He probably will remain until other pitchers are permanently acquired.

Lee is a big southpaw. He pitched Saturday with Toledo in the exhibition at Swayne Field which Cleveland won, 7-4, allowing only one run and issuing one base on balls. Lee pitched for Shreveport in the Texas League last season.

Madison Square Garden Builds $500,000 Stadium

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 11 (A.P.).—Purely by accident Madison Square Garden announced today it is erecting an outdoor fight stadium, seating 80,000 and costing $500,000, in Long Island City.

Although the Garden, largest organization in the prize fight business, leased several square acres of ground across the Queensboro Bridge on Long Island last week for a period of fifteen years, and immediately let contracts for building the most perfect of outdoor arenas, the project had been kept a deep secret.

The contractor buildnig the big concrete and steel fight plant was not let in on the secret, however, and this morning there appeared on the property a huge sign announcing that an arena was in the process of building and would be dedicated with the world heavyweight championship fifteen-round match between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey June 16.

A reporter, wandering by on the way to work, saw the sign and the news immediately was broadcast. Within two hours the Garden had mustered what was left of the original "600 millionaires" club. Mayor James J. Walker, and George Harvey, borough president of Queens, were summoned, and ground was broken with appropriate ceremonies.

Actual leasing of the ground, and start of the construction work, carries out plans formulated for such an arena as far back as the days of the late Tex Rickard, who built the present $5,000,000 plant of Madison Square Garden.

The new arena, just over the Queensboro Bridge from Manhattan Island, will be only 10 or 15 minutes ride from the center of the city by

Women's Title Pin Stakes Are Landed by Miss Gulli

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 11.—More glory was heaped on Lorraine Gulli, of Washington, tonight, when she captured the National Duckpin Congress Sweepstakes for women on the Regent Spillways.

The Capital luminary, who for three years has been ranked first nationally and has a large string of honors to her credit, easily led a field of three other Washingtonians, 10 Baltimore duckpinists and one roller from Durham, N. C.

With sets of 336, 348 and 366 for a total of 1,050, Miss Gulli took down $75. Washington girls predominated the meet, for second prize of $25 went to Marie Whelan, of the Capital, while Evelyn Ream, of the same place, received $15 for next honors.

Prizes of $5 each were given to Viola Raycob, Frances Krieg and Helen Clements for having the highest sets among the remaining bowlers.

Miss Gulli's 366 was the highest for a single set, while Miss Whelan, with a strike and six spares, appeared on top for one game, her total being 152.

NAVY-ORIOLE GAME OFF.

Annapolis, Md., April 11.—The Navy-Baltimore Oriole baseball game scheduled to be played here today was prevented by wet grounds. Bad weather has been a jinx to the Tar and their exhibition games with either the Orioles, or Washington Nationals in recent years.

MYER COUNTS IN 10TH ON MANUSH'S DOUBLE TO DEFEAT RED SOX

Macfayden Loses in Duel; Each Yields Only 7 Hits.

Walk Paves Way for Victory; Crowder Strikes Out 7.

Spangled Banner," the players trooped back to the presidential box behind the Army Band. Managers Johnson and Collins presented Mr. Hoover with the official ball, and the formal tossout was accomplished. There was nothing left to do but play the ball game.

Crowder was in possession of all his speed yesterday and his pitches zoomed into the big mitt of Roy Spencer with resounding thuds all afternoon. Not a Boston batter was permitted a walk, and the fact that four of Crowder's seven strikeouts were at the expense of his pitching rival, Macfayden, could not detract from his performance.

Against Crowder, the Red Sox appeared to be batting with their mashie niblicks all afternoon, hitting only four balls on the ground, one of which was converted into a double play and another into an out at home plate.

Both Yield Seven Hits.

Like Crowder, Macfayden yielded up only seven safeties, with Manush making two of these and Crowder himself connecting for two. But smart fielding by Tom Oliver in the treacherous outfield cut off no less than three potential base hits. Until they scored the winning run in the tenth, not a Washington batter reached third base against Macfayden. The deadly execution of the Nats' infield, with Johnny Kerr playing at short stop in place of the ailing Joe Cronin, asserted itself emphatically in the first inning after Rothrock opened the game with a handle hit to left field that went for a Texas league single.

Buddy Myer then took a blazing grounder from the bat of Hal Rhyne and tossed to Kerr at second, who in turn relayed the ball to Judge at first base for the first and only double play of the game, erasing the first Boston rally.

The Nats threatened mildly in their first inning when Sammy West singled to center after Myer had grounded to Van Camp and Manush had popped to Rhyne. But Carl Reynolds, in his first appearance in a Washington uniform, could only dump a grounder in front of the plate, and was thrown out by Berry.

Crowder disposed of the Red Sox in order in the next three innings, only nine men facing him, with a double by Berry with one out in the third the only hit during that interim. But Crowder struck out Macfayden and forced Rothrock to pop to Kerr to terminate the threat.

Nats in Scoring Position.

The Nats were in scoring position in the second when Macfayden walked Judge, leading off, and he took second while the pitcher was throwing out Bluege, but Pickering made a clever stop of Kerr's roller and tagged Judge out on the line. A single by Spencer, which sent Kerr to second, was nullified when Crowder rolled to Macfayden.

The Nats were knocking at home plate again in the third when Buddy Myer led off with a single to center, but Manush lined to McManus, West grounded to Van Camp and Reynolds flied to Oliver. The Nats put their lead-off man on base for the third straight inning when Judge drew a second walk in the fourth, but he was out stealing when Kerr missed on a hit-and-run play.

The situation was fraught with ominous possibilities for Crowder in the fifth when Pickering sent a long double to the left field fence to lead off the inning. He took third on Van Camp's sacrifice bunt, but with the Washington infield close in, the run was choked off at the plate when Bluege took Oliver's grounder and tossed to Spencer as Pickering tried vainly to score.

The fourth hit off Macfayden was a single by Crowder in the fifth with Nats at Boston Today With Marberry Due Mound Job.

Cronin Remains Here; Hopes to Be Ready for A's Sunday.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON and his charges rushed to the Union Station after yesterday's game and took a rattler headed for Boston, where they will participate in the Red Sox's opener this afternoon, weather permitting. Storm warnings are out on the New England coast however, a snow and sleet storm hit the Hub yesterday, and indications are that there will be no game in Boston today.

If played, it will be staged in Braves' Field, which holds about 12,000 more than does the Red Sox ballwick. Fred Marberry is due to draw the Washington pitching assignment, with Jack Russell listed as the Red Sox starter.

Nats Hustle Away for Hub Opener Today.

The Nationals will be without the services of Shortstop Joe Cronin, who suffered a mild relapse from sinus trouble and inflamed tonsils, and did not even take the trip to Boston. He hopes to be able to start working out here tomorrow and to be ready to take his place in the line-up when the Nats return Sunday for their first home game with the Philadelphia Athletics. Meanwhile, Johnny Kerr will fill in at short, and, if he hits and fields like he did in the exhibition games, he will prove to be a mighty worthy substitute.

A crew from the ground-keeping department spent more than two hours yesterday morning sopping up water in the outfield with buckets and towels. It reminded of the fellow who tried to bail out the ocean.

Umpire-in-Chief Connolly On Hand.

American League Umpire-in-Chief Tommy Connolly was here for yesterday's opener and held a conference with the guessers before the game. "There are several things I want to impress on the staff," he said, "and I plan to hustle to all of the league cities as soon as possible to have meetings with all of the umpires."

Before yesterday's game, President Clark Griffith received a telegram from the Biloxi Lions Club, wishing the Nationals success in the coming race.

Infielder Jimmy McLeod, released from Chattanooga to the Nationals, did not report to Manager Johnson yesterday, as expected. Thus, the Nats left for Boston with no utility infielders other than Joe Kuhel, who is available for first base only.

Crowder's first offering, as the game opened with Rothrock up, was a strike which the batter watched cut the plate almost in half.

In the Nats' first, Berry made a good play of Reynolds' topped one toward third to nail the batter at the initial sack by a whisker.

Kerr raced over behind the pitcher's box to share Pickering's popfly.

MacFayden Passes Judge on Four Straight.

MacFayden, one of the few bespectacled pitchers in baseball, had trouble seeing the plate when Judge led off in the second for the Nats, and the first sacker was passed on four successive balls.

Berry's double in the third was a well-meant effort. The ball headed for the stands in left center, but fell short and bounded off the concrete base.

Crowder fanned MacFayden on three successive strikes in the third, the pitcher, who is more than a fair hitter, swinging at all three offerings.

West's hot grasser in the third took a bad hop as Van Camp went after it and the first sacker was lucky to hang on to the sphere. He tried for a double play after stepping on first, but Myer, who had opened with a clean single, beat the ball to second by a small margin.

The Nat outfield retired the Sox in order in round 4, West taking flies off the bats of Rhyne and McManus and Manush ending the session by hustling back to camp under a drive off Webb's bat.

Judge walked for a second time starting the home fourth, but later was caught heading for second when Kerr missed the ball with the hit-and-run on.

Pickering's Double Fails to Help Sox.

Pickering opened the alien fifth with a double to the base of the left field stands. It was the Sox's third hit and their second two-bagger. Pickering later was caught at the plate trying to score on Oliver's bounder to Bluege.

Rhyne made a good stop of Crowder's grasser over toward second in the fifth, but was in no position to make the peg to first and the blow went as a hit for the General. Myer, next up, worked the count to three and two and then shot a liner down the right-field line which gave the fans a thrill. It curved over, however, and fell foul by a matter of inches. Then Buddy flied out to Webb and Manush sent a pop-foul to Van Camp to end the session.

Manush raced over toward the left-field foul line to fasten himself on the end of a drive off Rothrock's bat.

CHESTNUT OAK WINS IN BOWIE BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

Avalon Loses Sprint Race By Nose

8,000 Watch Stretch Battle Go to Ryan-Owned Racer.

Vishnu and Ladino in Wins; Bright Bird Pays $50.50.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

CHESTNUT OAK, as sturdy as the Thomas Fortune Ryan millions, which support the Barry Vail Stable, defeated Howard Bruce's Avalon by a nose to win the George Washington Bicentennial Trophy Race, the feature of yesterday at Bowie. The Sagamore Stable furnished the third-money horse with Soupcon.

The prospect of long shots scoring over the sloppy track proved a lure for some 8,000 fans despite the damp, chilly day. The long one turned up in the second race when Bright Bird stepped down the stretch to pay a $50.50 mutuel.

John Barry Ryan, owner of the Barry Vail Stable, was in the clubhouse with a party of friends and the race could not have been better to suit him. Jockey Snider sent Chestnut Oak to the front at the break, with Avalon and Robertson two lengths behind. Soupcon was third.

There was no change in the relative positions for the remainder of the distance. Avalon made his expected move in the stretch but the favorite just missed getting up. Jarvis Spencer, of the Maryland Racing Commission, presented the trophy to J. P. Jones, trainer of Chestnut Oak.

Animate Beats
2-Year Olds.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's Animate, daughter of Stimulus, defeated a cheap group of 2-year-old maidens in the opening test. Blazing Crimp was second and the favored Mintogee third.

Blazing Crimp broke a neck in front of Animate and the pair fought a beautiful battle with the latter drawing away at the finish. Mintogee was forced to fight its way into a contending position and closed well, coming up on the outside. Animate paid a $19.40 mutuel.

Bright Bird, owned by D. C. Sands, made a lot of lower jaws drop in the second race when he defeated Dancing Boy, a field horse, by a neck to pay off at the rate of $50.50 for $2. Your Flag made it a complete upset by taking the third money.

Benish Way, Bright Bird and Polyfon was the order in which the field slopped up the back stretch. The first two settled into a battle, while making the long turn from the far end Benish Way slowed down entering the stretch and Dancing Boy moved up to make it a contest for Bright Bird. This pair fought it out with Your Flag making a belated rush to get in the money.

Hanford Rides Vishnu
To Victory.

Vishnu, ably ridden by Buddy Hanford, won the first division of the District Line, to all means and purposes, the third race. The Nevada Stock Farm entry beat Wise Count, with Robertson up, and Indicative, from the Sagamore holdings, was third.

Vishnu had good racing luck to take the race. Hanford broke the Nevada colt on top, followed by Justa Prince and Indicative. Wise Count was having trouble getting under way. At the far turn, Vishnu was six lengths in front of Wise Count and Indicative. Wise Count's saddle slipped at the turn into the stretch, and, despite the fact that Robertson could do little to aid, his mount finished courageously to take the place money, a length behind the winner. Indicative was another length behind Wise Count.

Ral Parr's Ladino, which raced with success at Laurel last fall, started the 1932 campaign with a victory in the second division of The District Line. The Trueman-trained gelding won from Brave and Bold, with Ladfield third. Robertson rode the winner and the victory was his tenth of the meeting.

Ladino Hustled
To Front.

Ladino had to be hustled at the start to get in front of Brave and Bold, and the pair raced as a team for most of the remaining distance. Indian Runner appeared to be a threat early, but soon dropped back, and Ladfield took up the third running. He held that position at the finish.

Another upset occurred in the sixth race, when Chicsu stuck it out to win by a half length at 23:10 for $2. Deedie was a head before the heavily played Aldershot for place honors. The winner raced Aldershot into defeat after entering the stretch, Aldershot losing ground at the turns. Deedie, always a threat, finished with a rush, but could not get up. Aldershot was coming again in the closing stages.

Black Patricia won the last race by five lengths, to pay $8.90. Fair Bill beat Lillybet by a neck for the place.

GARDEN TO BUILD $500,000 STADIUM

subway and has parking space enough to accommodate 5,000 automobiles.

Heretofore the Garden has leased for outdoor boxing matches two major league baseball parks, the Polo Grounds of the New York Giants, and the Yankee Stadium, on an arrangement that split 10 per cent of the gate receipts between the two clubs, regardless of which park was used for fights.

It has been estimated that during the last five years alone the Garden has paid the ball parks in rental almost $1,000,000, twice the estimated cost of the new arena.

Bowl shaped, the new arena also will cater to college football games, baseball games, and any other outdoor athletic competition.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANIMATE, $19.40, $9.10, $3.90; BLAZING CRIMP, $5.40, $3.40; MINTOGEE, $2.70.

ANIMATE, a stout factor and showing good ability in the footing, secured racing room on the inside of the pacemaker and, responding resolutely to pressure, was up in the closing sixteenth. BLAZING CRIMP, forced to go around on the outside to take command, was stoutly handled and held on gamely. MINTOGEE, worked his way up on the outside and finished determined fourth. SEYMOUR raced evenly throughout. SINGLEAM tired during the final quarter mile. OASIS BABY broke slowly. OLD FIELD lost ground the entire trip. WESTY'S TWINKLE had early speed. LONE HAND was never a factor.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:39. Off at 2:42. Winner, D. C. Sand's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRIGHT BIRD, $50.50, $26.00, $15.90; DANCING BOY (field), $23.90, $13.10; YOUR FLAG, $7.00.

BRIGHT BIRD, forcing a good early pace, wore BENISH WAY down when straightened into the home stretch and, continuing gamely, just lasted long enough to stall off DANCING BOY. Later worked his way to the inside of the pacemakers and closed full of run. YOUR FLAG, shuffled back early, was taken to the outside and finished stoutly. BENISH WAY was used up setting the pace and stopped fast in the stretch run. DURVA, away in a tangle, improved her position stoutly in the final half mile. THE GEN could not reach the leaders. POLYFON quit.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The District Line (first division). For 3-year-olds. Start bad from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:07. Off at 3:12. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's b. c. (3), by Ladkin—Valley of the Moon. Trained by R. P. Carman, jr. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VISHNU, $14.20, $5.10, $3.30; WISE COUNT, $4.90, $2.50; INDICATIVE, $2.50.

VISHNU, quickest to get going, moved into a commanding lead after the opening furlong, was kept under slight pressure early, and then was forced to a drive during the stretch run to withstand WISE COUNT. Latter, away slowly, entered contention when sent up on the outside and closed with good courage, although Robertson was unable to give full justice when his saddle slipped. INDICATIVE, blocked slightly when JUSTA PRINCESS swerved to the inside leaving the back stretch, secured racing room thereafter and continued with good speed. THURSDAY was unable to reach the pacemakers. SENADO was outrun. BATTERING RAM was badly outrun after breaking very slow. JUSTA PINCESS was not persevered with when she tired.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The District Line (second division). For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:39. Off at 3:45. Winner, R. Parr's ch. c. (3), by Ladkin—Cuba Belle. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:07 2-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADINO, $5.70, $3.50, $3.30; BRAVE AND BOLD, $4.20, $3.20; LADFIELD, $6.00.

LADINO, at home in the going and showing good speed, raced BRAVE AND BOLD into defeat in the first half mile and drew out steadily thereafter. BRAVE AND BOLD, a keen factor for the first half mile, faltered in the final drive. LADFIELD, hard ridden and kept safe in the firmer footing, was held safe when the final test came. INDIAN RUNNER, stoutly ridden and kept under severe punishment, was unable to threaten the leaders. CHIEF'S TROJAN could never improve his position. HIGH PROOF and BUCK AND WING were outrun.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The George Washington Bicentennial Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:13. Off at 4:13½. Winner, Barry Vail Stable's ch. h (6), by Apprehension—Bantry Pass. Trained by J. P. Jones. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHESTNUT OAK, $7.80, $4.00, $2.90; AVALON, $2.80, $2.40; SOUPCON, $3.20.

CHESTNUT OAK outran his field while showing good speed in the footing, saved ground wherever possible and, responding gamely when shaken up in the final furlong, took command to stall off AVALON. Latter, off with pursuit of CHESTNUT OAK, closed with a rush when put to punishment in the final drive. SOUPCON was under stiff urging the entire trip, but could not reach the pacemakers. BLIMP was held safe. PIGEON HOLE was never able to offer contention.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:39. Off at 4:41½. Winner, E. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHICSU, $23.10, $10.00, $5.10; DEEDIE, $9.40, $4.80; ALDERSHOT, $2.80.

CHICSU, rushed hard to take command when entering the back stretch, was steadied along while kept in the firmer footing and, holding on stoutly when put to a drive, just lasted long enough to stall off DEEDIE. Latter, on the outside of the leaders early, came through on the inside of ALDERSHOT when straightening into the home stretch and was wearing the winner down steadily. ALDERSHOT, following in near pursuit of CHICSU, came gamely for the finishing drive. SYRIAC finished full of run in the final half mile. JOLLY KING closed fast from a slow beginning. BUBOLA hung in the final test. FULL DRESS raced in the deepest footing for the entire journey. BUB M'FARLAND was always outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:15. Winner, S. Moscarelli's blk. m. (6), by Alibi—Mary Patricia. Trained by R. McKeown. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:50 3-5, 1:16 3-5, 1:43, 1:49 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK PATRICIA, $8.90, $3.90, $2.80; FAIR BILL, $4.00, $2.40; LILY BET, $2.50.

BLACK PATRICIA, going in her best form and, favored by improved handling, displaced LILY BET when midway of the back stretch and, shaken up for the final drive, drew out at will. FAIR BILL, saving ground until reaching the far turn, came to the outside and closed with good courage. LILY BET, a forward factor for the entire trip, held on well. MAJOR GENERAL, well placed in the early stages, finished stoutly. GAYOLA, slow to begin, could never reach a forward position. TANGIER was held safe. FAIR BOB tired. WATER LAD had no mishaps.

RACING NOTES

Trainer Freddie Hopkins sent C. V. Whitney's Equipoise on the track prior to the day's opener, and the 4-year-old son of Pennant and Swinging went three-quarters in 0:12 3-5, 0:25, 0:37, 0:50, 1:03 3-5, 1:16 3-5. Harry Shilliek had the colt under a stout rein as he breezed over the muddy course.

A. F. Dayton, of Laurel, former steeplechase rider, died today in Havana, Cuba, according to a cable received here this afternoon.

Edward F. Seagram, of Waterloo, accompanied by Mrs. Seagram, were clubhouse visitors. Their thoroughbreds are being made ready for the racing at Havre de Grace.

Mayor Frank Hayes of Waterbury, Conn., came down to see his Syriac perform today.

Jockey Melvin Lewis was taken sick this morning and canceled his mounts.

Among the Preakness candidates seen on the track this morning were Nevada Stock Farm's Hygro, who went three-quarters in 1:17; Greentree Stable's Semaphore, who was timed a mile in 1:33 2-5, and J. E. Keyser's Triple Threat, who went three-quarters in 1:19.

KELLY JOINS DODGERS.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—George Kelly, first baseman acquired from Minneapolis, of the American Association, by the Brooklyn Dodgers, reported today to his new club.

Kelly will be at first when the Dodgers open the National League campaign against Boston tomorrow.

one out, but Myer and Manush could not help the cause. Both teams went down in order in the sixth and both came up with threats in the seventh.

The Red Sox clustered two hits with one out, Webb singling to center and taking second on Pickering's single to left, but neither advanced in the face of Van Camp's pop to Judge and Oliver's fly to West, who gathered the ball in after a long run to the fence.

Johnny Kerr put a potential run on the bases when he singled to left with one out, but he was forced at second by Spencer. Crowder prolonged the rally with a hit to right that sent Spencer to second, but Myer grounded out to McManus.

Both Crowder and Macfayden were again in command as the game wore into the eighth and ninth and entered extra innings. Not the semblance of a hit marked the two frames, but in the tenth the Red Sox strained mightily toward a run.

One was out when Van Camp singled through the box. Crowder disposed of Oliver on a fly to Manush, but Berry, who was hitting the ball hard all day, singled to left, sending Van Camp to second. Manager Collins, deeming the situation unworthy of a pinch hitter in view of Macfayden's effectiveness on the mound, allowed the pitcher to bat for himself and he struck out for the fourth time.

Then came the Nats' tenth.

in the sixth. Crowder had fanned MacFayden for the second straight time opening the round and he ended it by setting down Rhyne in the same manner.

Weat was MacFayden's only strikeout victim, he being sent back to the bench talking to himself opening the home sixth.

Carl Reynolds smote one of MacFayden's offerings full in the face in the sixth canto and it looked like the blow was good for extra bases when the ball left the bat. Rothrock came in fast, however, and snared the sphere just as it was about to land.

Nat Fans Given Big Scare
In Seventh.

The Sox had the fans sitting on the edges of their chairs in the seventh, when, with one down, Webb and Pickering singled in succession and Van Camp worked the count to three and two. He finally popped to Judge, however, and sighs of relief could be heard all over the stadium when West camped under Oliver's short hoist.

Rhyne made a good play at the Nats' expense in the "lucky" frame when, after Kerr singled with one dead, he gathered in Spencer's hard bounder. He made a force play at second, but McManus could not get the ball to first in time to nail the catcher for a double play.

Johnson was taking no chances on being unprepared in case Crowder, who was performing brilliantly and going at full speed, should suddenly tire and he had both Bob Burke and Montie Weaver warming up in the bull pen during the seventh so that either could be called on suddenly. Later Marberry warmed up, but he merely was prepping for his scheduled start today in Boston.

Oliver had to race back well toward the stands in deep center to drag down Manush's liner opening the home eighth.

Sammy West made one of his copyrighted catches opening the eighth, racing almost to the stands in left-center to rob Berry of an extra baser.

In Round 9.

In the home ninth, Oliver hustled over toward left to snare a drive from Judge's bat, which had "hit" written all over it, when he started it on its way.

Catcher Berry was charged with the only error of the game when he muffed Kerr's high fly with two dead in the ninth. The ball skidded out of his glove after he had chased it almost to the pitcher's box. This helped the Nats none, though, for Spencer's grasser took a perfect hop right into Rhyne's hands and he made a force play at second.

Crowder seemed to have MacFayden's goat yesterday. He fanned him for the fourth consecutive time, ending the tenth with mates on second and first.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Saw Equipoise work three-quarters in 1:16 3-5 under a tight grip and it looks like Freddie Hopkins has the Whitney star ready to gallop in with a purse. There will not be a daily double in Maryland this year. Was assured of that fact yesterday.

Two winners and a pile in the money was the best I could do for you yesterday. Get aboard these:

The Bowie Kindergarten, with $2,000 added, is the feature race for today and those who pick the winner should be given Bicentennial medals in addition to whatever they can pick up in the mutuel machines. There are at least four horses that are possible favorites in this race. Which one the public will flock to seemed undetermined last night.

FOUL TIP may not be played very heavily in this field, but I believe this filly capable to score over this group of juveniles. Won handily the other day and will have Hanford up again today, I understand. Has that No. 1 post position and has the early speed to take full advantage. HELL DIVER scored in his only start and has worked well over muddy tracks. Is the one to beat in this field. NOMIN won in hand the first time out. See the daughter of Noah third.

FIRST RACE—INDIANTOWN ran such an impressive race the last time that it seems probable he will take this test. May be a first-time starter in the group to make him step, however. The Labrot entry of SONSY and FELICIANA may get place money. The former will draw play to the entry. Has had a lot of education and has done well to date.

Scope and Darg to take third place.

SECOND RACE—BRANDON ROSE was fairly eating up the track at the finish in that race behind Marlene and meets a slightly lower grade of opposition here. Takes off 10 pounds. BROADWAY LIGHTS narrowly missed taking a purse the other day, and off that race must be considered. DON TASKER has a game effort as a recommendation for third money.

THIRD RACE—JILTED won at the first asking, but on a fast track. This 3-year-old can run in the mud, it is reported. May step out today and take it all at good odds. PROMETHEUS was beaten a nose last time and is sharp. SUN MEMORY has failed to win at Bowie, but remains a strong contender.

FIFTH RACE—MARLENE is my choice in the "Fads and Fancies." This miss surprised the last time and is meeting virtually the same kind of a field here. Likes the going. MODERN QUEEN has been out once and after that tightener seems ready to step into the money picture. BOSCOBEL did not race up to expectations the last time. May get third here.

SIXTH RACE—GLORIA MARIS was caught in a jam and then finished with a rush in her race here. Better racing luck today and she has a good chance to collect the long end of this purse. Carries eleven pounds less today. WORLDLY LAD won over Broadway Lights last week and off that race should be second. TRIPLE THREAT drops weights and should repeat that third.

SEVENTH RACE—GULLY JUMPER appears to be at the top of his form and I see the gelding stepping into the winning circle today. Finished close up on GARLIC the other day and the latter must pick up three pounds. The Homewood-Milton entry of FAIRDALE and FAIR DAWN for third.

Bob Smith New Trainer Of Brookmead Stables

R. A. (Bob) Smith, well known in turf circles, will become the trainer for the Brookmead Stables this week, it was learned last night. Smith will succeed Gwynn Thompson, who has been in ill health. Thompson, who is nationally known, assisted in training Man o' War when the latter was making turf history.

Smith, who has recently been conducting a public stable, formerly trained for Audley Farms and had charge of Strolling Player when that worthy was collecting purses for Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

The Brookmead Stable is owned by Mrs. George Sloane, of Upperville, Va., who is prominent in Washington and New York society.

Williamsport Checks Norfolk Nine by 5 to 1

Norfolk, Va., April 9 (A.P.).—Williamsport, of the New York-Penn League, defeated Norfolk here this afternoon, 5—1, in a game halted by rain in the sixth. Parkes, of Williamsport, permitted Norfolk but three hits. The Tars lost the services of Howard Burkett in the first inning, when he hit the left field fence on the fly, then developed a charley horse in his right leg while going to first base. The game was played on a muddy diamond with a drizzle all the way.

Mason-Dixon Golf Medal to Tex Newton

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 11 (A.P.).—H. H. (Tex) Newton, of New York, today won the qualifying medal in the annual Mason and Dixon amateur gold tournament.

Intermittent showers and a heavy course made scoring conditions difficult, but Newton turned in a 76 to lead the field by a single stroke.

Tied for runner-up position were E. D. Livesay, of Columbus, Ohio, and Jack Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., the defending champion and runner-up last week in the North and South amateur at Pinehurst.

John E. Hines, of Garden City, N. Y., with a 79, was the only other player in the field to break 80.

The tournament this year is being played for the first time on the No. 3 course, 6,807 yards long, with par of 70.

The low sixteen qualified for match play, starting tomorrow.

Campbell Has Hopes Of Bettering Auto Mark

London, April 11 (A.P.).—Not satisfied with the world's automobile speed record he set at 258.968 miles per hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., this spring, Sir Malcolm Campbell hopes to boost the mark within a year.

He announced plans today for installing in his famous racing car, Bluebird, an engine of the same type as won the Schneider airplane trophy at 340 M. P. H. and set up a world's record of 407 M. P. H. last autumn.

He reckons the new engine will develop 2,500-horsepower, compared with 1,500-horsepower of the engine with which he set the new auto record.

North-South Tennis Start Delayed by Rain

Pinehurst, N. C., April 11 (A.P.).—Rain today caused postponement until tomorrow of opening round matches in the annual North and South tennis tournament in which the United States Davis Cup squad and threescore other players are entered.

Several delayed entries from Duke University were received today, resulting in some changes in pairings previously made.

Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Calif., the national champion, will be opposed in his opening match by D. McNeil, one of the Duke entries, instead of by B. Campbell, of Houston, Tex., who originally was given the assignment.

Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., will have as his first opponent R. Moorefield, another Duke player.

The defending champion, John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, one of the Davis Cup stars, is paired against H. Barres, of Yale.

WONDERS LIST DRILL.

Two important drills, one Saturday and the other Sunday, have been listed by Bill Poole, manager of the Wonder Bread and Costello Post teams. Both sessions will be held at 1 p. m. on the South Ellipse diamond. All of 41 candidates for the team are requested to report, as the team will be chosen on the basis of the players' showing these days.

CELTIC NINE TO START SUNDAY

Opponent Not Yet Announced; High Boys Active.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 11.—Director Charlie Corbett, of the St. Mary's Celtic baseball team, announced today his club would open its 1932 campaign next Sunday afternoon at Baggett's stadium.

Corbett stated: "I have several clubs in mind from Washington for the opener, but have not closed. However, I expect to settle the game by Wednesday." Corbett also stated he had booked the Cutter A. C., of Lynchburg, for two games on April 24-25, to be played in the Hill City.

Alexandria High School will play two games this week. The Twins meet Lee-Jackson on Wednesday, and on Friday Central High School, of Washington, here.

The nation-wide Del Ray and Fraters baseball teams will open their seasons next Sunday. Rainy weather halted the initial games last week.

North-South Tennis Is Delayed by Rain

Vines, Van Ryn and Other Davis Cup Stars Await Action at Pinehurst.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 11 (A.P.).—Rain today caused postponement, until tomorrow, of opening round matches in the annual North and South tennis tournament, in which the United States Davis Cup squad and three-score other players are entered.

EASTERN NINE MAKES SERIES DEBUT AGAINST WESTERN

Lincoln Park Nine Seeks 19th in Row

Lanahan Will Pitch With Ready Due for Western.

Eastern Has Lighter Hitting Club; Aims for 4th Title.

THE high school baseball series, off to a reasonably good start last Friday, will resume hostilities this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Eastern Field when Eastern High sets out in quest of its fifth straight pennant and nineteenth straight series game with Western on the receiving end.

Neither club is exceptionally well fortified this year, having been held back by an inclement spring and the condition of the local diamonds.

Dick Lanahan, starting his fourth year as Eastern's pitching mainstay, will serve them up to the Western batters today and his presence in the box gives his club a handy edge in the betting booths. Western is relying on some strategic move and will start Jack Raedy, instead of Bill Payne, its outstanding pitcher and player. Raedy has shown up well in Western's lone game this year, a 2-2 tie with St. Alban's, and will find no such murderers' row facing him as Eastern boasted of last year.

Eastern Attack Softens

Though Eastern is weaker at the plate this year than for the past several years, it is a stronger hitting club than Western. Bill Moore, first baseman, and Bernie Phillips, outfielder, have shown promise at the tee in the few practices Eastern has been able to get in.

The starting line-ups today reveal: For Eastern, Lanahan and Carl Mills, battery; Moore, first base; Fitzgerald, second; Joe Mills, shortstop; Pusateri, third base. Combination outfields will be tried, including Phillips, Bassin, Plumb, Hollidge, Nolan, Miller, Smith and Cuozzo.

Western will use Ready and Hillary, battery; Mulloch, third base; Schneider, second base; Corcoran, shortstop; Clark, first base; De Stephan, left field; Martin, center field, and Keith, right field.

Eastern has not been beaten in a high school series game since the second game of the 1927 series, when Business turned the trick.

Tech is the least advanced of the high school teams. The squad was hampered by the changing of pilots as the official training season opened, and since then has been held back by the wet diamonds and the ineligibility of two outstanding stars, Fred Nau and Everett Russell.

Coach Foxley has reduced the squad to 25 and has tentatively decided on the following berths for Tech's first game Friday: Chewning and Turner, pitchers; Thomas, Crenshaw and Gormley, catchers; Davis, first base; Robertson, second base; Carl Nau, short stop; Wheeler and Williams, third base; Guazza, Bernstein and Herbert, outfielders.

Association Opens 31st Season Today

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—Fair skies and a good crowd promised to send the thirty-first American Association flag race off to a fine start on the Eastern fronts tomorrow.

The Weather Man predicted good weather for inaugurals at every starting point except at Toledo, where he stepped in with a forecast of probable showers. This is the line-up for the opening games:

St. Paul at Louisville—Probable attendance, 10,000; weather outlook, fair and warm. Probable batteries—Louisville, Penner or Deberry and Shea; St. Paul, Harriss and Penner.

Milwaukee at Toledo—Probable attendance, 9,000; weather outlook, probable showers. Probable batteries—Milwaukee, Hillin and Crouch; Toledo, Bean and Henline.

Kansas City at Columbus—Probable attendance, 8,000; weather outlook, fair and warmer. Probable batteries—Kansas City, Osborne and Phillips; Columbus, Flower and Rensa.

Minneapolis at Indianapolis—Probable attendance, 10,000; weather outlook, fair but cool. Probable batteries—Minneapolis, Benton and McMullen; Indianapolis, Campbell and Angley or Riddle.

McCarthy to Lead St. John's Tossers

Star Center Is Named at Banquet; Sixteen Earn Letters.

John McCarthy, lanky center of the Prep School basket ball champions, St. John's, was named captain of the 1932-33 squad last night at a banquet extended to the basket ball squad by the Mothers Club of the Vermont Avenue School.

McCarthy is a junior and played an important part in the success of the Cadets on the basket ball floor last season. He was chosen all-prep center.

Sixteen members of the squad were given letters for the services during the year. They were the retiring captain, Mike Scanlon; Fred and George Scheele, John Breen, John McCarthy, Gabby Hartnett, Phil Cassidy, Joe Parkhill, Ed Smith, William Mahoney, Pearson Stanley, James Dixon, Bernard Brady, Mike Simone, Hubert McConnell and Manager Frank Wells.

Scanlon, McCarthy, Breen, Hartnett, Parkhill, Cassidy and the Scheeles were presented with gold basket balls. Speeches were made by Brother James, Coach Paul Byrne and Mike Scanlon. The banquet was handled by a committee of the Mothers Club, headed by Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Crowley.

It officially ended the most successful season ever enjoyed by a St. John's basket ball team. The school won The Post's Prep School tournament, the 130-pound District championship and numbered among its regularly scheduled foes victories over Eastern and Tech.

400 WITNESS A. A. U. MAT BOUTS

GENTLEMANLY grappling, minus the circus antics of the paid performers entertained 400 fans last night at the Boys Club, where the District Association of the A. A. U. opened its second annual wrestling championships. The bouts were dull by comparison with the professional variety, but in sincerity put the more famous brand to shame.

Nothing in the form of an upset developed, five 1931 champions emerging from the struggling assured of places in the finals, scheduled tomorrow night in the same hall. Allan Cohen, Jewish Community Center 175-champion, failed to appear.

Those defending their titles were: Del Shockley, Y. M. C. A., 115 pounds, who defeated Louis Melitz, of the Boys Club; Jack Kosowsky, J. C. C., 125 pounds, who tossed Sidney Gordon, Boys Club, and Achille Buzzell, Gallaudet College; S. M. Wisooker, Y. M. C. A., who won by default from Mike Scanlon, of St. John's Prep, and defeated Kenneth Mantz, Gallaudet; Harry Goldman, J. C. C., 153 pounds, who threw Bascom Foster, Python Club, and R. J. Whitworth, Y. M. C. A., 165 pounds, who conquered Richard Whitestone, J. C. C.

John C. Ballard, Y. M. C. A. heavyweight favored to take the title in his division, reached the finals by pinning Smith W. Brookhart, jr., son of the Iowa senator, in 2 minutes, 30 seconds, with a crotch and wrist lock. Ballard will meet Louis Holmes, another "Y" entrant, tomorrow night.

George Turner, unattached, injected grunting and grimacing in the heavyweight division but bowed to superior wrestling put forth by Holmes after having disposed of Henry Polkinhorn, of the "Y" on points.

145 POUNDS.

S. M. Wisooker (Y) won by default from Mike Scanlon (St. John's).

Kenneth Mantz (Gallaudet) defeated Charles S. Fincus (B. C.), 4:57, double arm bar.

John Broaddus (Y) defeated Marshall Pangets, 2:09, crotch and waist lock.

James L. Tantaflios (B. C.) defeated Donald Holt (Y), 2:04, crotch and half nelson.

SEMIFINALS—Wisooker defeated Mantz on points.

Broaddus defeated Holt, 3:06, double arm bar.

153 POUNDS.

Harry Goldman (J. C. C.) threw Bascom Foster (Python Club), 5:05, crotch and chancery.

August Costanni (B. C.) won by default from Joseph Jones (unattached).

P. M. Brothers threw Costanni, 2:20, arm bar and crotch.

165 POUNDS.

D. W. Armstrong (Y) defeated Glendon Allred (J. C. C.) on points.

R. J. Whitworth (Y) defeated Richard Whitestone (J. C. C.) on points.

175 POUNDS.

Joseph Paul (Y) won by default from Allan Cohen (J. C. C.).

Al Tobby (J. C. C.) threw Robert Brown (Python Club), 4:00, cradle.

UNLIMITED.

John C. Ballard (Y.) threw J. W. Brookhart, jr. (Y.), 2:30, crotch and wrist lock.

Charles C. Silverman (J. C. C.) threw Charles Feasan (Y.), 5:00, crotch and half-nelson.

Louis Holmes (Y.) threw James Campbell (Y.), 4:12, crotch and half-nelson.

George Turner (unattached) defeated Henry Polkinhorn (Y.), on points.

SEMIFINALS—Ballard threw Silverman, 6:53, arm bar and chancery.

PAIRINGS FOR FINALS.

115—Shockley vs. Anderson.
125—Kosowsky vs. Iskow.
135—Sargent vs. Devine.
145—Wisooker vs. Broaddus.
155—Goldman vs. Brothers.
165—Armstrong vs. Whitworth.
175—Paul vs. Tobby.
Unlimited—Ballard vs. Holmes.

115 POUNDS.

Del Shockley (Y) defeated Louis Melitz (B. C.), 1:07, crotch and half nelson.

Frank L. Anderson (Y) defeated Bernard Perry (unattached), 3:18, body hold.

SEMIFINALS—Kosowsky threw Buzzell, 5:16, body hold.

Herman Iskow (J. C. C.) defeated Vermillion on points.

135 POUNDS.

Ward McGrath (Y.) threw Barry Hopper (unattached), 2:51, body and chancery.

Fred N. Sargent (Y.) threw Albert Faulkner (Python Club), 3:55, crotch and half nelson.

John Devine (Fort Myer) defeated Walton Lewis (unattached).

McDemott (unattached) defeated Morris Val (B. C.), 1:14, chancery and arm bar.

SEMIFINALS—Sargent defeated McGrath, two extra periods, 5-point advantage.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THE 1932 duckpin bowling championships of the Nation belong exclusively to the South, it became known yesterday with the naming of the new champions by the National Duckpin Bowling Congress. The twelve titles awarded at the tournament conducted at Norfolk, Va., are distributed among representatives from seven cities, all below the Mason-Dixon line. Washington and Baltimore lead the list with three champions each.

The failure of up-State bowlers to win at least one title is no reflection upon their ability. The long journey from New England, a hot-bed of the game, which meant a loss of time and was a little expensive, undoubtedly helped to hold down the entries from this section.

Although Washington bowlers did not come through in the way they had been expected to, their showing was a creditable one. The departure of the majority of the title from this city to others will be a boon to the game. It was a blessing in disguise for duckpins.

The next case on the bowling docket is the Washington City tournament, and then the ranking committee gets down to the important business of selecting the 1932 leaders. A son of sunny Italy, Ollie Pacini, appears to have a strangle hold on the top District position, and is sitting right up in the front row waiting to be called for national honors. Ollie's fine exhibition at Norfolk clinched this recognition for him. The only duckpinner standing in his path to the honor is Nick Tronsky, of Connecticut, and Nicholas, we are informed, did not roll in any league this year. If the National Congress adheres to its established custom of ranking only league bowlers, it looks like our Ollie will be the Bill Tilden of the mapleways.

Selecting the first ten on the District list, with the exception of No. 1, is a task for Al Einstein, no less. Twenty-one pin athletes are in the thick of the argument. The cases of "Reds" Megaw, Temple ace, and Earl McPhilomy, Lucky Strike star, are typical of the puzzle the ranking committee must solve. "Reds" looked like a 100-to-1 to cop the runner-up position. Earl looked like just another bowler. Near the end of the grind Megaw pulled up and McPhilomy spurted ahead to lead the District League and cataput himself among the leaders.

Ranking the women will be somewhat easier. Lorraine Gulli again will head both the District and national lists, unless we miss our guess. Quite a few applicants for the other nine local positions are in line, but, given a little time and a few figures, the committee can be relied upon to bring forth a fair and acceptable list.

Not satisfied with winning the individual championship of the District League, Earl McPhilomy is now after the story-telling championship. He was quite successful at Lucky Strike last night; in fact, he almost had Bill Wood in hysterics.

National Publishing Co. vamped the team honors in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike with a high game of 605 and a tidy total of 1,737 for the three games. A gentleman answering to the name of Houston earned the individual game prize with his 154, and Mayo's 398 took the set award.

Helena Kohler occupied the spotlight in the Ladies Eastern Star with her rude treatment of the Lucky Strike pins. She crippled 134 ducks in her best game, and continued the onslaught to compile a set of 339.

Sam Simons, who boasts a star-studded record as a baseball player, turned in a neat performance in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia last night when he was credited with a 161 game. Clarence Kibbey's 394 set was the best in this class. G. P. O. helped itself to the team prize money, rattling off a 629 game and 1,679 set.

Responding to the administration's antihoarding campaign, the Columbia Heights League will pay off all prize winners tonight at 8 o'clock at the Arcadia alleys. Immediately after the odd meeting (well it's odd to see people giving away money these days) a sweepstakes will be held. It will be open only to members of the loop.

The line forms on the right for the pay-off in Section B of the Mount Rainier League tomorrow night. The cash will be distributed at 7:30 p. m., and are they smiling?

Farm Management clinched the Men's Agricultural League by winning a single game from Grain at Columbia. The Grain men needed a three-game win to tie for the title. The race was one of the closest ever witnessed in this circuit. Edler's 344 set was high for the evening. Harry Dixon and Terwisse shared the game cake, each rolling 131.

The Ladies' Agricultural League race also closed last night at Columbia with Accountants on top. The winners took the odd game from Extension. Miss Fleharty's 296 set, while not her best, was good enough to win the blue ribbon, or whatever it is they win. Miss Hall's 115 score for the ten boxes left the others far behind. Information turned in the best exhibition of the night, scoring a 479 game and 1,384 set.

Mike Kapneck's Electricians copped the bunting in the Commercial League as the season ended at Convention Hall last night. High scores for the night were recorded by Thompson's Furniture Co., which had a 578 game; Penn Electric, with its 1,628 set; Gardner's 114 game and Houch's 354 set.

The championship of the Business Men's League, which closed at Convention Hall, belongs to the Hecht Co. team. Clem Smith, of Convention Hall, tallied a 419 set, a new league record, as his teammates joined in the fun and won all three from Call Carl.

Those old timers of the Baltimore Sun and Evening Star newspapers, who waged bowling feuds back in the days when sweepstakes were unknown, when there were no well organized leagues, and bowling alleys as thick as a bald-headed man's hairs, had a reunion yesterday, and what a time. First, there was the ball game. Peanuts, pop, and lots of shouting at the players, the umpires and anybody within shouting distance. Then dinner at a local hotel and then off to Convention Hall for a resumption of the alley battles. Sorry to say, the Sun finished on top with a grand total of 1,487. The visitors' games were 477, 498, and 512. Harry Smith was high with a 118 game and 307 set. The Star rolled a total of 1,350, or three games of 419, 464, and 467. Johnny Baum topped the local crew with a 112 game and 305 set.

JIM LONDOS DUE TO GET BATTLE

'Champ' Meets Giant Pinetzki on Auditorium Mat.

CALL it public pressure, business acumen or a sudden-found surge of bravery, but the fact remains that Jim Londos, a handsome Greek gentleman upon whose head several important Eastern State athletic commissions bestowed a heavyweight wrestling title a couple of years ago, is beginning to come out of his shell and rassle men who, putting aside the vagaries of the game, have a physical chance of beating him.

His perennial fall guys, Ray Steele and Jim McMillen, have been shunted off the Londos schedule, and, while their places seem momentarily to have been taken by Sammy Stein (the two wrestle for the fourth time in four weeks Friday night in Philadelphia), the immediate future seems to hold more in store for Londos.

Pinetzki May Extend Champion.

The meeting with Pinetzki here Thursday night is a case in point. Also, it is generally admitted that Londos will wrestle Strangler Lewis outdoors in Chicago this summer. And at least Dick Shikat appears to be getting a break. Londos has offered him a match if he can beat Pinetzki, McCready and, perhaps, Steele and McMillen. He has beaten Pinetzki, but was held to a draw with McCready. There does not seem much doubt that he can beat Steele and McMillen, and McCready, for that matter.

Londos' long reign over wrestling is beginning to tell at the box offices at Madison Square Garden, where he once was wont to draw between 15,000 and 20,000 for matches with anybody and everybody, including the impossible Ferenc Holuban. People like uncertainty in their sports menus, and heretofore a Londos match has not held much of that virtue.

In Washington, where the mat game flourishes proportionately better than in any other city, Londos has met Mattress Kirilenko, Sandor Szabo and George Manich this year, all of whom were more than mannerly with the Greek.

Difference in Sizes Appalling.

Pinetzki may be different. The difference in their sizes is appalling. If Londos attempts an airplane spin, Pinetzki's head and toes will be dangling on the mat, even though Jim is holding him up to full height in his middle. Londos weighs 202 and Pinetzki 282. Londos is 5-feet-4 or 5 and the vacant-eyed Pole is 6-feet-8. His armspread of 8 feet is a yard more than Londos'. It is the first time the two have met.

The advance sale is reported to be the biggest since the third Londos-Dusek match, and the largest total yet for an indoor match. About 3,200 seats still remain. Bleacher seats will be erected in the rear of the auditorium, a move that will eliminate the harrowing stretching and craning necessary for residents in that sector.

The rest of the card reads: Fred Grobmier vs. Frank Speers; Howard Cantonwine vs. George Hagen; George Manich vs. Oscar Negrin and Tony de Vito vs. George McLeod.

WESTERN NET TEAM PLAYS EASTERN

LED by Anthony Latona, singles champion of the Capital City League, Happy Jacob, junior playground champion, and others of note, Western High's tennis team looms as the best high school squad gathered together here in more than half a decade. It is highly favored to win the high school tennis series, and also has listed several good out-of-town matches.

The series opens today when Western meets Eastern at Eastern.

Latona and Jacob, two of the best young players in the city, have good support in Howell, Doyle and Corcoran. The team was held to a surprising 3-3 tie by Episcopal, but does not seem likely to lose another match this season.

The team will compete in the Princeton Interscholastic tournament May 6 and 7. It engages the University of Virginia freshmen Saturday at Charlottesville. Coach Mish is again in charge of the Western netmen.

Today Eastern: Saturday, University of Virginia, there; April 19, Central; 23, Baltimore City, here; 26, Business; 30, Forest Park, at Baltimore; May 3, Tech; 6 and 7, Princeton interscholastics; 9, St. John's; 16, Gallaudet Varsity; 19, Dewitt; 20, Severn, at Baltimore; 21, St. Joseph at Baltimore.

Young Men's Shop Will Sponsor Team

Sidney and Edgar Kauffman, local sportsmen, will sponsor the Saks Clothiers in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League this year, it was announced yesterday. The team will compete under the banner of the Young Men's Shop. Last year the club, managed by Dick Mothershead, annexed the District championship in the loop, and was nosed out by the Takoma Tigers for the metropolitan title.

Practically all of last season's players are again in the fold and Mothershead is anticipating another good year. He has added Earl Baker, slugging Takoma first baseman, to the roster, and may sign a new pitcher or two before the race opens.

All-Star Fight Program At Portner Arena Tonight

Portney-Jallos Promise Battle in One of Three Cofeatures; Bowen-Bashara and Overlin-D'Alessandro in Others.

By JACK ESPEY.

WITH Jack Portney, Baltimore's stellar southpaw, and Louis Jallos, promising Cleveland Greek, having it out in the windup, a card of five bouts, including three all-star eight-rounders, is offered Capital and Alexandria fistic fans by the Day Nursery Athletic Association in Portner Arena tonight. Action begins at 8:30.

The all-star attractions, in addition to the Portney-Jallos melee, bring together Ray Bowen, popular Washington lightweight, and Tootsie Bashara, of Norfolk, and Ken Overlin, middleweight from the U. S. S. Idaho, and Tony D'Alessandro, champion of Long Island.

Portney is intent on bettering his performance at Portner's, March 29, when he failed to put away Stumpy Jacobs, of Norfolk, whom he had kayoed several months before. Many fans thought Jack looked in poor condition against Jacobs and felt he should have knocked out "The Stump," inasmuch as Jacobs did very little fighting.

Portney Must Be at Top Of Form

If Portney does show improvement tonight, he should find Jallos capable of extending him. The sleek-haired Clevelander is a stiff puncher with either hand, particularly adept at counter-punching. Jallos laced Bobby Burns at Ritchie Coliseum February 29, in his last appearance before a local audience. Jimmy Bronson, smart New York boxing devotee, handles Jallos, which fact tends to indicate Louie is ready to step along with fast company. Portney has been battling in major rings for the past two years.

The Bowen-Bashara tiff promises plenty in the way of glove-slinging. Bowen is a fancy boxer, while Bashara is purely a slugger. The local boy, however, is no cream-puff puncher and may be able to hold his own without resorting to the "inside stuff." In their last bouts at Portner's, Bowen outpointed Patsy Lewis, up-and-coming Baltimore lightweight, and Bashara kayoed Jimmy "Sailor" McKenna, of this city.

Advance notices state both Overlin and D'Alessandro are murderous punchers, which, if true, will please Portner fans immensely. The knock-down-and-drag-out affairs seem to be the only brand of fisticuffs satisfactory to the customers.

D'Alessandro Unbeaten In 18 Fights.

Overlin recently administered a decisive beating to Eric Lawson, of Newport News, and also outpointed Joey Raymond, of Baltimore. D'Alessandro, a stablemate of Jallos, is unbeaten, having won 18 professional bouts and running up a string of 64 straight wins as an amateur. He is known as the "Italian Assassin" around his native Long Island.

Young Van, local middleweight, seeks his fifth straight victory in one of the four-round preliminaries, meeting Sailor Potter, of Norfolk, while Buddy Grimes, Norfolk featherweight, and Harry Groves, of Baltimore, open the show.

Boxing bits' selections—Portney to defeat Jallos; Bowen to shade Bashara; Overlin to beat D'Alessandro; Van to outpoint Potter, and Grimes to conquer Groves. (Batting .771.)

Close Capital City League Race for Seniors Expected

Six Teams Seek Franchises; Eight-Club Section Likely; Birth Certficate Rule Meets Approval of Managers.

THE initial meeting of the midget division of The Post's Capital City League, held last night at the District Building, attracted representatives of six teams seeking franchises in the loop. This splendid turnout and the enthusiasm of those present leads league officials to believe that at least eight clubs will vie for the city championship and the individual gold baseballs offered by The Post.

Teams represented and their managers are as follows: Goodacre's White Coffee Pot, W. L. Bresnahan; Joe Kuhels, George Sullivan; National Pale Drys, "Rip" Mills; Hawks, Mr. Thompson; Mount Rainier, Carson Myers; Clarendon A. C., H. D. Smith.

The teams unanimously approved of the ruling requiring players to file birth certificates before participating in the league. They also approved of the measure limiting team rosters to fifteen players. The prevailing opinion was that the three players turned loose by each team will pave the way for the organization of more teams. The managers were divided in their opinions concerning the new age limit adopted by the league directors, and a motion was passed urging them to reconsider their action, retaining the same age limit as was used last year.

The teams will play around twice, the winners of each half meeting in a three-game series at the end of the season for the city championship. The opening date, amount of franchise fee, and selection of an official ball to be used, were not considered last night. They will be taken up at the next meeting to be held Monday night.

That there will be more sportsmanship on the sandlots this year than ever before was evident at the confab. The various teams pledged themselves to cooperate with The Post in every way to insure the league of a banner year. It is hoped that a method can be found whereby the official batting and fielding records of the players can be compiled by the secretary of the league, and published from time to time. It is felt that such records will not only urge the boys on to give the best in them at all times, but will also instill a friendly individual rivalry in the league for the two championships.

Reardon, Barr Umpire Card-Pirate Opener

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—President John A. Heydler, of the National League, today announced the assignment of umpires for tomorrow's opening games with Jocko E. Reardon and George Barr drawing the honor of calling the decisions for the game at St. Louis between the world champion Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Three umpires were assigned to the Cincinnati-Chicago, New York-Philadelphia games and two to the Brooklyn-Boston encounter.

Charles Rigler, Ernest Quigley and Charles Donnelly will help the Reds and Cubs pry off the lid in Cincinnati; Charles (Uncle Charley) Moran, George Magerkuth and Charles H. Phirman will work the Giants-Phillies game at the Polo Grounds, and William J. (Bill) Klem and A. D. (Dolly) Stark arbitrate the meeting at Brooklyn between the Dodgers and the Braves.

The National League staff was cut from 12 to 10 members this year.

Italian Cup Netmen Again Beat Spanish

Rome, Italy, April 11 (A.P.).—Prospective members of the Italian and Spanish Davis Cup teams completed their three-day practice series today with Italy winning three of today's four matches and 10 of the 12 played over the three days.

Palmieri defeated Rieri 6—4, 6—1, 6—0, George Stefani won from Ernest Maier 2—9, 9—7, 7—5, 5—7, 6—4, and Serterio defeated Juanico 7—9, 6—4, 6—0, 6—3. The lone Spanish victory was scored by Boter, who defeated Rado 8—6, 7—5, 6—0.

WOODLEYS ACTIVE.

Woodley baseball players practice today at 5 p. m. on Friendship Diamond. A meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at 3434 Porter street.

TEAM NEEDS PLAYERS.

The Lincoln A. C. could use a good left-handed first baseman, and an outfielder. The team is in the unlimited class. Call North 6945 between 6 and 10 p. m.

HAWKS OPEN SEASON.

The Hawk Insects will open their season today, opposing the Capital A. C. at 4 o'clock on the Elliott School field. All players are requested to report promptly.

PHOENIX WOULD PLAY.

The Phoenix A. C. is angling for games with teams in the unlimited class. All games to be played Sunday. Teams interested should call Atlantic 5013-W after 7 p. m.

GAITHERSBURG READY.

The Gaithersburg A. C. is seeking a game with an unlimited team to open its season this Sunday. Those interested should communicate with Manager Keefer at Gaithersburg 201-M between 6 and 7 p. m.

Johnson Given 30 Days To Pay His Employes

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Jack Johnson, former Negro pugilist, was granted 30 days more today to pay employes of his cabaret which closed because of lack of business.

Johnson told a municipal court judge he could not pay until he had "found a job."

Kilbourne Gains Fourth Straight U. S. Victory

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—Jack Kilbourne, Australian middleweight, scored the fourth straight victory of his American invasion at White City by knocking out Haakon Hansen, of Norway, after 2 minutes and 10 seconds of fighting in the first round.

Kilbourne floored Hansen with a right cross to the chin and the Norwegian attempted to come back only to fall down and out at the count of ten. The Australian weighed 160 and Hansen 156.

In the preliminaries, Costas Vaffis, Greek middleweight champion, outpointed the veteran Shuffle Callahan, of Chicago, in a five-rounder, and Pete Wistort, Chicago, knocked out Biff Bennett, the fighting soldier from Fort Sheridan, in the fourth round, with a right uppercut.

Kley Throws Roebuck In New York Feature

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Fritz Kley, German contortionist, tossed Tiny Roebuck, of Oklahoma, in 15 minutes 33 seconds of their heavyweight wrestling match at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory tonight. Kley weighed 210 pounds, Roebuck 248.

Sammy Stein, 200, Newark, threw John Maxos, 204, Greece, 9 minutes 47 seconds; Dick Shikat, 218, Philadelphia, threw George McLeod, 207, Boston, 26 minutes 22 seconds; Century Milstead, 210, New Haven, threw Andy Zaharoff, 218, Syria, 4 minutes 28 seconds; Kola Kwariani, 216, Russia, threw Bill Nelson, 208, St. Louis, 6 minutes 4 seconds; Mihaly Orgovanyi, 201, Hungary, threw Bill Middlekuff, 212, Florida, 10 minutes 5 seconds; Leo Pinetzki, 270, Poland, threw George Hagen, 212, New York, 22 minutes 15 seconds; Sandor Szabo, 204, Hungary, won by decision over George Zaharias, 229, Pueblo, Colo., 20 minutes.

NATIE BROWN BOOKED.

Natie Brown, Hebrew heavyweight, who recently made Washington his headquarters, will engage George Pavilick in a ten-round bout April 20 in Cleveland.

HARDAGE GETS JOB.

Norman, Okla., April 11 (A.P.).—Lewie W. Hardage, assistant football coach at Vanderbilt University, was selected as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma by the athletic council here tonight.

Martin Star Of Bolling Program

Scores Double, Beating Laditzi and Umpire Jones.

Wrestles in, Out and Under Ring; Win for Pojello.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

RASSLING reached a new high (or is it a low, I don't know) last night at Bolling Field when Booooool Martin, a cabbage-eared gent with a bent for eye gouging, kicking, biting, umpire baiting and plain fancy leering, threw an equally pugnacious gent named Rudy Laditzi in 22 minutes with a nice kick on the jaw.

It so infuriated a rabid fan, one of the 1,000 or so who saw the bouts, that he leaped out of his chair and hurled it through space in the general direction of Master Martin. The chair clattered into the ring. Martin wheeled around, his ears began to flap, he let out a few primeval bellows and started after the burgher, who was in full retreat, a company of M. P.'s stopped him.

The bout looked like a riot act. It was not confined to the ring by any means, nor to the two principals. Bolling Field is the Little Theater of the growl game. Things there are more intimate. There is that personal touch. For instance, every ringside spectator, and some as far back as the fourth row, got a rassler in his lap, either Martin or Laditzi.

Laditz and Umpire Defeated.

Laditzi, clubbed into a large and unwieldy sack of mush, had to be carried to his rubbing table after Martin had not only thrown him, but jumped up and down on him after it was over. But the real casualty of the night was Billy Jones, the umpire, who took a dozen or so socks on the jaw and had the shirt torn completely off his back during the merry melee.

The two pilformahs came out waving fists at the start and Mister Jones stepped between them, only to take a double barrelled "mugging," administered by both of the beefos. There was nothing Mister Jones could do after that that did not earn him at least a scowl and generally a left hook to the right eye. Martin and Laditzi rolled out of the ring before more kicks in the stomach had been administered and weaved wildly at each other as they lay across the laps of a dozen fans. They were induced back into the ring after a while, but soon were out again. Once they got under the ring and went at each other. Martin got up first, but Laditzi forgot to slide out from under—and stood up. It nearly broke the ring.

Once they ran down an aisle making wild passes at one another, but Matchmaker Ahearn and several others, armed with elephant hooks, got them back in the ring.

Laditz Floored by Proxy.

The brawl revealed Laditzi as one of the most sensitive rasslers in the game. Once Jones and Martin had some little argument over the eighteenth amendment or something and were ramming fists into each other's tummies when Martin feinted and hooked one solidly to the umpire's jaw. Laditzi, standing on the other side of the ring, fell over backward and landed on a stub of an ear outside the ring.

The other bouts were not so amusing. Karl Pojello and Pat McGill, weights 194 and 235, respectively, went to an hour's draw. It drew many cheers, many boocs (mostly for McGill), and two coca-cola bottles.

Sam Cordovano beat Sailor Slejack in fourteen minutes on a good tackle; Joe Vargo, the next to worst rassler in the world, threw Paul Finsky, the worst, in seventeen minutes. Danny Winters, a nice performer, started the show by tackling Bull Garnon in nineteen minutes.

Baxter Meets Powell At Congressional Club

The monthly amateur boxing show of the Congressional Country Club will be staged at the club Thursday night. Seven bouts are on the program, which will be featured by a match between Jack Baxter, American Legion, and Joe Powell, of Baltimore, heavyweights. The pair have met twice before, each winning a decision. Harry Hass, American Legion, and Charley Barranco, of Baltimore, will exchange blows in a cofeature. Five preliminary bouts will round out the program, all of which will be of three rounds duration.

Ladies have been admitted to the last several boxing shows, but a lack of interest among the feminine fans led the committee in charge to declare Thursday a stag night.

GEORGETOWN GAME OFF.

Georgetown University has canceled its baseball game with Mount St. Mary's, scheduled for today, because of wet grounds. This was to have been Georgetown's second game, the Hoyas having lost to Lafayette, 5 to 4, in their opening game.

LEO LARIVEE ON POINTS.

Boston, April 11 (A.P.).—Leo Larivee, Waterbury, Conn., slugger, tonight outpointed Sam Bruce, Buffalo Negro middleweight by a decisive margin in the Argonne A. A. ten-round feature bout. Bruce was on the verge of a knockout at the final bell.

Rudy Marshall, Negro middleweight from Cos Cob, Conn., ended the semi-final, scheduled for eight rounds, in the third by splitting one of the eyes of "Snow Flake" Wright, another Buffalo Negro.

ANDERSON TO COACH.

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Bill Anderson, for six years assistant football coach, today was named grid mentor of Occidental College, replacing Eddie Kienholz. Anderson is a former half back of Illinois.

I SEE YOU'VE GOT A RATTLESNAKE BAND ON YOUR HAT. ANY NEW SNAKE STORIES, SQUINT?
STORIES? YOU MEAN EXPERIENCES. I DID MEET UP WITH A RATTLESNAKE ONE DAY THAT BY SOME ACCIDENT OR FREAK OF NATURE DIDN'T HAVE ANY RATTLES. AN' HE LOOKED UP AT ME SO PITIFUL-LIKE, I FELT SORRY FOR HIM. HE WAS PRACTICALLY AN OUTCAST AMONG HIS OWN KIND.

AFTER THINKIN' IT OVER I HOLLOWED OUT THIRTEEN POKER CHIPS AND MADE HIM THE SWELLEST SET OF RED WHITE AND BLUE RATTLES YOU EVER SAW AN' FASTENED 'EM ON WITH A BUTTON. HE WAS SO PROUD— AND GRATEFUL! HE USED TO COME UP UNDER MY WINDOW AND WAKE ME UP AT FIVE-THIRTY EVERY MORNING.
DOES HE DO IT YET?

WHEAT PRICE RISES ALMOST FOUR CENTS

Reduction in Crop Advances Market; Corn Joins Closing Rally.

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—Bounding upward almost 4 cents a bushel today, wheat held the full advance in the face of a world of selling to realize profits.

Sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas reported that 50 per cent of the winter wheat crop had been damaged beyond recovery, with Nebraska losses estimated at 40 per cent. On top of this was a decrease of 4,404,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, almost twice as much as at this time last year.

Wheat closed buoyant at the day's top, the highest level touched in about a month, 3½ to 3¾ cents over Saturday's finish, with corn ⅝ to ¾ cent up, oats ⅜ to ½ cent advance, and provisions showing a rise of 2 to 7 cents.

Adding to brisk activity on the part of speculative buyers were official returns suggesting that as a result of heavy abandonment the 1932 acreage of domestic winter wheat was the smallest since 1913 with only two exceptions. Meanwhile no important moisture relief was shown in drought territory, and below freezing temperatures were reported at various places in Kansas. Other advices told of high winds augmenting ill effects of dust and further damaging crops, especially in the Southwest.

At times, weakness of the stock market led to reactions in wheat, and some notice was also taken of the large amount of wheat on ocean passage, 58,752,000 bushels, against 43,064,000 a year ago. Another bearish factor was selling ascribed to Farm Board sources and to foreigners. Highest prices of the day, however, were reached later after announcement of the big falling off in the United States wheat visible supply.

Liquidating sales of corn carried that cereal temporarily to within ¼ cent of the season's low price record, but wheat strength acted later as more than a counterbalance.

Berlin Credit Rate Reduced by Bank

Interest on $90,000,000 Cut to 6 Per Cent; Loans Renewed.

Basel, Switzerland, April 11 (A.P.).—The board of directors of the World Bank for International Settlements reduced the interest rate of the $90,000,000 credit to the German Reichsbank today from 7½ per cent to 6 per cent, effective from April 4 to June 4.

After a thorough discussion of the Danubian situation the board renewed the world bank's share of the Austrian credit of 90,000,000 schillings due April 16, the Hungarian credit of $20,000,000 due April 18, and the Jugoslavian credit of $3,000,000 due April 28. All three were extended for three months.

The resignation of Sir Charles Addis, vice governor of the Bank of England, from the board of the world bank and his replacement by Sir Otto Niemeyer was announced. It was decided to ask the seven founding banks to absorb 26,400 unissued shares of the world bank in equal proportions at par.

Protective Group Heads Named in Match Losses

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Charles E. Adams, president of the Air Reduction Co., Inc., and James H. RED PAPER ALARMED ON COAL YIELD DROP

Moscow Publication Calls for Increased Activity and Wage Revision.

Moscow, April 11 (A.P.).—A sharp drop in coal production planned for the first quarter of 1932 aroused the newspaper Pravda today to sound an alarm.

Pravda said the situation in the coal industry was menacing the most important phases of other industries, chiefly from the metallurgical works, which are one of the basic sections for the successful completion of the five-year plan.

Although the total production was 17,221,500 tons for the first quarter of the year, 35.8 per cent above the same period in 1931, it represented an accomplishment of only 86.9 per cent of the plan for the quarter.

The decreased production was encountered in spite of a vigorous campaign last autumn which resulted in a phenomenal rise of output during the first few months.

The drop was blamed by Pravda on unskilled management, inadequate organization of labor and the failure of many mines to institute the system of piece-work wages, resulting in much shifting of workers.

Declaring the Donets region, one of the country's most important producers, was far behind its program, the newspaper called for an extensive "mobilization of the masses on the coal front," reorganization of labor conditions and readjustment of wage scales from the system of equal salaries to payment by piece work.

The State coal industry, which is one of the most backward thus far, was the cause of a warning several days ago that the big steel, machine building, tractor and automobile plants would be endangered by lack of fuel unless drastic steps were taken.

BONDS RENEW DROP TO BOTTOM PRICES

Rails Bear Brunt of Sales in Dull Trading; Foreign Loans Are Lower.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—All classes of bonds continued to subside today, although trading became duller than usual with wide gaps apparent between the majority of bids and offers.

Even the United States Government list, after advancing continuously for a number of days, reacted moderately under fairly heavy profit taking. Five of the Federal loans, however, again reached new highs for the year before deciding to take a breathing spell.

The railroads bore the brunt of today's liquidation. Some of the low-priced carrier liens attempted feeble rallies at various times, but most of them were unable to hold their gains. Losses in the rails averaged from 1 to 3 points. Strength was shown in some of the bonds, though, with Illinois Central collateral as gaining 5½ points, St. Louis Southwestern consolidated as advancing 1¾ and all of the Northern Pacific loans exhibiting improvement.

There were a number of scattered breaks in the utilities and industrials. Utah Power & Light 5s dropped 4 points on a few sales. Other losses included some bonds of Columbia Gas, Pacific Public Service and Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light. American & Foreign Power rallied for a 2½-point gain after an early sinking spell. International Telephone also recovered.

Industrial averages were weakened by a few specialties. Liens of Armour & Co. dropped from 2 to 5 points and declines were registered by Chile Copper 5s, Dodge Bros. 6s, both International Match 5s, National Dairy 5¼s and Paramount Famous Lasky 6s.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

Gold transactions reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank today were nominal, although international bankers experts pointed out that foreign exchange rates still favored some further shipment of metal to France, and that such shipments might be made with the next sailing of a fast transatlantic liner. The day's transactions involved receipts of $303,800 from Mexico, export of $10,000 to Switzerland, and an increase in metal set aside for foreign account of $20,000.

UNDERWRITERS PLAN VOTE ON DUES BOOST

Members Also to Decide on Adding Three Directors to Present Board.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Vote on an increase in membership dues and three new directors will be taken by members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association at their monthly luncheon meeting Friday in the roof garden of the Washington Hotel, beginning at 12:15 o'clock. Should a resolution passed by the board of directors March 23 be adopted, there will be an increase in dues of $2.50 for 1932, effective July 1, and of $5 each year thereafter. Future regularly called luncheons will be free to members, however, should the dues increase be approved.

Directors whose terms expire this year are Philip L. Baldwin, Northwestern Mutual; J. C. McCombs, Mutual Life of New York, and John H. Snyder, Mutual Benefit of New Jersey. Directors holding over are Paul D. Sleeper, Aetna Life; John P. Lynch, New York Life; John L. McElfresh, Connecticut Mutual; David S. Bethune, Equitable Life of New York; Daniel J. Harrison, Massachusetts Mutual; Alton G. Grinnell, New England Mutual.

As members affiliated with companies already having representation on the board are not eligible to become candidates for the directorate in accordance with the constitution and by-laws of the association, this provision automatically eliminates representatives of the foregoing last six mentioned companies.

Nearly 250 members and guests of the District of Columbia Bankers Association will be in attendance at the preconvention dinner of the association tonight at Columbia Country Club. The meeting will be called to order by Acting President C. H. Pope.

Stocks Resume Declines, Setting New Low Prices

What the Stock Market Did

	Mon.	Sat.
Number of advances..	104	246
Number of declines...	391	172
Stocks unchanged.....	182	178

Stocks.

The market opened weak and closed at new lows, with only a feeble midday rally. Steel and General Motors sold at new lows and American Can broke 80 for the first time in the present bear market.

Bonds.

The trade was small and the tone heavy on all classes, with the weakness extending to some of the United States Governments.

Curb.

Utilities showed some recovery tendencies, but the close was irregular.

Wheat.

Reports of continued severe crop damage Southwest and a sharp decrease in the visible supply sent prices up 4 cents a bushel in the face of heavy profit taking.

Cotton.

Selling by Liverpool and Japanese accounts imparted a weak tone, which was partially offset by a firm spot basis in the South. The close was 2 to 4 points above Saturday's.

Bond dealers assert that recent heavy borrowing on insurance policies has greatly reduced the investment funds of insurance companies and thereby removed a strong element of support from the bond market.

Liquidation Is Blamed for Market's Fall; Rails Break at Close.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Stocks swung back into the decline today as investigation of market affairs by the Senate banking committee began at Washington.

Volume, at 1,084,244 shares, was somewhat smaller than in some of last week's declines, but offerings found the market poorly padded and the session ended with 90 stocks averaging at a new low, fractionally under last Friday's minimum. Declines of 1 to 7 points in active issues more than canceled gains made on Saturday.

The senatorial inquiry apparently had little, if any, effect on the day's trading. Brokers said that short selling, in the face of the senatorial inquiry, was a negligible factor and that the market's chief trouble was the same liquidation which Mr. Whitney stressed as the source of recent selling in principal issues.

Wheat's strength encouraged a mild rally around midafternoon, but late weakness in rails robbed the recovery of any momentum and final prices were close to the bottom.

Few Escape Lows.

Few leaders, at one time or another, failed to make new lows. United States Steel dropped to 33, recovered most of its loss and then eased back to 33⅛, down 1¼. American Can sold under 80 for the first time in this bear market and was a couple of points lower at the finish. Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, American Tobacco "B," People's Gas and Auburn were 2 or more lower.

Food shares met little support, especially National Biscuit, which had the unusually large extreme drop of 3¾. Market gossip says that food company's earnings were not so "depression proof" in the first quarter of this year.

There was nothing to account for the late break in rails, which carried Santa Fe down more than 7 to 45½ and Union Pacific 5 to 83¾. New York Central closed at 20, off 2. Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio sagged about 1.

Utilities were generally friendless. American Telephone held fractionally above the old minimum and at the afternoon rally's top had virtually made up a loss of 2¾, but it was down 2 net, at 106.

President Hindenburg's strength at the polls created a favorable impression here, even though his victory had been taken as a matter of course since the preliminary balloting. However, European skies have been clouded somewhat, bankers feel, by factions of the Danubian conference, which disclosed differences that some quarters feel may prove hard to reconcile. With expiration of the moratorium year only a couple of months or so away, Wall street would like to be assured that definite solutions of pressing problems were at hand.

Brokers feel business conditions at home are reason enough for the market's slump. Seasonal improvements witnessed last year and in 1930 have been almost totally absent in 1932, so that bargain-hunting investors have had little incentive to purchase.

Curb Trend Lower.

A firmer tone appeared in some of the curb's utility stocks late today, but although a few favored issues managed to close higher the general list maintained a rather heavy tone. Volume, approximating 270,000 shares, was well under last Friday's turnover.

Electric Bond & Share, after an early dip to within a fraction of the old low, met last hour support and sold a point net higher. Reactionary tendencies in the final dealings reduced the gain, however. The same company's preferred stocks improved more than 3 points net.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was an outstanding soft spot during a market-wide sag in the forenoon. At its bottom this stock was 5 points off, but the extreme loss was cut to about 2. Columbia Gas & Electric preferred tumbled 7. On the other hand, United Gas preferred and the Standard Power & Light issues gained each.

Cities Service rallied briskly in the late afternoon, and closed at 5, or half a point higher.

STEEL PLANT SELLS 88 MILES OF PIPE

California Gas New Order Amounts to $500,000; Mills Are Idle.

Youngstown, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.).—Republic Steel Corporation today announced receipts of an order for 28 miles of pipe from the Southern Counties Gas Co. of California, involving about $500,000. The order will enable Republic to operate one pipe mill for about three weeks of part-time work, with attendant increase in open hearth and rolling mill operations.

The prospective increase in mill activity in this district, however, was counterbalanced by news that the Ohio works of the Carnegie Steel Co. here was entirely idle today for the first time in many years. Operation of the Sharon steel hoop plant here also has been suspended.

Only three of the Youngstown district's 32 blast furnaces now are making iron.

COTTON PRICE GAINS ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Contracts Rise From 6.02 to 6.16; Liverpool Market Firm.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—An early decline in cotton today under liquidation and some local selling promoted by the earlier weakness of the stock market, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering, with May selling up from 6.02 to 6.19 and closing at 6.16.

The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points. Active months generally closed within 2 or 3 points of the best for the day.

Southern selling was very little in evidence at any time and according to private reports from Texas, the basis was firm with rather a better export inquiry.

Notwithstanding the relatively firm showing of Liverpool, houses with Liverpool and continental connections were credited with selling here during the early trading. There was also some selling supposed to be for Japanese account.

Liverpool cables attributed the advance in that market to covering, with local and foreign buying, but said the goods market in Manchester was unsettled, with producers losing ground.

Exports today were 9,770 bales, making 7,117,281 bales so far this season.

Standard Oil Boosts Crude Price 15 Cents

Tulsa, Okla., April 11 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey made the $1 a barrel top for midcontinent crude oil unanimous among the major concerns today.

The 15-cent-a-barrel increase previously adopted by other companies was made effective by the Carter Oil Co., subsidiary of the New Jersey Co.

Peerless Motor Loss Increases to $67,001

The Peerless Motor Car Co. reports a net loss of $67,001 for the quarter ended March 31, after depreciation and other charges.

This compares with a net loss of $43,082 in the previous quarter and a net loss of $114,221 in the March quarter of 1931.

Auto Sales Increase Forecast by Industry

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Though no definite April sales figures for the motor industry as a whole are yet available, it is quite probable that early future operations will show decided betterment over recent severely depressed level, says the Standard Statistics Co.

The stock market community was mildly encouraged today by reports from the steel industry which indicated that buying from the automobile industry was now imminent as a result of increased orders from the large motor manufacturers.

Sales of Buick cars in March were about 36 per cent greater than during February, according to General Sales Manager Blees.

14 HOUSE MEASURES AFFECTING DISTRICT ARE PASSED IN DAY

Firearms Control and Stricter Bank Regulation Are Among Proposals.

CREDIT UNION PROJECT APPROVED BY SENATE

Both Branches Have Now Voted for Greater Power by Trial Boards.

Washington had its day of days in Congress yesterday. Fourteen District bills, including measures for firearms control and stricter bank regulation, were forced through a House whose attendance was depleted by wholesale desertion to the American League Ball Park.

In the Senate, the bill for incorporation of credit unions, long blocked by local banking interests, was passed with amendments prohibiting collection of deposits by the new credit units.

Seven of the fourteen measures approved by the House have already passed the Senate, and now go to the White House for signature. An eighth goes to conference, having been altered from the form in which it passed the Senate.

Outstanding among the four measures which have passed both houses are bills giving Police and Fire Trial Board authority to compel attendance of witnesses through subpenas, and an act permitting the Commissioners to sell additional water to nearby Maryland counties at cost plus 4 per cent.

Gallinger Patients Bill.

Other bills that now go to the White House provide for admission of pay patients to Gallinger Hospital contagious wards, the naming of the northern entrance to Sixteenth street "Montgomery Blair Portal," the acceptance of bequests up to $25,000 by nonprofit organizations, condemnation of land by District Commissioners after filing certificate of taking, and laying petroleum pipe lines from the Anacostia docks to the Griffith-Consumers Co. storage tanks.

Besides the firearms and bank regulation measures, the bills passed yesterday by the House, that await Senate action, provide for widening of Michigan avenue west of First street, appointment of employes by the superintendent of schools between meetings of the Board of Education, use of 2½-gallon ice cream containers in the District, and posting of 100 per cent bond by contractors engaged on public projects by the District government.

The firearms bill, which provides drastic penalties for illegal sale and possession of firearms, was amended to embrace "sawed-off shot guns" in the list of contraband weapons.

Bank Regulation Measure.

The bank regulatory measure would extend authority exercised by the Comptroller of the Currency over banks in the District to building and loan associations, double stockholders' liability requirements and generally tighten supervision.

A bill requiring that insurance companies hereafter incorporated under the laws of the District be required to keep their principal records here was amended by the House to apply to companies already incorporated. This bill will be reconsidered by the Senate District committee tomorrow afternoon.

At the outset of yesterday's session Mrs. Norton announced that because of their controversial nature bills permitting children to appear on the professional stage at night and fixing the Virginia-District boundary at the Potomac River low-water mark would be passed over without prejudice. She said she made the announcement so members waiting to oppose these measures "could go to the ball game."

Acacia Bill Opposed.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, blocked the passage of bills permitting the Acacia Life Association to change its name to the Acacia Life Insurance Co., and for creation of a board of indeterminate sentence and parole, when he threatened to raise the point of "no quorum" if the bills were put to a vote.

Although a Mason himself, he said he objected to the Acacia group, now strictly fraternal, broadening its activities and "gaining an advantage over other companies by means of a Congressional charter."

About three-quarters of an hour was wasted earlier in the day when Representative Jeff Busby (Democrat), Mississippi, called for a quorum vote after he had been refused recognition to speak on matters not relevant to the District's program. He later was given time to make his speech.

TEACHERS DECLARED CALM DURING CRISIS

President of N. E. A. Points to Gangsters in Stressing Early Training.

The most critical situation education has ever seen is being met with placidity by a large percentage of teachers, Miss Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association said last night before the Education Association of the District.

Teachers must rise, she said, if education is to hold its gains and continue its progress in the face of budget cuttings and legislative economy.

Miss Hale spoke at a symposium on elementary education held at the Cooke School. She said that primary teachers should be as well trained as those of secondary schools because early training is the most important in molding the child's life.

Commenting on gangsters, she said "I am not a sob sister, but I would liked to have been able to train some of them when they were 7 years old."

Saying that they seemed to get away with anything and elude the searchers of an entire nation, she said, "are we getting dumb—do we need someone as shrewd as they?"

Miss Dorothy Cook, teacher at Buchanan School, reported on a survey on how pupils there spend their leisure time. She said that in the fifth and sixth grades there was a marked decline in the use of library facilities.

Of the children who attended motion pictures during a two-week period, she said, 86 per cent saw pictures of a doubtful or definitely unfavorable nature.

Other speakers were Miss A. G. Lind, principal of Johnson-Bancroft School, whose subject was the "Interrelation Between School and Community," and Mrs. Margaret M. Coe, of the Park School of Baltimore, who spoke on "Social Adjustments."

"HORSEWHIP" CASE NEAR JURY'S HANDS

Mrs. Stevens Testifies She Hit Official of Union With Dog's Leash.

The "horsewhipping" case will go to the jury in Justice James M. Proctor's court at the District Supreme Court today. That much was indicated yesterday when the attorneys for the five defendants and Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica, for the Government, concluded their versions of what happened at Tenth and K streets northwest, in March, 1931, when Charles E. Haury, supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was attacked.

Incidentally, it was learned that there was no horsewhip in the case; that the instrument that was used on Haury by Mrs. Ruth Stevens was a dog's leash. Mrs. Stevens, in court yesterday, said that she hit Haury with the leash when he "insulted" her.

Besides Mrs. Stevens, William I. Green, C. B. Rockenbaugh, Robert S. Stevens and Robert Ely are on trial on an indictment charging them with simple assault upon the labor leader.

Justice Proctor's charge to the jury will be delivered today, and with that the jurors will begin consideration of the claims and counterclaims that have accompanied the hearing of the charges.

Southeast Business Men Elect McGrath Head

P. C. McGrath was elected president of the Southeast Business Men's Association to succeed Dr. Chester Pyles. The group met last night at Walker Hall.

Other officers named were Dan Reynolds, vice president; Thomas F. Mudd, secretary; A. J. Berlin, treasurer, and J. H. Reiley, sergeant at arms.

Lawyer Sentenced To Jail for Fraud

Peter P. Richardson Convicted of Fleecing Woman Client.

Peter P. Richardson, colored, member of the District bar, was sentenced to two years in jail on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, by Judge F. Dickinson Letts, following the denial of a motion for a new trial yesterday.

Richardson was ordered committed to jail, although he noted an appeal. Until his appeal is perfected, it was understood, Richardson would be kept in jail.

The charge against the lawyer was that he procured from Alberta Terrell her signature to a fee simple deed which conveyed the property away from the woman, whereas, it was brought out at the hearing, she thought she was signing a deed of trust. Assistant United States Attorney Irving Goldstein prosecuted Richardson. The document was signed on December 23, 1930, and shortly thereafter, according to the evidence, Richardson obtained a loan on the property.

Police Find Boy Believed Kidnaped

Capital Mother Is Alarmed as Ill Youth Walks Out in Sleep.

Headquarters detectives were called to 6016 Third street early yesterday by a hysterical mother who reported that her 9-year-old son had been kidnaped from his bed. Mrs. McNally, mother of young Jack, led Detective Sergts. John Dalglish and William DuBusky to the boy's empty bed beside an open window.

She related that she was aroused about 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning by a scream, and ran into her son's room only to find the bed empty. She then notified Lieut. Charles J. P. Weber at police headquarters.

The boy was found wandering down the street in night clothes by a radio scout car from the Thirteenth Precinct, while the detectives were conducting an investigation in the vicinity. The boy said he was Jack McNally and he jumped out of the ground-floor window because he dreamed that some one was chashing him. He was suffering from fever which accompanied a cold.

HACKMAN CRASHES MACHINE IN EFFORT TO ESCAPE ROBBER

Vehicle Wrecked and Driver Loses Money and Is Sent to Hospital.

BOLD INTRUDER STEALS WHISKY FROM DRUGGIST

Glassford Investigates Two Incidents Personally on Night Duty.

A taxicab driver crashed his machine into the side of a house at 1038 Tenth street northeast last night in an effort to escape from a holdup man who had already robbed him, but who kept him under the threat of an automatic pistol. The cab driver was loser throughout the proceedings.

The holdup man got his money, his cab was wrecked when it hit the house and he went to Casualty Hospital with a possible arm fracture, injury to his shoulder, and numerous bruises and abrasions.

A short time later Dr. Harry E. Miner, druggist at Eighth and East Capitol streets, was robbed by a holdup man who forced him to open the cash register, place $20 in bills and change in a paper bag, open the safe and wrap up three pints of prescription whisky and two-fifths of rum and then accompany the holdup man to the front of the store.

Calmly Walks Out.

There the man placed his automatic pistol back in his pocket while he scooped the highest-priced cigarettes from the shelves. He calmly departed with the pistol in his coat and both arms filled with loot.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police was on duty last night as "night officer of the day." He has interested himself in the wave of holdups—there have been more than 30 during the last week—and personally investigated the two last night. He patrolled the streets until 2 o'clock yesterday morning and returned to his regular term as night officer last night.

He took charge of the .32-caliber Mauser pistol and the gray fedora hat the taxicab robber dropped in the cab when it crashed into the side of the Tenth street house.

Takes $4 and Wallet.

The taxicab robber started to work on Walter Jackson, colored, 30 years old, of 1128 Fifth street southeast, at Seventh and L streets northwest. He hailed Jackson's cab there and hardly let him get a block to Eighth and L northwest, before he produced his pistol and made Jackson turn over his wallet, containing $4 and his driver's permit.

Then the man made Jackson drive on under threat of having his "head blown off" if he failed. The cab driver thought he saw a chance for escape from the threatening pistol when he reached Tenth and Florida avenue northeast. He placed his hand on the door as if he were about to signal for a turn. He flipped the door open with a quick motion and leaped out.

"Mister, you can have this cab!" he exclaimed.

Jackson landed on his feet, but the momentum threw him over and he skidded some distance on his shoulder.

Crashes Into Home.

The cab ran over the curb, missed a tree and crashed into the home of Lester Arthur at 1085 Tenth street northeast. The robber climbed from the wreckage and started to run.

Amos F. Grimes, of 1014 Kent street, took in the drama and started a chase after the robber, but the man outran him, west on Florida avenue to Ninth street, where he disappeared in an alley.

Dr. Miner was alone in his store for the first time last night when the holdup man entered.

"Are you a doctor?" the stranger asked.

"I am, sir," Dr. Miner replied.

"Well, you are just the man I want to see, get busy or I'll blow your brains out!" the holdup man commanded, producing an automatic pistol from a coat pocket.

Whisky In Safe.

He ordered the druggist to open the cash drawer, then made him scoop up the money and place it in a paper bag. Then, despite Dr. Miner's protest, he made him go into the rear and open the safe, revealing the whisky and rum. This he ordered placed in another bag.

The holdup man put his gun back in his pocket then, turned his back on the druggist, cleaned the shelves of the cigarettes and walked from the store.

ST. GABRIEL'S PLAYERS STAGE "EYE OF NAGA"

EARLIEST 'DOCTORS' LAUDED BY HRDLICKA

Actual Practice Was Better Than Theory, Curator Says in G. U. Lecture.

The much-maligned "medicine man" of the American aboriginal tribes has found a champion in Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian Institution.

Summarizing extensive skeletal and other studies of these earliest Americans, Dr. Hrdlicka said that before the coming of the white man to the New World medicine and surgery was about on a par with the progress they had reached in pre-Christian Europe.

Dr. Hrdlicka lectured last night at Georgetown University under auspices of the George M. Kober Foundation, and his summary of researches into the diseases, medicine and surgery of the American aborigines was heard by members of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia and other medical scientists. He is the 1932 lecturer of the foundation.

The Smithsonian scientist said that while there were "quacks" among the medicine men of the aborigines and that basically their treatments were magical, the actual practice was better than the theory. The medicine man could not afford to let too many patients die if he valued his own life or his practice, Dr. Hrdlicka explained, and therefore became a master of suggestion who met with a certain degree of success.

The Indian knew of various effective empirical remedies and treatments, he said, and treated most of the common ailments sensibly as well as by magic. Surgery was not uncommon among them and in the Andean region, he said, the "trepanning operation" on the skull was performed frequently to relieve bone depressions on the brain.

Dr. Hrdlicka said the Eskimo as well as the Indian had a superficial knowledge of anatomy. Among Peruvian Indians, he had found evidence that artificial limbs were in use, indicating that the "medicine men" had to be able to amputate a limb.

Considering all things, Dr. Hrdlicka pointed out, his studies had enabled him to form the conclusion that the Indian was a healthy savage before the white man came. He said it is doubtful if there were any epidemic diseases of American origin, such as tuberculosis and other destructive diseases of the white man.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, president of Georgetown University, presided at the exercises last night in the absence of Dr. William Gerry Morgan, dean of the medical school, who had not returned from the Pacific Coast. He paid a tribute to the late Dr. George M. Kober, dean emeritus of medicine, who provided for the endowment of the Kober Foundation.

Schoolboys' Parade Planned for April 30

With five bands playing martial airs, 2,500 members of the American Automobile Association Schoolboy Patrols here will parade down Pennsylvania avenue April 30. Members of schoolgirl safety units also will be in the procession.

The United States Navy Band, the George Washington University Band, the three high school cadet bands and possibly the Fox Theater boys band will form the musical sections of the procession.

Found Victim Of Coal Gas, Baby Is Saved

A baby playing about the floor of its home at 814 Shepherd street northwest was overcome by coal gas from a radiator leak yesterday, but its plight was discovered by its mother before the child was seriously affected.

Mrs. Lillian Fisk entered the room to find 18-month-old Thomas Fisk, jr., in a semiconscious condition near the radiator. She called the fire rescue squad and the baby was quickly revived. It was not thought necessary to take the child to a hospital.

FORMER DETECTIVE ON TRIAL FOR ABUSE

Beating of Prisoner Laid to Robert L. Jones; Jury Quickly Chosen.

Robert L. Jones, suspended detective of the Tenth Precinct, went on trial yesterday before Justice F. D. Letts in the District Supreme Court on an indictment charging him with simple assault upon Robert E. Gibbs, colored, on August 15, last year.

The case is one of those that grew out of the recent investigation into alleged police brutality toward prisoners. Jones is alleged to have beaten Gibbs with his fists and to have kicked him while he was a prisoner at the station house, where he was being held in connection with the investigation of the theft of a ring.

The jury to try Jones was picked rapidly, but three challenges being used by both Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland and Defense Attorneys James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett.

Court adjourned at 1 o'clock, so that the opening game of the baseball season might be witnessed, and up to that time the Government had only laid the groundwork for its prosecution testimony.

$13,500 Is Awarded In Trolley Accident

Consent Verdict Gives Sum to Injured Woman Now in Asylum.

A consent verdict for $13,500 was returned by a jury in the court of Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday in favor of Miss Helen B. Downing, 46 years old, of New York. The Washington Railway & Electric Co., through its legal staff, filed a motion, with Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer joining, consenting to that sum for injuries received by Miss Downing in 1928.

The basis for the suit was the running down of the woman by a street car at Seventeenth and I streets northwest on October 11, 1928. She was crossing the intersection when the street car ran into her, knocked her down and jammed her beneath the front of the car and the street.

As a result of her injuries, the woman is now confined to an insane asylum in New York. Because of her legal incompetency, her brother, Charles F. Downing, who was appointed her ancillary guardian by the New York courts, brought the suit here. Previous to the accident Miss Downing was a traveling sales representative of a large New York department store.

Chain Grocery Damaged by Fire.

Rags ignited in the basement of a chain grocery store at Wisconsin and Dumbarton avenues started a fire last night which halted traffic for about half an hour and brought a few patrons out of the Dumbarton Theater across the street. The fire was smothered with little damage.

ECKINGTON PASTOR CHOSEN MODERATOR

Rev. H. B. Wooding Is Given Honor at Sixty-second Meeting of Presbytery.

The Rev. Henry B. Wooding, pastor of the Eckington Presbyterian Church, was elected moderator yesterday at the sixty-second stated meeting of the Presbytery of Washington City. The sessions, which opened yesterday and will close today with reports of special committees, are being held at the Sixth Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Hobart Evans, of Hyattsville, was elected vice moderator, and the Rev. Alexander T. Coyle, of St. Paul's Church, Cottage City, temporary chairman. Permanent officers of the presbytery are the Rev. Thomas C. Clark, stated clerk; the Rev. George M. Cummings, permanent clerk, and the Rev. Alfred E. Barrows, of the Eastern Presbyterian Church, treasurer.

The sessions today will open at 9 a. m. with a devotional service led by the Rev. Joseph W. Babbitt. Various reports and election of the committee on national missions, class of 1935 and the committee on vacancy and supply, class of 1931, will follow. Shortly before the noon recess three ministers and three elders will be named as commissioners to the general assembly.

The final session will open at 2 o'clock with the examination of sessional records and the various committee reports will close the work of the presbytery for the spring session.

Members were welcomed to the opening session at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Godfrey Chobot, chairman of the committee on arrangements and retiring moderator.

Reports on the work of the Women's Missionary Society and young people's societies were read by Dr. Clark. The presbytery also received the reports of retired ministers, one of whom had 50 years of service and others as many as 40 years in the ministry.

Joseph T. Holmes was received as a candidate for the ministry.

Devotional services were led last night by the Rev. David S. Schaff, preaching by special invitation of the retiring moderator.

Man Is Found Senseless From Gas in His Garage

John R. Wood, 60 years old, of 421 Tenth street northeast, is in an undetermined condition in Casualty Hospital from carbon monoxide gas poison, suffered yesterday when he was overcome while in the garage in the rear of his home.

Wood was discovered in an unconscious condition by Leonard Lynch, of Philadelphia, who is stopping at 1013 E street northeast. The engine in Wood's car was running and the doors of the garage were closed. He was removed to the hospital in the Ninth Precinct patrol.

Fatal Bus Crash Inquest Set Today

Delayed Hearing Is to Be Held on Accident Fatal to Three Persons.

A coroner's inquest will be held this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the District Building into the fatal bus crash at Seventeenth street and Rhode Island avenue a week ago last Friday.

The inquest was delayed to allow several passengers hurt in the crash to recover and testify. Representatives of the Public Utilities Commission, who were also making an investigation, are expected to attend the inquest.

The accident occurred when an eastbound bus of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. crashed into the side of a loaded Capital Traction Co. bus bound to Union Station from Chevy Chase. Three of the seventeen passengers in the Chevy Chase bus died and eleven were injured.

BLANTON DECLARES TAX INCREASE BILLS ARE BEING 'HELD UP'

Threatens to Start Fund to Inform Nation if Mapes Plans Are Killed.

CAPITAL NEWSPAPERS RAPPED FOR OPPOSITION

Assails Sending Measures to Efficiency Bureau for Its Conclusions.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, yesterday charged the Mapes taxation measures are being "held up," and threatened to start a fund to inform "the people in the States" of "what was involved" if the bills are killed in the Senate.

Eulogizing Representative Carl F. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, whose fiscal relations committee mapped the $4,000,000 additional District tax burden, the Texas representative took the floor to attack Washington newspapers who have opposed the drastic Mapes program.

What's Become of Bills?

"What's become of those bills," Mr. Blanton shouted. "What's stopped them. What's covered them up and buried them."

Representative Mapes replied that "it did seem the Senate had taken all the time necessary to pass the bills." He told the Texas representative that he thought "opposition to the measures had pretty well flattened out."

"Why, the Bureau of Efficiency is the last place I would have sent those measures," Representative Blanton said. He told Mr. Mapes he was a "poor man but would gladly give $500 to help him let the people in the States know what was involved in the bills, and what influences were against them if they were killed."

Three Measures Reported.

Three of the measures referred to by Representative Blanton have been analyzed by the Bureau of Efficency, which favorably reported them in amended form. The Senate District committee held speedy hearings on all three of the measures.

Chairman Arthur Capper, of the Senate District committee, now is awaiting the bureau's report on the last two of the bills, imposing a local income tax and abolishing the old 60-40 basis of Federal-District fiscal relationship.

Two Men Are Burned In Oil-Stove Explosion

An oil-stove explosion and fire which followed burned two men in a rooming house at 1324 Ninth street northwest yesterday. Both of the men were burned about the arms, but their injuries were not thought to be serious.

Willie Hudson, 39 years old, colored, of the Ninth street address, and John Lane, 32 years old, colored, of 1513 Seventh street northwest, were in Hudson's room when the stove exploded. They were treated at Freedmen's Hospital. The fire spread from the room in the second floor rear to the hallway and downstairs.

Nurse Surprises Daylight Burglar Ransacking Room

A daring daylight burglar escaped from Children's Hospital at 9 o'clock yesterday morning when he dashed past the day supervisor who surprised him in the act of ransacking a bureau drawer in one of the nurse's rooms. The man escaped with $2 in cash, taken from the room of Miss Alice Ladson.

The burglar was discovered by Miss Edith Tarkington, the supervisor, when she made one of her rounds of the hospital. She opened the door of Miss Ladson's room and was startled to see a man bending over a bureau drawer. The man dashed straight at her, she said, and, badly frightened, she stepped aside.

The man ran down the hall and made his escape before she could summon aid. He was neatly dressed, about 35 years old, and wore shell-rimmed glasses and a dark blue suit. Miss Tarkington told police.

Delayed Cherry Blossoms Are Now Expected Friday

Weather permitting, the Japanese cherry blossoms around the Tidal Basin will be in their full glory by Friday, it was announced last night by officials in charge of the annual display.

Although the blooms are now beginning to show a pale pink, the continued rain and disagreeable weather conditions have retarded their full development. United States Park Police reported that only the normal flow of traffic appeared yesterday in the vicinity of the basin.

A few real springlike days and the blossoms will burst forth in all their beauty. Sunday is expected to be the peak day. Arrangements are being completed to handle the mammoth crowd of out-of-town visitors and Washingtonians alike who yearly gather to witness the height of the color exhibit.
